Alcohol Sales In 1971 Create $32 Million Tax

Figures released today by the United Alcoholic Beverage industry of Minnesota show that in 1971 the sale of distilled spirits in the state generated over $32 million in state excise tax, permit and license revenues. This does not include an estimated additional $18-19 million in state sales taxes or an estimated $13 million in taxes collected by Minnesota municipalities on liquor sales.

The $38 million in excise tax, permit and license revenues goes into the state's general fund where it is apportioned by the state legislature. These revenues are used for education and public welfare programs, veterans' benefits, parks and conservation, law enforcement and other vital state services.

Besides the funds allocated to various state services, close to $6½ million in state distilled spirits taxes was apportioned to local subdivisions of the government in 1971.

In total, federal, state and local taxes account for $4.02, or about 67 per cent of the purchase price of a typical $5.99 quart of distilled spirits in Minnesota, according to the report.

UABI also reported that the alcoholic beverage industry employs nearly 48,000 Minnesotans in over 16,000 producing, whole-saling and retailing establishments in the state. These 48,000 paychecks represent an annual payroll of over $240 million, according to the report.

Otter Tail Head Says Expansion Costs Extensive

"Our company must raise as much money for system expansion and other coporate purposes in the five-year period, 1972 through 1977, as has been invested in the company in its 63-year history to date," Al Hartl, president of Otter Tail power company, told stockholders of his company at their annual meeting in Fergus Falls Monday.

"Our financial performance will be scrutinized carefully by investors during this period," Hartl went on to say, "and how well we perform will determine how successful we are in raisig the $104 million we will need and how much we will have to pay in the nation's money markets for the large portion of these funds that will have to be raised through new financings."

At the stockholder meeting, Hartl and other senior officers of the company reported on progress made by the company in 1971 and on objectives to be met in 1972 and other years in the future. During the formal business meeting stockholders reelected George H. Dixon, president, First National Bank of Minneapolis; Robert S. Davis, vice president and investment officer, St. Paul Companies, Inc.; and Hartl to additional three-year terms as directors.

At a directors' meeting following the annual meeting of stockholders, the directors reelected all of the officers of the company. They are: Albert V. Hartl, president; Warren K. Nye, vice president, electrical; R.O.M. Grutle, vice president, production; Robert M. Bigwood, vice president, management services; C. R. Gustafson, vice president, development; Henry R. Cowles, vice president, planning; Harry C. Johnson, vice president and treasurer; Dennis R. Emmen, controller; John M. West, secretary; Leila Argue, assistant secretary; and Donald West, assistant secretary. In addition J. B. Lillestol was elected as assistant secretary-assistant treasurer of the company.

University To Attempt Cutting Electrical Use

Electricity may be penny cheap, but if a new University of Minnesota program is successful, the Twin Cities campuses could save as much as $45,000 per year by cutting its present electrical power usage by just three per cent in an energy conservation campaign set to begin in mid-May.

The program was originally designed as an energy conservation and anti-pollution measure by Jim O'Gara, senior electrical engineer, and Robert Reid, environmental engineer at the university.

"By cutting down the amount of electricity used by the university," explained Reid, "we're cutting down the amount of coal needed to generate that electricity. Less coal means we're conserving our energy reserves, and also means less air and thermal pollution as a result of burning the coal."

O'Gara and Reid view the program essentially as a matter of education, making students and staff aware of what they can do to save electricity. Suggestions for energy conservation have been circulated to university departments.

Reid stated that he hoped that the program will carry over to student and staff home life. "People would be surprised at how much they could save by turning out lights or turning off televisions and stereos when they aren't being used."

"Unfortunately," O'Gara said, "we won't be able to show anyone a $45,000 savings in our electrical budget because new buildings and equipment raise the university's total electrical needs between five and seven per cent yearly. But if we can cut that percentage even a little, it will not only help us, but will show industrial people that such a program is feasible and economically to their advantage."

MSC Has Grants To Develop Two Newer Programs

Moorhead state college has been awarded $34,500 by the Minnesota state college board's educational policies committee to help spur development of two educational programs.

The awards are part of 10 cash grants made under terms of a program created and financed by the 1971 Minnesota Legislature to stimulate experimentation by encouraging the state colleges to re-examine many of their purposes and the ways they address questions of teaching and learning.

Of MSC's total, $20,500 is to help program planning and evaluation of the college's new center for multidisciplinary studies, scheduled to open next fall. It will offer students not interested in traditional 4-year college programs a strong liberal arts education combined with specific career training in a new program that leads to a 2-year Associate in Arts degree.

The new center is planned to provide training in a number of evolving new careers in such areas as law enforcement, environmental health, recreation management and rehabilitation counseling.

An additional $14,000 was awarded MSC to help its business division plan and develop an accelerated business degree program that could be completed in three years.

The first awards to Minnesota state colleges under this program were announced last fall.

In this second round of awards, grants totaled $150,000 and MSC's $34,500 was the largest amount awarded to any of the six state colleges that entered proposals. The committee based its awards on recommendations from a 2-man advisory committee that studied 28 proposals from state colleges at Marshall, Bemidji, Winona, St. Cloud, Mankato and Moorhead.

In reaching their decisions, Dr. Robert Haywood, vice president for academic affairs at Washburn University, Topeka, Kans., and Dr. Vito Perone, dean of the University of North Dakota's new school for behavioral studies in education, Grand Forks, were guided by six dimensions: innovation; potential for introducing significant change within the institution or one of its subdivisions; non-traditional nature of proposal; potential for enlarging insights into the teaching-learning process; possibility of adequate evaluation; and implications for new careers.

Means Devised To Curb Litter Along Highways

Budget-conscious authorities across the nation, bent on putting to better use the half billion tax dollars spent annually on litter cleanup, are pleased and astonished by the many generous, well-planned offers of assistance being volunteered this year by private interest groups, both regional and national.

Some state highway agencies have taken extraordinary measures to cut litter costs. Florida users prison labor to pick up most roadside trash. Last year Washington availed itself of a state work incentive plan by employing persons on aid to dependent children welfare rolls to clean up road rubbish in urban areas. Oregon, with a $600,000 litter problem, has made a new color film of the scenic beauties of Columbia Gorge, which concludes with a subtle, yet effective anti-litter message.

By far the most promising new development, however, is the all-out nation-wide anti-litter campaign dubbed "Pitch In!" The campaign, sponsored by the U. S. Brewers association, had its debut in North Carolina.

The North Carolina pilot program, undertaken in cooperation with the state highway commission and state beer wholesalers association, centers around 250 new wide-mouthed litter receptacles donated to the commission by the association. Designed and developed in cooperation with the commission's landscape division, the handsome new containers, lined with disposable polyethylene bags, will be placed in rest areas and strategic locations along interstate and primary highways.

"Pitch In!" has since spread to Michigan, where Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc., has stepped up the pace by donating 20,000 plastic litter bags to the Michigan highways department for distribution through its nine travel information centers.

Here at home, although the litter bill is down $30,000 from the year before, Minnesota highways were, in effect, littered with almost $412,000 in taxpayers' money last year. According to Frank Kuhfeld, state maintenance operations engineer of the Minnesota highway department, the savings is attributable, in part, to the efforts of volunteer groups.

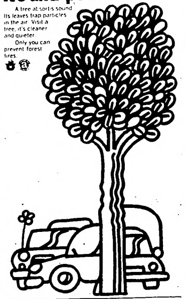
An encouraging start is being made along the scenic North Shore this year, thanks to the Lake Superior Steelhead association. Robert Wolfe, area maintenance engineer of the highway district headquarters in Duluth, reports that the steelhead association, in cooperation with the state highway department, will place litter barrels at key points all along that route.

Wolfe is entering into a new litter prevention plan with North Shore civic organizations this spring, and also hopes to enlist the help of youth groups in highway-coordinated springtime clean-up effort. Litter collection will be accelerated during the forthcoming smelt fishing season as well, he asserted.

It's more than a tree.
It's anti-pollution.

A tree absorbs sound. Its leaves trap particles in the air. Visit a tree, it's cleaner and quieter.

Only you can prevent forest fires.



Of interest to smelt fishermen, and bounty hunters, are the tough provisions of the 1899 law recently resurrected to curb industrial polluters. Title 33, Section 407 of the United States code makes it a federal offense for anyone to litter navigable waters or their tributaries or the banks of those waters with "any refuse matter of any kind or description whatever."

Violators are subject to stiff jail terms ranging from 30 days to a year, or to fines from $500 to $2,500 or both. As a reward, half of the fine collected is paid over to the person or persons who provide information leading to the conviction of the litterbug.

Standards Set For School Buses

School bus safety is the objective of 16 new standards just issued by the national highway traffic safety administration, according to the Minnesota department of public safety. Additional standards are being prepared.

The new standards cover some items already covered by Minnesota law, such as brake fluid specifications and rules for keeping windshields clear. Other subjects cover minimum requirements for air-brake systems, burn-resistant materials used in the occupant compartment, seat belts and secure seating systems for drivers and prohibition of hazardous reflective surfaces.

In preparation are a number of standards applying to new bus construction aimed at greater safety in crashes; improvement of interior design to eliminate hazards to occupants in crashes; stronger seats and seat anchorages, and elimination of lethal surfaces; increased seat back height and better padding; and improvement of driver vision to allow him to see small children in the area immediately in front of the bus.

Another standard, scheduled for early adoption, covers bus window retention and release. This is designed to reduce the danger of ejection on bus rollovers, and to establish minimum escape criteria.

The federal agency charges that "there are school buses on the road today that are ill-equipped and poorly designed. Some are driven by incompetent and untrained drivers, and in some instances the buses are over-crowded and unsupervised."

Casperson Named To Manpower Services Post

Richard L. Casperson, 29, North St. Paul, has been promoted to the post of supervisor of the smaller communities program in rural manpower services section of the Minnesota department of manpower services, commissioner Emmet J. Cushing announced today.

In his new position, Casperson will have responsibility for the department's mobile team, a field unit which assists rural communities in conducting manpower surveys.

Comprehensive surveys provide information on the composition of the work force and detailed data necessary for promoting industrial and economic development. Survey results are published by the Minnesota department of manpower services and distributed to the communities in the survey area.

The mobile team staff also offers a full range of employment services to survey registrants who live outside communities in which employment service offices are located.

Casperson joined the department in 1966 as a counselor trainee assigned to the smaller communities program. In 1967 he was promoted to employment counselor, and worked at the St. Paul youth opportunity center, the East side branch of the St. Paul state employment service and the outreach unit at the St. Paul technical-vocational institute. In October, 1971, he was promoted to manpower services specialist and assigned to the Minneapolis skills center.

A native of St. Paul, Casperson is a graduate of Harding high school and received his B.A. in sociology and psychology from the University of Minnesota.

The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

After three weeks in Europe, I was impressed by the feeling of exhilration just to be back home. This was surprising because after all, Europe is the home of most of our ancestors. Our culture is European.

There is much we can learn, however, from the old world. I thought this was especially ture of Switzerland. This mountainous country is not only beautiful, but its cities are remarkably clean. The electric trains run quietly, on time and they even carry passengers. The roads were generally very good and a new super highway way up on the side of some mountains was an impressive example of modern engineering. Another more subtle characteristic was found in Geneva. Although a city of great wealth, and the center for over 50 world organizations, the people seemed more careful with their things. They wasted less than we seem to do. The farmers along the mountain sides produced more farm land by building neat looking stone and brick terraces. On these little plots of ground they raised their crops.

Some differences, however, made me value our country all the more. While it is true we don't have centuries of past history to cherish, we have the opportunity to live history now. The beautiful cathedrals standing for 500 to 1,000 years are great. Geneva boasts the Reformer, Calvin, as one of its fathers. The old Roman viaducts and highways which are noted throughout parts of Europe and even in Turkey are indeed treasures. To look at them and imagine Roman chariots thundering down those ancient roads is kind of fun. The marble pillars of the old Roman Forum, standing in neat rows with the roofs of the shops long since gone stand as a mute reminder of a glorious past. We don't have those things. Now these countries have a great culture and great scientific and practical skills. In spite of all these assets, why did so many intelligent, industrious and deeply religious Christians, for example, leave them to come here?

The answer is the people. The systems of government made by people drove them here. For centuries people had found themselves more and more in a bind. They seldom were able to work their way out of any level of society into which they were born. This is not so true today, of course. The new world promised freedom from economic blind alleys. The systems of government that did the most for our country indirectly were those who suppressed freedom of religion. The refugees from this sort of thing became some of our best leaders.

There are many little things such as clean drinking water and brighter electric lights that make one value our country. These things are not the most important. We are able to avoid living in the past because we have so little of it. This is good because we can learn from history in the old world and apply it to ours. We can learn from them that deficit spending is dangerous. We can learn from them that to ignore a dictator next door who promises to take over their country is no idle talk. In one generation the U.S. has in 2 wars helped those who refused to be ready for such neighbors. We should be able to learn and apply this to enemies here at home who promise to destroy our system.

notes from the governor

The immediate question at a recent hearing of the Interstate Commerce commission in Redwood Falls was whether an 8.2-mile Chicago and Northwestern Railway branch line between Wanda and Sanborn should be abandoned.

The C&NW spokesmen testified the line was a loser, that the railroad should not be required to keep it in operation.

Other witnesses, including Sen. Walter Mondale and myself, protested the abandonment and advocated a moratorium on all rail abandonments. We said a national transporation policy must be developed before a vital link in the economic life of rural America is allowed to vanish.

The transporation policy, I said, "must be a policy that allows the railroads to modernize and make a reasonable profit. But more importantly, it must be a policy that helps rural America flourish and prosper. It must be a policy that keeps our political and economic systems healthy."

The role of the state in preventing railroad abandonments will be limited so long as the final arbiter is a federal agency and so long as the profit-and-loss statement of the railroad—not the health of rural America—is the sole criterion for such decisions.

But while the fight to preserve the rural rail freight lines is carried to the ICC in Washington, we are proceeding in Minnesota to develop a comprehensive transportation plan on a state level.

Several weeks ago I asked state highway commissioner Ray Lappegaard to chair a task force charged with the responsibility of preparing legislation for establishment of a department of transportation in Minnesota.

The work-study program just approved by this 16-member group will include an extensive study of the transportation situation in outstate Minnesota.

It will consider rail transport along with other modes. And it will grapple with such basic questions as the adequacy of existing transportation service and how much we are prepared to pay for improvements.

The project the task force has undertaken is broad, but I am confident it can help reverse the social and economic trends that have adversely affected rural Minnesota in recent decades.

Fourth Annual Jaycee Invitational Track Meet Scheduled Saturday

Thief River Falls will be shooting for its third straight Prowler-Jaycee invitational track meet championship Saturday when the Prowlers lead a 17 team field in the fourth annual event on the Prowler track, beginning at 10 a.m. with the field events.

This year's meet has been renamed, "The Quentin Jones--Jaycee Invitational," honoring long time Prowler track coach Quent Jones who will be retiring after the 1972 season.

Bemidji won the initial Prowler-Jaycee meet in 1969, but the Prowlers won back to back titles in 1970 and 1971 and carry the favorite's role again this year.

The 17-team field includes Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Warroad, Ada, Warren, Goodridge, Newfolden, Walker, Stephen, Fertile, Oklee, Fosston, Baudette, Bagley, Lancaster, Roseau and Hallock.

The schedule of events will find the high jump and shot put competition starting at 10 a.m. while the preliminary running events start at 10:30 with the 120-yard high hurdles. Following the highs will be the 100, 180-yard low hurdles and the 220 prelims, with the heat winners advancing into the afternoon's finals.

The afternoon sessions will start at 1 o'clock with the high hurdles, pole vault, discus and long jump competition. The 100-yard dash finals will be run at 1:10, followed by the mile, 880 relay, 440, low hurdles, 880, sprint medley relay, 220, two-mile and the mile relay scheduled for 3 p.m.

Prowler thinclads are expected to be among the top finishers in many events, but top runners from around the area will also figure heavily in the individual scoring.

Among the top Prowler performers will be senior captain Mike Fitzgerald in the 440-yard dash. Fitzgerald has turned in a 52.0 this season, but he'll be pushed by teammate Scott Olson, who has been clocked in 53.0 this spring, and by Jim Coffee of Walker, a 53.8 runner.

Another event in which the Prowlers are expected to battle for a first-place ribbon will be the 100-yard dash, where junior Markoe Hanson has run a 10.5 and senior Rob Swenson a 10.6 this year. But Walker's Mike Gardner has matched Hanson's 10.5 in the event.

Gardner has turned in the best 220 time this spring, a 23.0, with teammate Gorwin Osteloh close behind with a 23.5. For the Prowlers, Hanson has been clocked at 23.6 and Swenson at 23.7 this spring.

Jim Sims

Ada's Ron Heiraas has turned in a 2:00 performance in the 880 this season, but Prowler senior Paul Battleson and Jeff Lindberg of Fertile are close behind with a pair of 2:01 clockings.

Fertile's Paul Yostle, with a 4:40 time this year, leads the mile performers with the Prowlers' Greg Bulger and Fosston's Chuck Fridley also in the race with a 4:48 and a 4:49 respectively.

The two-mile event is expected to be a toss-up between state wrestling champion Mike Hanlon of Bagley and Scott Charboneau of Warren, both have turned in 10:25 times.

East Grand Forks' talented Kurt Knoff is expected to make his first appearance on the track this spring Saturday and will be among the favorites in the low hurdles. Last season Knoff ran a 20.8. Expected to challenge Knoff will be the Prowlers' Doug Aaseby, who has run a 22.0, and Walker's Scott Burns with a 22.4 this season.

In the high hurdles Craig Balstad of Fertile and Season McKnight of Fosston have each been clocked at 16.1 this year.

The Prowlers' top hurdler, junior John Wangberg, will not be able to compete Saturday because of a pulled hamstring muscle suffered in Friday's meet at Bagley. It is hoped that Wangberg will be back in action for the Northwest Conference meet Tuesday—also scheduled for Thief River Falls.

East Grand Forks' Rip Thompson is the area's top pole vaulter with a best vault of 12-6 this year. Fertile's Russ Johnson has turned in an 11-6 performance.

Another East Grand Forks athlete, Gordy Hangsleben, has tossed the shot put 48 feet this spring, but the Prowlers' Rande Smith is close behind with a best throw of 45 feet.

Long jump competition will probably be between Warren's Mike Nicholls and the Prowlers' Kent Smith, both of whom have leaped over 19 feet.

First place is up for grabs in both the high jump and discus events where numerous competitors have matched the same height and distances.

The Prowler relay teams; the 880, mile and sprint medley squads, are favored in their events, but may receive stiff competition from East Grand Forks in the 880 event where both schools have been clocked at 1:35.1 this year.

Although three new records were set at last year's meet, there will be no individual returning record-holders on hand this season. The meet records in all the events are as follows:

High jump, 6-0 by Scott Habstritt, Roseau 1970; shot put, 50-4½ by Dave Uhlir, Mahnomen, 1971; long jump, 20-7 by Gary Hanson, Bemidji, 1969; high hurdles, 16.1 by Wayne Wagner, Crookston, 1969, 100, 10.1 by Dave Decker, Bemidji, 1969; mile, 4:51.4 by Kim Murphy, Thief River Falls, 1971; 880 relay, 1:35 by Bemidji, 1969; 440, 54.1 by Brad Wubbells, Bemidji, 1971; low hurdles, 22.1 by Wayne Wagner, Crookston, 1969; 880, 2:05.6 by Frank Krahn, Warroad, 1969; discus, 139-9 by Ron Johnson, Roseau, 1970; pole vault, 11-6 by Curt Johnson, EGF, 1970; 220, 23.1 by Dave Decker, Bemidji, 1969; two-mile, 10:09.1 by Don Jamieson, EGF, 1969; mile relay, 3:40.7 by Crookston, 1969; and sprint medley, 3:59.1 by Warroad, 1969.

Prowlers Dump Ponies 11-4

Lincoln high school opened its 1972 home baseball schedule Monday with a lopsided 11-4 triumph over Warren despite the fact that the Prowlers outhit the Ponies only 5 to 4.

Prowler shortstop Kim Johnson's initial run of the game set the pattern for the entire mistake-filled afternoon for the Ponies as he walked, advanced to second and third via a pair of passed balls and scored on a fielder's choice in the second inning.

After dropping baseball during the 1971 season, the Ponies might have begun wondering about the wisdom of resuming the sport yesterday as Warren committed seven errors, allowed seven passed balls, threw a wild pitch, walked three batters and hit another during the seven inning affair.

Senior right hander Mike Hamilton went the distance on the mound for the Prowlers to pick up his second win of the campaign. Hamilton struck out eight and walked only one as he retired 12 straight batters during the middle innings before the Ponies scored four times in the top of the sixth.

Thief River Falls, after going down in order in the first inning, scored three runs in the bottom of the second on just one hit. With one man out Johnson scored the game's first run and was soon followed home by first baseman Pete Sullivan and left fielder Bruce Engel on a sacrifice by Hamilton and a single by center fielder Rob Almquist.

The Prowlers added a fourth run in the third inning when catcher Ordean Peterson reached base on an error, advanced to second and third on a fielder's choice and a passed ball and then scored, with two men out, on another passed ball.

While Hamilton was facing just three men an inning, the Prowlers erupted for four runs in the fourth, again with the aid of just a single hit.

Third baseman Jon Jensen opened the Prowler fourth when he reached base on an error. After the next two batters were retired, Almquist was hit by a pitch, right fielder Rick Johnson singled and second baseman Tom Hanson reached on an error. All four baserunners scored.

The Prowlers upped their lead to 10-0 in the fifth when Jenson walked, pinch hitter Gary Burstad singled and Hamilton delivered a two-run triple.

Hamilton struck out the first man he faced in the sixth-the 14th man in a row that the Prowler senior retired, before the next five Warren batters reached base. A walk, an error, a pair of singles and a double drove in Warren's four runs of the game.

The Prowlers finished the game's scoring in the bottom of the sixth when pinch hitter Don Dicken singled, and with the help of two passed balls, later scored.

Hamilton again faced just three men in the last half inning as he struck out the final batter after a double play wiped out Warren's final base runner.

Quentin Jones Honored In Prowler Track Meet

Saturday's annual outdoor invitational track meet on the Prowler track has officially been re-named, "The Quentin Jones - Jaycee Invitational," honoring Prowler assistant track coach Quentin Jones who will be retiring this season after 30 years of cocaching in Thief River Falls.

Jones, presently the elementary athletic supervisor in school district 564, began his Thief River Falls coaching activities in the fall of 1942, assisting Prowler football coach Willard Kottke, now director of community services at Northland state junior college.

"My activity in football was two-fold," recalled Jones. "I was to be the team's trainer and help expand the program. For several years I was the "B" squad coach before moving down to the junior high, and I even coached the Knox "touch" team one fall."

For a short spell in 1942 Jones was head basketball coach at Lincoln, taking over the Prowler squad for a week following the departure of coach Kottke for military service and the arrival of new coach Glenn Hanna.

But Jones' main responsibility at Lincoln has been track, serving as head coach for 16 years, winning 14 district 31 titles and six region eight crowns. During his 30 years of coaching track in Thief River Falls Jones has been part of 25 district 31 championship teams.

A Jones-coached squad has never been able to win a state track title, but he has had individuals place among the top five in nearly every event on the state level. Jones coached two Prowler high jumpers, Al Williamson and Keith Rosengren, to second place finishes in the state meet.

The veteran coach started the Lincoln cross country program in 1953, beating Crookston by one point on a first-place finish by Oliver (Ollie) Swanson, for their first district 31 cross country crown. "And once we started, we continued to win the district and regional," said Jones. The Prowler cross country runners went on to place seventh out of 50 teams in the state meet, with Larry Krohn finishing third in the state competition.

Looking back at the early days of cross country running Jones said, "In those days you had to place among the top in order to eat. Any boy placing higher than 50th out of 200 runners would receive state travel money. We always ate well!"

Jones also helped out with the Lincoln golf and tennis programs, coaching the Prowlers to a third place finish in the state golf tournament behind the medalist play of Keith Jorde.

Thief River Falls was the first district school to field a tennis team, sending their netmen directly into the semi-finals of the state meet before the state divided into regional tournaments. "In one of our first regional meets, if I remember correctly," said Jones, "Don Engelstad won the singles in tennis, came over and placed third in the 880-yard run of the track meet and returned to the tennis court where he and his partner "Bones" Magnuson swept the doubles tournament. We had things pretty much our own way in the district and region," Jones remembers.

An example of Thief River Falls' athletic domination was the old Northwest Conference. The league consisted of Crookston, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Grand Forks Central (the only school in Grand Forks then), Devils Lake and Grafton. In four years the conference existed the Prowlers were champions in track, golf and tennis in all four campaigns.

Recalling the old Northwest Conference Jones remembered starting out for meets carrying all three teams in the same bus, "We were literally hanging out the windows," Jones said. "The distance runners would come latter by car, then when we were ready to return as soon as the 880 relay had been completed - with the relay team riding back in the cars again."

One of Jones' main functions, besides coaching track, was to expand the athletic programs, including starting an intramural wrestling program. "They would put on preliminaries for Bill LaFave's wrestling matches," said Quent, "Arnold Narverud and his partner got so they could put on a better show than the main-liners." No other northwestern Minnesota schools competed in a wrestling program at that time.

With the help of the city recreation board, Jones began the present youth baseball program. "I would put in double duty at the beach so the life guards could go over to the East Side park and organize a game between the East and West sides," Jones pointed out. "The interest grew to the point where we took a team over to Warren in one of Bill LaFave's milk trucks to take part in a tournament. We lost in the finals, but the interest grew so much, that by the next year we had many teams sponsored and uniformed by several civic groups.

And with the help of the recreation board once again, Jones led the drive to start a city skating program, putting up rinks on the school grounds and erecting a warming house in the Northrop school yard. High school boys helped in the program - by organizing grade school teams, while also keeping wood in the old stove in the warming shack.

Also on the grade school level, Jones opened up the high school gym from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. every Saturday for basketball and tumbling, with about 200 boys taking part in the program each week.

Jones was also in charge of the boys who used to put on half-time entertainment at the Prowler basketball games. The intermission shows featured tumbling, flying rings, parallel bars, high bar and trampoline, using the program as a winter training routine for his track squad pole vaulters.

Jones recalled that drivers' training even played a part in the sports program. "We would arrange to take farm boys home after practice by having them practice their driving at the time. This led to the Rotary taking on the job and now the late bus. The practice used to run our school day to about 9 or 10 p.m. many times," Jones said.

Quent has been honored by the city of Thief River Falls as "Citizen of the Year," as well as being named "Track coach of the Year," by his fellow coaches in district 31. He has been the runner-up in voting for the region eight and state "Coach of the year," honors. Jones is presently a member of the Governor's Physical Fitness Council and is a member of the Minneapolis Tribune's "25 Year Coach" organization.

"But the best honors I've received have been the enjoyment of working with these young boys and watching the program grow," said Jones.

Crookston Wins Northwest Conference Tennis Crown

Crookston ended Thief River Falls' Northwest Conference tennis championship reign at just one year Tuesday as the strong Pirate squad captured the 1972 league tournament on the Bemidji state college courts.

The Pirates finished the day's activities with 12 points, finishing ahead of Bemidji with 10 and Thief River Falls with 8. East Grand Forks failed to score in the sixth annual event.

It was Crookston's first conference tennis crown since the league began net competition in 1967.

Crookston claimed individual championships in the first singles by Brent Reichert, the second singles by Mike Wilkens and the first doubles by Marc LaPlante and Pat Shanahana. The other two individual titles went to Bemidji's John Kasier in the third singles and Bemidji's Brian Hazard and Dale Kullhem in the second doubles.

Thief River Falls netmen placed second in three events, with Mark Liden second in the first singles, Jeff Wendt in the second singles and the team of Ross Gutterud and Dave Forney in the second doubles.

In the first singles, Liden was surprised by Reichert 8-10, 6-3 and 1-6 in the first round, but came back to beat Brad Chalmen of East Grand Forks 6-0 and 6-1 and Larry Larson of Bemidji 6-3 and 6-4 to finish second. The defeat to Reichert was the first loss of the year for Liden.

In the second singles, Wendt beat Roy Lillfors of East Grand Forks 6-0 and 6-1 and Bemidi's Virgal Malbraten 6-3 and 6-4 before losing to Wilkens 1-6 and 1-6.

The Prowlers' Kent Hanson finished third in the third singles, losing 1-6 and 2-6 to Kasier and 4-6, 4-6 to Crookston's Butch Olson before beating East Grand Forks' Bob Lagerwey 6-2 and 6-2.

Scott Lund and Tim Engelstad also finished third in the first doubles as they lost to Bemidji's Scott Bjella and Kirby Shofner 6-2, 2-6 and 1-6 and to Crookston's championship pair 1-6 and 4-6 before beating East Grand Forks' Kim Knoff and Tim Sullivan 6-2 and 6-2.

Gutterud and Forney lost their first round second doubles match to Bemidji's eventual champions 4-6, 8-6 and 4-6 before dumping East Grand Forks' Dave Gorman and Gary Miller 6-2 and 6-1 in the second round. The Prowler tandem beat Crookston's Curt Eickhof and Chuck Dillenburg 6-2 and 6-1 in the final round.

Flags, Flares Required For Camper Vehicles

With vacation season approaching and prospective travelers beginning to plan their vacation travel, highway patrol Chief John Harbinson warned them today that certain camping vehicles are required by law to carry flags and flares for emergencies.

"The law provides that all trucks must be so equipped. This includes pick-ups on which camper bodies are mounted, whether the pick-ups are licensed as trucks or as recreational vehicles. It also includes converted school buses and house trailers towed by passenger vehicles. A house trailer is any trailer or semi-trailer not more than 80 inches wide and 35 feet long which is designed, constructed and equipped for use as living quarters, including such use on camping trips.

"The requirement does not apply to a station wagon even though it may be licensed as a truck, unless the wagon is towing such a trailer."

Required signal equipment includes three red, yellow or orange flag at least 12 inches square for daytime emergencies; and three flares, three red electric lanterns, or three red reflective devices, capable of being seen at a distance of 500 feet under normal night-time weather conditions.

During an emergency on a one-way roadway, including freeways, these warnings are placed 10 feet, 100 feet, and 200 feet behind the vehicle, except that on a curve or hill the rear-most warning is placed far enough back, up to a distance of 500 feet, to give maximum warning to approaching traffic. On a two-way roadway, one warning is set 100 feet forward from the disabled vehicle, one 10 feet behind, and one 100 feet behind.

Osborn To Speak At UND Banquet

Dave Osborn, one of University of North Dakota's most famous football players and a seven-year veteran with the Minnesota Vikings, will be the principal speaker May 3 at the UND all sports recognition banquet, which will be open to the public.

Co-sponsoring the annual Sioux athletic awards banquet are the UND athletic board of control and Sioux booster club, according to athletic director L. R. Marti and E. E. (Olie) Dahlen, president of the Sioux booster organization.

The banquet is scheduled at the University center ballroom, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Public tickets for the banquet, priced at $3, are available at the First National Bank, Community National Bank, Valley Bank and Trust Co., Red River National Bank and the First National Bank at Grand Forks Air Base plus the UND fieldhouse ticket office. Corey Colehour is booster club ticket sales chairman and may be reached at Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood.

Luther Bjerke, UND director of high school relations will be master of ceremonies.

Special awards such as All-America, All-Conference and other individual and team honors in each sport, plus special ones made by the booster club, will be made at the banquet.

UND has intercollegiate teams in baseball, basketball, cross-country, football, golf, gymnastics, hockey, swimming, tennis, track and wrestling.

Osborn, a native of Cando, N. D., was a UND halfback 1962-64. He also lettered twice as a sprinter on Sioux track teams.

After a brilliant Sioux career during which he set a number of individual ball-carring records, he was drafted in the 13th round by the Vikings in 1964. He majored in physical education at UND and taught in Grand Forks public schools several years during the off season.

Osborn has been a Viking starting offensive running back several seasons. His most productive season was 1967 when he just missed the elite 1000 yards gained club as he gained 972 yards on 215 carries. He ranked second in NFL rushing in 1967 and set three Viking team records. Osborn also has ranked high in Viking and NFL pass receiving statistics several seasons. He is considered an outstanding blocker.

Boating Safety Concern Stated By Coast Guard

Spring had officially arrived only a few weeks ago, but the slightly warmer temperatures and the sight of snow and ice disappearing on the lake was like a shot in the arm to Joe and Fred, who had just spent a winter with the slush, salt and winter dirt of a large city on one of the Great Lakes.

Out of winter storage and into the water went Fred's 16-foot inboard-outboard. When he put it in his garage last fall he had washed it down and covered it with a large tarp. It had worked perfectly all last year and now, thought Fred, there was no reason for it to let him down on this beautiful spring day.

As the boat slid off the trailer into the icy water Joe pulled it toward the small dock where he, Fred and their three youngsters were waiting. With all hands aboard Fred tried to start the motor and after several attempts it started and ran. . .that is, ran long enough to expose them to the icy blast of a wind which came from around the point of land which had protected their launching site.

Frigid winds of up to 30 knots and 14-foot high seas made it impossible for the small boat to return to shore. The weather, which had been good when they set out, now worsened. Visibility in the 14-foot seas was reduced to about 20 feet and after five hours in the numbing storm Joe and Fred had very little hope for rescue. Covering the three boys with a tarp to keep them warm, they watched themselves drift closer and closer to treacherous inshore ice jams.

This is a fictional presentation of an actual case which could have ended in tragedy but didn't. Luckily Joe and Fred had filed a float plan with someone who was alert enough to report them overdue to the Coast Guard. After Coast Guard aircraft located them, a 36-foot search and rescue (SAR) craft was able to make the rescue despite much personal risk in the cold, windy weather and minimal visibility.

Fred, Joe and the boys were lucky. Many other boaters are not so lucky. Engine or equipment failure accounts for about 60 per cent of the coast guard's search and rescue missions. In early spring when the weather is at best unpredictable, it is wise to make sure your boat is in its best possible working condition before you put it in the water. Waiting several hours for help in April is a lot more dangerous than waiting for help in July. Although bot are dangerous and can be prevented, spring presents the additional problems of exposure to snow, wind, ice and low temperatures.

Most of the trouble can be prevented by pre-season maintenance and other proper precautionary measures. Following manufacturer's recommendations and keeping your boat and engine in good repair will help to make your boating trouble free.

A pamphlet called "Emergency Repairs Afloat, (CG 151)" can be obtained by writing to Commander (b), United States Coast Guard, 1240 E. 9th St., Cleveland, Ohio 44199.

To find out if your boat meets high standards of safety and has all the equipment required by law, ask a qualified member of the coast guard auxiliary for a courtesy motorboat examination. This examination is free and there is no obligation or penalty for failure. In addition, your boat is checked for safety items that are not required by law. If your boat passes, you will receive an official examination decal. If it does not pass, no report is made to any law enforcement authority. The examiner will advise you of deficiencies so that you can correct them and be re-examined.

Krown for 72
Do you spend your time camping? Or setting up camp?
Struggling with cranks that don't crank, a hundred snaps that don't snap, and slide-out beds that don't slide can ruin a great time.
With Krown, you spend all your time camping. Our simple, spring-loaded lift system can't bind or stick. One person can assemble the camper easily. The tent itself is attached top and bottom permanently. No snaps ever. The bed legs are captured on the trailer. No ground contact problems ever. The slide-out beds fit in extruded aluminum tracks for a smooth operation. And they can be easily replaced. Simple lock pins hold them in place. The tilt range and galley cabinets flip easily to normal working height. Your height so you don't have to bend. And all the hoses are already connected.
The whole operation takes just minutes.
Incidentally, it's even quicker coming down. And that can mean a lot if you have to be in the next State by afternoon.

Blame Consumer For High Meat Prices

American consumers are getting what they want at the supermarket, but at prices they'd rather not pay.

The farmer, the notorious "middleman" and the retailer all figure in the current debate over who's responsible for the high cost of food. But they may all be less blameworthy than someone who is usually seen only as the victim of high prices, the consumer himself.

"In the long run the consumer has been the cause of rising food prices," says Willard Cochrane, agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota. He points to consumer preferences for highly processed foods. Prices for these products include the cost of labor and services necessary to market them.

Rapid growth in consumer income over the past 25 years has meant a shift to more expensive foods. Meat, fish, poultry, fruits and vegetables are preferred to potato and cereal products.

Another important factor in the development of the food industry has been the movement of women into the labor force. Households with more than one wage earner have created new demands for convenience foods.

If Cochrane attributes long-run rises in food prices to preferences for, and the high-cost production of, convenience foods, he also thinks the Nixon administration is wrong when it says that the cost of services and conveniences that accompany food is to blame for increases in meat prices in recent months.

Prices paid farmers for live cattle and hogs in the past few months have forced retail meat prices upward. Food retailers may be profiting in the short run from the high farm prices, says Cochrane, simply by applying their fixed profit margin to higher-priced meat. But the real explanation for rising food prices in the past several months, he adds, is rising livestock prices.

In Cochrane's opinion, Trasury Secretary Connally's recent meeting with the heads of 12 major supermarket chains may be successful in causing retailers to "squeeze" their normal handling margins somewhat.

"I symphathize with food retailers and processors," says Cochrane. "Food marketing is not a sector of the economy where high profits are made. It is a highly competitive industry, and returns on investments are low." Retailers, he feels, shouldn't be criticized when comparatively higher short-run profits result from the application of a handling margin that yields low profits in the long run.

The U. S. department of agriculture's inventory of the country's cattle herd indicates that there will be larger beef supplies this year than last. But it seems unlikely that cattle prices or retail beef prices will decline importantly this year: The demand for beef is too strong for that to happen, Cochrane says.

The price of beef will "break," according to Cochrane, only when cattlemen release for consumption the cattle they are holding as breeding stock in the current build-up phase.

Some economists have urged the imposition of price controls on raw agricultural products, now exempt from restrictions. Cochrane, an economic advisor to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman during the Kennedy administration, says that controls on farm prices or at the retail level would be "impossible," both politically and administratively.

If controls on meat prices were imposed now, according to Cochrane, it would take six months to organize the bureaucracy to administer them. Policing would be impossible, and a black market would develop, with "many a butchering in his backyard."

Because consumers are so fond of beef and continue to buy it as prices increase, Cochrane thinks a large-scale consumer boycott of beef will never develop to force prices down. But he has a suggestion for anyone who wants to cut food costs.

"The answer," says Cochrane, "is to eat beans. I mean it. And I'm not talking about canned beans; I mean the ones you have to cook for four hours. If everyone would substitute beans for meat twice a week, two things would happen. First, the price of beans would go up, and second, the cost of meat would come down."

Douglas Olson Enlists In Navy

Douglas C. Olson

Douglas C. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Olson of Goodridge, recently enlisted in the U. S. Navy and is taking recruit training at San Diego, Calif.

Olson enlisted in the Navy's three-year "Seafarer" enlistment program. Following completion of his training, he will be assigned to one of the Navy's seagoing ships stationed on the coast of his choice.

Olson enlisted through Navy recruiter Bill Bashaw at the Armed Forces recruiting station in Thief River Falls.

"TOO MANY COOKS SPOIL THE BROTH?" Not when veteran entertainer Pat O'Brien does his bit for Sister Kenny Institute of Minneapolis. Friends of the Institute are sponsoring a recipe contest to raise funds for the internationally known rehabilitation center. Residents of this area are invited to submit favorite recipes with contributions — a dollar is recommended for each entry — Recipe Roundup, P.O. Box 9904, St. Paul, Minnesota 55199. Closing date is May 15. Actor O'Brien, noted for his recipe for Irish stew which was created by his Mother, was the first entrant. He is shown at the St. Paul Athletic Club with Florrie Deaner, R.N., and Sandy Sauer, nurses aide, of the Institute. The contest ends May 15, and an independent organization will do the judging. Top prizes include a '72 Volkswagen, a boat-motor-trailer, a diamond ring, complete fishing tackle, and vacation accommodations. All prizes are donated.

Motor Vehicle Registrations Gain In State

Minnesota automobile registrations increased by 2.9 per cent to a total of 1,782,734 in 1971, according to the Minnesota department of public safety.

Total motor vehicle registrations, including trucks, buses, motorcycles, and recreational vehicles increased 4.3 per cent to a high of 2,332,220. Trailers of various classifications increased from 371,126 to 417,605.

Greatest change in registrations occurred with motorcycles, including motor scooters and minibikes. Registrations of these vehicles increased from 71,914 in 1970 to 90,154, or more than 25 per cent. It was the second year that motorcycle registrations increased by more than 10,000.

Recreational vehicles also showed a substantial gain in 1971. There were 6,592 such registrations compared with 4,834 in 1970. This was a new classification in that year. Recreational trailers increased from 44,613 to 51,247.

Farm trailer registration declined by 1,179 to 2,704. In this class, trailers of less than 10,000 pounds gross weight which are used exclusively for carrying farm produce and farm supplies are not taxed or registered.

Act Prohibits Employing Youth During School

Minnesota farmers are reminded by Gerald J. Mitchell, of the U.S. Labor department's employment standards administration, that the fair labor standards act prohibits the employment of children under 16 during school hours while school is in session.

This law also bars the employment of minors under 16 in hazardous farm occupations at any time.

"These prohibitions apply equally to migrant children and local children," Mitchell pointed out. "The child labor laws are intended to insure that every youngster has a chance for an education, as well as good health and normal growth. We all too often see that these minors, particularly children of migrant families, are the victims of low wages, long hours, poor working conditions and accidents," Mitchell said.

"We want, and we are actively seeking, the voluntary cooperation of farmers, crew leaders, parents, school officials, attendance officers and all interested persons in seeing that minors are kept out of the fields and in school."

To help in complying with the law, Mitchell urged farmers to obtain the names, ages and grades of all migrant children from parents and crew leaders and to turn this information over to local school officials.

Information and literature about the Federal child labor provisions may be obtained from the Labor department's wage and hour division office at 110 S. Fourth St., Minneapolis 55401.

Tire Buyers Are Advised To Be Sure Of Registry

Department of transportation's national highway traffic safety administration issued a public advisory today, warning all motorists to make sure—when buying either new or retreaded auto tires—that the tire dealer completes a written record of the buyer's name and address and the tire identification numbers.

NHTSA administrator Douglas W. Toms said that even though record-keeping is the responsibility of manufacturers and dealers, under federal requirements, it is the buyer's life and safety which depend on the sales record. For his own protection the buyer should make sure the seller's records are completed.

According to the advisory, tire dealers' sales records are the major source of information when ever a recall of defective tires might be necessary. If a manufacturer's production "run" of thousands of tires includes a number of defective tires, it becomes a crucial matter for every motorist who may have bought such tires to be notified by letter.

"As a practical matter it is nearly impossible," Toms said, "to notify a motorist that he is using a dangerous tire if there is no record of his purchase, breaking totals of 1971. Forecasts indicate that much of the inconsumer's responsibility to verify these records, we want to remind every motorist that an error or omission might allow him to be completely unwarned, in case his tires are recalled. He could be using dangerously defective tires and never be warned of it."

Cited as an example of recent years, by the federal advisory, was a tire production "run" of 71,000 which proved, under federal testing, to be defective. When the manufacturer's recall campaign and notification letters offered to replace the tires with new ones only five per cent of the defective tires were turned in . . and most of these by dealers. Occurrences like these have led to tougher federal standards for record-keeping, the NHTSA said, but unless the consumer helps to "police" the sales record he still takes a dangerous chance in the event of a tire recall which should include him, but doesn't.

"After all it's the motorist's life and safety," Toms pointed out, "so when he buys a set of tires or even one at a time, he should never fail to see that his name and address are written down by the seller along with the identification numbers of every tire he buys."

the good earth

This is the soil, the good earth without which man could not exist. Suppose we woke up tomorrow to find a concrete world. Flowers would wilt; plants would die, and famine would sweep the land.

God, in His infinitely wise planning, gave us the earth to make use of — to care for. Without this care, the soil and fields become barren.

People are not very different. We need three kinds of care if we are to flourish — physical, mental and spiritual. Unfortunately the last, in many ways the most important, is often most neglected.

The spirit is a great part of you! Nurture it by attending the church of your choice.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Good (But Foolish) Samaritan

Farmer Green was standing near a highway crossing when he saw a car run a red light, bounce off a truck, and land in the ditch. Green ran over. Finding the car on its side, with the driver trapped and injured, he managed to lift it upright.

Unhappily, he also managed to strain his own back. Later, after the first few doctor bills, the farmer decided to seek damages from the man he had saved.

"It was his original bad driving that led to my injury," Green reasoned in court.

"But he took his own chances in coming to my rescue," countered the motorist. "If the car was that heavy, he should have gone for help. I appreciate his effort, but I am not liable for his bad judgment."

Nevertheless, the court upheld the farmer's claim, because his injury was indeed a direct result of the motorist's negligence. As for any "bad judgment," the court said a Good Samaritan could not be expected to show perfect prudence under the stress of an emergency.

Generally speaking, because of a Samaritan's good motives, his conduct is judged with extra tolerance. This is true even if there is no real emergency at all. Take this case:

A faulty freezer in a hotel kitchen began to leak fumes of ammonia. One of the waiters, fearing for the cook's safety, rushed to her aid. But in his haste, he suffered a painful fall.

When he sought damages afterward for his injury, the hotel management pointed out that at no time had the cook been in any real danger. Yet the waiter won a judgment, because there had been at least enough appearance of danger "to excite a person of ordinary humanitarian instincts to take action."

Still, the law does draw a line when the Samaritan's action is not only risky but downright reckless. In another case, a woman was killed by a train when she tried to snatch her dog from in front of an oncoming express.

Was the railroad legally liable for her death? A court said no. The judge held that with danger so obvious, and with no human life at stake, she had taken a risk that could not reasonably be justified.

More Bureaucracy

American Hospital association is up tight over a proposed restriction on Hill-Burton funding that grant recipients provide free services for the poor at not less than five per cent of their total operating costs or not less than 25 per cent of their net income.

We don't blame the member hospitals one little bit.

"The proposed regulation does nothing whatever to enhance the ability of hospitals to provide care to these individuals," states AHA deputy director Kenneth Williamson.

"The problems of providing health care for the poor is a responsibility of all people in the country and should not be placed on the backs of hospital patients. In effect, this proposed regulation is not only completely unfair, but it is also thoroughly misleading to the poor of the country. There is no magic about financing hospital care. . . .Every dollar of care provided must be paid for."

Williamson is right, of course. While the department of health, education and welfare may believe itself justified in making such a proposal, it seems to be another bureaucratic bungle brought on by shallow thinking.

Williamson points out that the enormos bureaucratic costs involved for both prodviders of care and for state agencies to implement the proposed regulation could be much better spent in underwriting the costs of care for persons unable to pay. But don't expect HEW to listen to logic—bureaucracy is self-perpetuating. More regulations mean bigger departments and more bureaucrats. This must be the only way in which leeches are still connected with the practice of medicine.

Spending Control

Following is a commentary by Arch N. Booth of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce regarding changes necessary to bring federal government spending under control:

A lot of people worry about federal deficit spending, but nobody ever seems to do anything about it. The deficits just go on getting bigger and bigger. Why?

Well, there are basically two reasons: First, we all tend to favor cuts anywhere but in those programs that benefit us.

Second, Congress is not organized to stick to a budget. It is organized to spend.

Whether anything can be done about the first part of the problem is a matter between each man and his conscience.

The second part of the problem—the organization and nature of Congress—is more susceptible to a general solution.

Incredible though it may seem, at the present time neither the Congress nor any of its committees considers the budget as a whole. The House ways and means committee and the Senate finance committee decide tax policy (income). The legislative committees—such as commerce, agriculture, defense, etc.—Authorize the expenditure of funds (wishful thinking). And the House and Senate appropriations committees decide how much of what is available will actually be spent, and for what purpose (outgo).

This is a point that often confuses the casual observer of Congress. A big authorization is meaningless without an appropriation to match it. And frequently, knowing this, the congressmen will pass an excessive authorization as a political gesture, in the expectation that the appropriations committees will later cut it down to size.

As you can see, the process runs backwards. Congress first decides what it wants to spend, then considers whether there is enough money. A more rational approach would be to start with an estimate of the available money, then allocate it among competing needs on the basis of an established list of priorities.

But before that can happen, it is necessary to get the money-raisers together with the money-spenders, to consider income and outgo at the same time. There is a committee charged with this responsibility—the joint committee on the legislative budget—but it is dormant. It should be revived.

In conjunction with a better coordinated approach to the budget, Congress should insist on detailed, five-year budget projections—for both expenditures and obligational authority—and then make them public. As things stand now, expensive programs with big future costs but small initial outlays tend to be passed and forgotten. The budget is so complex that it's difficult enough to focus on the proposed new additions each year, without having to remember what's scheduled to happen to a program initiated some years in the past. For the same reason, special federal programs, such as Social Security, should be subjected to the discipline of inclusion in the budget.

And that brings us to another facet of the problem. Old programs should not be re-funded automatically every year or two. Each and every program should be measured against a standard of need and effectiveness, every time an appropriation for it is considered. This is called the "zero-base budgeting technique." Those programs that can no longer justify their place at the feed trough should be terminated, not rubber-stamped for another year.

Finally, expensive new programs should be pilot-tested before they are launched full-scale. And the testing agency should not have any stake in the outcome of the test. This is such an obvious matter of common sense that one can only wonder why the idea should have to be proposed at all.

So that's the package: 1. Consideration of the budget as a whole. 2. Detailed, five-year projections. 3. Zero-base budgeting. 4. Pilot testing. 5. Inclusion of all federal commitments in one budget. It wouldn't solve the deficit problem overnight, but it would help correct the conditions that cause it.

What can you do? Let your congressman know what you want. Tell him you favor adoption of these five points. Nothing moves a legislator like pressure from his constituents.

Long Hair Question

Students and administrators of Fairmont are reportedly at odds over long hair for athletes. The hair question has been out of the news for awhile and the revival of controversy anywhere seems to make it news.

There really doesn't seem to be any necessity for a hassle over the question. An athlete's hair length eventually comes down to a decision between the athlete and the coach if there is a controversy to resolve.

The athlete can say "I like my hair long and it's my right to wear it any way I want to wear it. You can't make me cut it."

And the athlete would be right. That has already been well established.

The coach can say "I think your hair is too long, Sport. It gets in your eyes when you try to pick up a ground ball. Nobody, but nobody, plays shortstop on my team with hair that long."

And the coach would be right. The athlete can decide for himself what length he wants to wear his hair. That's his privilege. And the coach can decide for himself who he wants to have playing for him. That's his privilege. Somewhere in between lies compromise.

The problem doesn't seem to be too great among the play for pay boys. It seems inevitable that the Rangers and Bruins will have a hair-pulling match before the Stanley Cup is finally awarded, and the Lakers and Knicks have their share of lengthy locks. We suppose that pinafores will be the next basketball uniform change and ruffles will soon be added to the cute little short pants the hockey players wear. Hair bows will be an added touch.

Let the athletes attempt to wear their hair any length they choose. Let the coaches decide who plays and who doesn't play. Those are rights the individuals have. Those rights should be respected, just as our right to think they look sissified should be respected on an equal basis.

Nader Discredited

In a recent article entitled "Should the Factory Recall Ralph Nader?" Arch N. Booth of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States takes a warranted verbal poke at the nation's most highly publicized "consumer protection" advocate.

Nader had been exceptionally critical of the U.S. Chamber of its opposition to a bill to establish a federal consumer protection agency. The chamber felt that another government agency was unnecessary, and that the consumer interests could be adequately protected by the office of the President's advisor on consumer affairs.

But rampaging Ralph apparently didn't bother to research his charges, and issued some statements about the Chamber of Commerce position and action that were utterly and completely false.

"Mr. Nader could have learned what we favor very easily, with one phone call," Booth states. "We're both in Washington."

"But instead, he proceeded to draw some intemperate conclusions from his inadequate research," Booth adds. "Thus, referring to his misinterpretation of our position, he asks: 'Why do businessmen put up with this nonsense? Isn't it time for some sensible businessmen to investigate the Chamber of Commerce itself?'

"One might well ask the same question with respect to Mr. Nader. Can it be that he is spreading himself too thin; that his research into other matters is as defective as it was in this case? Is a shoddy product from Mr. Nader less reprehensible than a shoddy product from any other businessman? I think not."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor
Sir:

Bravo to the editor for blowing the whistle on the city council meeting(s) at Lon's Cafe! (How about those noon meetings at the Rex Cafe?)

Can't you just hear them—"All those in favor of roast beef say 'aye' ", and "Mr. Chairman, will you please pass the catsup?", or "Remember now, no voting with your mouth full!"

A little further investigation is still in order now to see just who pays for these meals. Do they go "Dutch" or do they go "Taxpayer"?

Easy Oven-Made Banana French Toast

This new banana is actually that famous top quality Cabana banana improved by better growing and handling techniques.

Some of the techniques that are being put to work to improve on nature's product are: scientifically tested trimming of young bananas for larger fruit; field cutting, cushioned carts and more processing stations for fewer fruit bruises and doubled washing tanks for turning out bananas that are beautifully clean and fresh!

In the tropics, computers are working to ensure quality fruit at harvest. From tiny plant to mature fruit, the computer now evaluates everything about the banana from the nutrients in the plant's soil to the amount of rainfall it has had. As a result, the new banana is larger, sweeter tasting, and smooth textured.

In honor of their new banana, Dole home economists have developed this special Easy Oven Made Banana French Toast recipe.

It's really an inviting brunch dish that is as delicious as it is easy on the cook. It is baked in the oven, so you can make many slices at one time. What makes the breakfast-lunch dish company special is the maple-cinnamon banana topping that's spooned over just minutes before serving time. Try serving it with Canadian or strip bacon - it's super!

EASY OVEN MADE BANANA FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
4 slices white bread

Banana Maple Sauce:
4 Dole bananas
½ cup maple flavored syrup
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Beat eggs until foamy; stir in milk, sugar and salt. Dip bread in egg mixture; let stand until all liquid is absorbed. Place in buttered shallow baking dish. Bake in 500°F oven for 5 minutes. Turn toast; bake 3 - 5 minutes more or until golden brown.

Meanwhile, peel bananas, slice lengthwise; place in another shallow baking dish. Pour syrup over; sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake in 500°F oven the last 5 minutes the toast is baking. Remove toast and bananas from oven; cut toast slices in half. Place on platter; top each piece of toast with ¼ banana; spoon syrup over all. Makes 4 servings.

Forests Provide Natural Schools

At a time when the demand for new school facilities is at an all-time high, there is irony in the fact that hundreds of "natural schools" are being overlooked by Minnesota educators, according to William Aultfather, director of the division of lands and forestry of the Minnesota department of natural resources.

The division is contacting school officials throughout the state in a concerted effort to establish more school forests.

The new effort was launched April 28, the 96th official celebration of Arbor day in Minnesota and the centennial anniversary of the event nationally.

"Since the beginning of the 19th century, trees have played a major role in the well-being of Minnesota citizens," Aultfather said.

"Trees have added great beauty to Minnesota," he noted. "They provide food and cover for wildlife, protect the soil from erosion, furnish lumber and wood products and support a vast recreational resource.

"But not enough people realize the untapped value of forests as outdoor classrooms," Aultfather noted.

There are now 51 well-distributed school forests in Minnesota comprising some 4,500 acres of land and water areas. These school forests are managed for wildlife, recreation, water conservation, timber production, and, of course, as outdoor classrooms.

Father of the school forest concept is Dr. C. V. Hobson, professor of geography at Bemidji state college. Dr. Hobson began working for passage of a school forest law more than two decades ago and was rewarded for his efforts when the school forest law was passed in 1949. Under the law, a school district, university, college, junior college or other public educational institution may establish and maintain school forests.

The first step in establishing such a site is for the school board to appoint a "school forest committee." Members should include individuals representing the board, faculty, students and a state forester.

The most popular school forest sites are tax-forfeit lands, usually acquired at no cost from counties, although some are purchased from private owners.

The proposed site should be accessible by an all-weather road and within close proximity of the school. It should have a variety of natural features, recreational potential, various kinds of trees, plants and shrubs, wildlife habitat, open areas, etc.

Division of lands and forestry provides in-depth information on the forest tract, which includes a management plan for all existing resources and provides continuing assistance and expertise on development of the site.

After a tentative site is selected and plan prepared, the school must then make application to the commissioner of natural resources for final approval.

State foresters will also provide some assistance to schools in the organization and presentation of various educational activities. Such topics may include forest development, protection and management, tree and plant indentification, wildlife indentification, wildlife habitat improvement, soil studies, recreational development, watershed protection and studies of aquatic life and natural areas.

"The school forest is a living labratory," Aultfather explained. "Here, the student can 'read' with more than just his eyes—he can touch, hear, smell and even taste the things around him. Certainly, this makes for a much better learning experience than reading textbooks or listening to lectures.

"Here, too, the student can actually participate in managing the forest. By planting a tree or by cutting one down, the student comes to realize the fragility of nature and how even the most subtle changes have a significant effect on the forest and its inhabitants. This is one message that must be understood by everyone if we are to survive in our own environment," Aultfather said.

Anyone interested in establishing a school forest may contact a local state forester.

Pedestrian Study Relates Injury To Car Design

A pedestrian who falls to the ground after being struck by a motor vehicle is often less seriously injured than if his main contact is with the motor vehicle, a study conducted for the national highway safety administration has concluded. "Non-functional, sharp-pointed objects" and "pointed edges of hoods and fender corners" are blamed for the more serious injuries inflicted by automobiles.

The study, conducted by Cornell aeronautical laboratory, concluded that "75 per cent of all injuries (to pedestrians) are produced by contact with the ground or the hood edge and bumper of the automobile, but ground-related injuries were relatively minor in nature."

Rounded design and elimination of "snouts, spearheads and jutting lips" on automobiles "would also serve to eliminate snagging and dragging of a pedestrian during a collision," the study reported.

CAL researchers reported that pedestrians struck by foreign compacts and sports cars were less seriously injured than the victims of American-made automobiles, and that the more rounded models inflicted less severe injuries than "the more box-like foreign and sport automobiles."

Minnesota department of public safety was advised that the research was commissioned by the national highway traffic safety administration as a preliminary to a possible motor vehicle standard on "pedestrian hostile" car design.

VA Hospitals Linked Together In Region Group

Veterans administration hospitals in Minnesota and North Dakota and two in South Dakota are being linked together in a new regional organization effective last Friday.

The five hospitals are in Minneapolis, St. Cloud and Fargo, N. D., and Sioux Falls and Fort Meade, S. D.

They will form a "district" within the VA system of 167 hospitals, according to an announcement today by Dr. Arthur J. Klippen, director of the Minneapolis VA hospital.

He said the VA regionalization parallels the "community hospital-medical center" relationship in private medicine, as well as the regional medical programs and state comprehensive health planning that are regionalizing and linking non-Federal hospitals.

He said this new type of organization was developed after long study and is a method of reaching "a desirable set of objectives," such as the most effective use of VA health resources, including professional manpower, equipment and building; avoidance of unnecessary duplication of administrative activities; economies in purchasing, and improved training and research activities.

However, he emphasized that these are all secondary to the main objective of the organizational change. "That objective, and we are confident that creation of the new district will help us reach it, is better care for the veterans who come to us for treatment.

"Its purpose is to improve the quality of patient care and facilitate delivery of health services throughout the district," he said.

The Minneapolis VA hospital is affiliated with the University of Minnesota medical school, and the VA director said that the role of the medical school, as it relates to the VA hospitals, "will be enhanced by the new organization.

"Cooperative arrangements and working agreements now existing will pertain to, and benefit, the whole system, rather than individual hospitals," he said.

The district is headed by a board of directors composed of directors of the five participating hospitals. The chairmanship of the board is a rotating one with a one-year tenure. Dr. Klippen is the first chairman.

Melding the facilities of each hospital through the Regional Medical District will result in a "total ability" to treat and cure that will exceed the combined abilities of the individual hospitals, he said.

"In recent years, the progress of medicine and technology as applied to medicine has been so rapid that no longer can we expect every hospital to furnish what every patient needs for prevention and treatment of his disease.

"With present acute shortages of medical personnel and high cost of the more sophisticated health care equipment, there is little possibility of providing all hospitals with all staff and all equipment for treating all physical and mental illnesses and conditions. Nor is there any practical or economic defense to trying to," Dr. Klippen said.

He emphasized that hospitals cannot provide first class medical care without weaving together medical facilities and personnel into regions centered upon large teaching hospitals that are affiliated with medical schools.

The VA director said that the VA's first regional medical district was the southern California district established almost two years ago, and that the agency plans to have a total of 37 such districts.

Favorite Nursery Rhyme Characters Come To Life

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, Georgia — For more than two and a half centuries, the nursery rhymes of Mother Goose have sprung to life from the pages of picture books to delight the imaginations of countless millions of youngsters.

Now, in a place called Fairyland Caverns on Lookout Mountain near Chattanooga, Tenn., children are able actually to walk into the world of Mother Goose and see the nursery rhyme characters they know so well acting out their familiar scenes.

The unique creation is Mother Goose Village, the world's most complete presentation of Mother Goose nursery rhymes. It is located at Rock City Gardens, a ten-acre natural preserve that attracts half a million people each year to view its scenic beauty.

The entire setting for Mother Goose Village and each of the more than a hundred nursery rhyme characters were created at Rock City's own studio, and each is an original.

Youngsters view them by walking around a huge landscape crowned by a tall castle, which looks out over hills and valleys with streams and waterfalls, where the various storybook scenes are taking place.

They see such old friends as Humpty Dumpty, Little Bo Peep and her sheep, Little Miss Muffet, Jack and Jill falling down the hill and even the cow jumping over the moon.

The colorful scenes are illuminated by ultra-violet, or "black" light, to add to the magical quality of the presentation.

Mother Goose Village is the newest addition to Fairyland Caverns, where additional fairy tales are recreated, including Snow White, Cinderella, Jack and the Beanstalk, Little Red Riding Hood, Goldilocks and the Three Bears and many others.

And Santa Claus stops at Fairyland Caverns each December to have a personal chat with each young visitor.

Information on Mother Goose Village and Fairyland Caverns may be obtained by writing to P.O. Box 173, Chattanooga, Tenn. 37401.

Some crocheting was done on blocks for the pillow tops and some bed pillows were stuffed and sewed. That's all the work that was accomplished Thursday, as it was fun day, and many played games. Volume 61 — Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota — Monday, May 8, 1972 — Number 37

EARLY ENTHUSIASM during the "Walk for Development" held on Saturday is shown in this photo taken only several miles south of Thief River Falls on highway 32. There were approximately 200 people who began the walk and only a dozen or so had dropped out as the group reached highway 59 for the last leg of the walk. The route began at the Pennington county fairgrounds and progressed south on highway 32 to St. Hilaire, east to highway 59 and back to Thief River Falls along highway 59. Stated purpose of the walk was to raise funds for area development and for education and welfare programs in Tanzania, Africa.

SORE FEET may have deterred some of the hikers in the "Walk for Development" on Saturday, but not these two youngsters. Wanda Holmgren, left, St. Hilaire, and Fay Johnson, Thief River Falls, were in the second group of walkers as they approached highway 59 for the last leg of the walk about 12:45 p.m. Walking on the shoulder of the highways, participants stopped quite often to remove stones from their shoes.

Melvie And Police Chief Give Apology

Earl J. Melvie and Roland E. Waller, Thief River Falls police chief, issued a joint statement Thursday following resolution of a controversy which had been brought before the public recently. The statement follows:

"Chief Waller and Mr. Earl Melvie met today in the chief's office and discussed the problems that had arisen out of a meeting of April 17th. The chief and Mr. Melvie apologized to each other for statements that were made by both parties in haste and under duress.

"After consideration by both parties, there was agreement that no further actions will be taken and that the controversy is now past history. Present charges as listed are now dropped and will not be pursued any further.

"Chief Waller says, 'I apologize to Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Melvie for hasty actions on my part. I am sorry for the mental distress that I have caused them.' Mr. Melvie said, 'For Mrs. Melvie and myself I accept the chief's apology. On my part if the statements that I have made caused distress and mental concern to Chief Waller, I wish to offer my apology.' "

Agreement was reached after discussing the incident and resulting complaint by Melvie on which the city council had approved filing of misconduct charges against Chief Waller.

In a statement last week, Chief Waller also said he was preparing a formal complaint to the governor's human rights commission, charging city officials with infringement of his civil rights. Action on that and other proposed litigation is pending.

The city council has not met since Chief Waller and Melvie reached their private settlement, so the council's response is not known. However, Mayor A. E. Jacobson has made a public statement commending Chief Waller and Melvie for their action. That statement is as follows:

"The controversy that has gained a great deal of publicity and has threatened to disrupt the peaceful and harmonious flow of our community life has been peaceably settled. I wish to commend Chief Waller and Mr. Melvie for having both the courage and the courtesy to face up to the issue, to face up to each other as men of good will, and to place more importance upon the general well being of our community than upon the satisfaction of any personal gain or recognition for themselves. It takes men of stature to resolve their differences as graciously as these men have.

"I have read their joint statement and I am pleased to note that all charges are dropped. May we all subscribe to that decision and forget the past and dedicate ourselves to pursue a course of mutual respect, mutual tolerance and general cooperation."

Other Council Action Listed

In addition to approving charges against Roland Waller, Thief River Falls police chief, Thief River Falls city council conducted other business at its meeting last Tuesday.

Lee Swanson, head basketball coach at Lincoln high school, presented information about plans to obtain a portable basketball floor for the new arena. Swanson and a group of citizens who are promoting the purchase of the floor have been corresponding with a manufacturer and have learned that a used one will soon be available. It is one that a university in Indiana will be disposing of when it purchases a different type of floor. Completely reconditioned, the used one will cost between $6,000 and $10,000. A new floor would cost about $18,500.

The council approved issuance of a special use permit to allow Dr. Donald Goodrich to build a six-unit apartment building on lots 22 and 23 and outlot C in block 1 of Meehan's addition. Council action had previously been postponed because of objections by people living near the proposed construction site. Changes have been made in the plan, removing reasons for the objections. After discussing the new plan with the people who previously voiced disapproval, the council passed a motion to issue the permit.

The council voted and decided not to accept a bid for a new

Mr. Pride To Open Clean-Up Campaign

Phi Theta Kappa at Northland state junior college recently gained 17 new members. They are Robert Bjorgaard, Louise Brandt, Curt Corliss, Joan Fellman, Renne Rud, Shirley Sabol, Mary Sherack, Stuart Waltonen, James Arhart, Marc Granum, Larry Hansen, Mary Jo King, Coreene Kloubec, Susan Moorman, Stephanie Novacek, Beverly Olson and Barbara Waterworth.

About half of the new members attended, and were formally initiated at a candlelight ceremony conducted by Sigma Alpha president Ann Sang.

Membership requirements for Phi Theta Kappa include maintenance of a 3.5 grade point average in a 4.0 point system for at least two quarters.

The organization's purpose is to foster fellowship and devotion to scholastic excellence in its members. This ideal is expressed in the Greek letters "Phi" "Theta" "Kappa", initials for Greek words meaning wisdom, aspiration and purity.

ICC Board Will Meet May 17th

Directors of the Inter-County Community Council, Inc. will hold their monthly executive meeting at the Samhold Lutheran church at Gonvick, May 17 at 6:30 p.m.

The business meeting at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

When Mr. Pride visits Thief River Falls schools Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, it will signal the opening of the spring "Clean-up, Paint-up and Fix-up" campaign. The full-scale approach to community clean-up is being launched again this year as a follow-up to the highly successful campaign a year ago, according to William Duckworth, chairman for the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor A. E. Jacobson has proclaimed May as "Paint-up, Clean-up, Fix-up" month in Thief River Falls and urged all citizens "to devote their maximum effort to be sure their own particular areas are cleaned up and do not remain in an unkempt condition".

In his proclamation, the mayor also noted that all the citizenry of Thief River Falls has excellent reasons to be proud of our community but that there are many areas of the community that need attention if we are to have something of which we can be proud.

Mr. Pride's visits to all local schools will be to recruit troops for the war on litter and debris. "The greatest threat to mankind is the litterbug," Mr. Pride told the Times this morning. "We want to enlist the support of everyone in this clean-up battle. Nobody is too young or too old to do his or her part in community improvement."

A highlight of the campaign will be a parade at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, May 16, with assembly at 9:30 a.m. at Floyd B. Olson park on Third street and Knight avenue. Included will be the Lincoln high school band, TR-Finettes, junior high school band, city street cleaning and sanitation department equipment, fire department, police

Gordon DeLaps Reside Here Following Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon LeLap are at home in Thief River Falls at the Country Side Trailer court following their recent wedding at Trinity Lutheran church in this city and a wedding trip to Grand Forks, N. S.

The bride is the former Bonnie Elleson, daughter of Mrs. Donna Elleson of this city and William Elleson of Crookston. Parents of the Groom are Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Lap of this city.

Rev. Reuben Wangberg officiated at the double ring candelight ceremony attended by approximately 175 relaives and friends. Cathy Barron, a friend of the couple, presided at the organ. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Deb Penning, a friend of the bride and groom, as she sang, "Theme from Romeo and Juliet" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in an ivory floor-length gown styled with a scooped neckline and long, full sleeves gathered to form three puffs. Ivory lace enhanced the cuffs and empire waistline. A matching crown held her chapel-length veil of ivory netting. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and pale pink carnations centered with a heart-shaped cluster of red sweetheart roses.

As her only attendant, the bride selected a friend, Helen Olson of Thief River Falls. She wore a red floor-length gown featuring a scooped neckline and long, full sleeves gathered at the wrists by red lace cuffs. Matching lace marked the empire waistline. To complement her attire, she carried a white fur muff trimmed with red roses, carnations and red velvet tubing.

Best man was Mark Stenseth of Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride and groom. Serving as ushers were Gary Reed and Paul Lendobeja, also friends of the couple residing in Thief River Falls. All wore black single-breasted tuxedos with red boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Elleson chose a brown short-sleeved dress with scallops around the neckline and the bottom of the skirt. She wore black accessories and a corsage of daisy mums and champagne carnations with toast gold trim. A similar corsage was worn by the mother of the groom who was attired in a blue dress fashioned with short sleeves. Her white accessories accented the white trim around the collar of her dress.

Special guest at the wedding was Mrs. Alma Hoard of this city, grandmother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Koop, uncle and aunt of the bride, served as host and hostess for the reception that followed in the church parlors. Registering the guests were Mr. and Mrs. David Halvorson, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. Miss Judie Elleson, sister of the bride, and Paula DeLap, sister of the groom, served the punch.

The three-tiered wedding cake, cut and served by Mrs. Harold Swanson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Roger DeLap, sister-in-law of the groom, was trimmed in red and topped with a triple wedding bell ornament with lace accents. Surrounding each tier were miniature wedding bells. At the coffee service were Mrs. Erick Hoard, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Dick Peterson, sister of the groom.

Waitresses were Wendy and Cory Swanson, cousins of the bride. Presiding at the gift table were Deb Roadfeldt, Holly Narverud, and Sue Morben, friends of the bride.

The bride is a senior at Lincoln high school and is a candidate for graduation with the class of 1972. She is also employed at Northwestern hospital. The groom, a 1971 graduate of Lincoln high school, is employed in the warehouse by L. B. Hartz Wholesale, Inc. Photo, Kenneth DeLap of Dickenson, N. D., brother of the groom.

Annual Spring Dance Given By Newcomers Club

"It might as well be Spring" was the theme of the Newcomers club annual spring dance held recently at the Elks club. Approximately 50 couples were present for the social hour and ham dinner. Several other couples arrived later for the dance.

Entertainment was provided during the dinner with Dr. Arnold Berg as master of ceremonies. Randy Carlson, accompanied by Kathy Wold, sang the theme song. A hillbilly quartet, the Six City Slicker Slumps, composed of Tim Jacobs, Ken Fletcher, Dan Drevlow and Bill Benedict, provided part of the entertainment, as did the "Newlywed Game" with Dennis and Donnie Johnson, Dwight and Irene Ortloff, and Fran and Jean Van Kewen as contestants.

Door prizes, donated by merchants in Thief River Falls and surrounding towns, were awarded throughout the dinner. Dan Drevlow served as auctioneer for the paintings by Mrs. Margaret Noyes, art objects made by club members, and a quart of whiskey donated by the Elks club. Proceeds from the auction will be put into the club treasury to be used for other community activities. During the dance, the music was provided by "The Fugitives". The mini-bike, donated by Aretco distributors in conjunction with Vern's Outdoor Sports, was won by Grant Skelton of Thief River Falls.

Lady Of Snows Receives Three State Awards

Our Lady of the Snows court 2021, of St. Bernard's Catholic church, Thief River Falls, received the greatest number of awards given to a single court at the Catholic Daughters of America convention held recently at Detroit Lakes.

Awards received by the local court were for first place newsletter, which will be entered for national competition hours spent helping the aged, and membership growth. Other courts in the state receiving awards were St. James for ecumenical; International Falls, civic involvement and public relations; Red Wing, social involvement; and Winona, educational involvement. Winona's court, which was organized in 1913, was recognized for being the oldest court in the state. Individual recognition went to two members, one a mother of 22 children, and the other to a mother of 13, who at the age of 75 years received her BA degree last year and is planning to study for her master's degree.

The three-day convention, in observance of the Catholic Daughters of America 50th anniversary as a Minnesota State court, featured the theme, "The Golden Years."

Guest speakers were The Most Rev. Loras Watters, bishop of Winona, The Most Rev. Kenneth Povish, bishop of the Crookston diocese; Mary Kanane of New Jersey, National CDA regent, and Donald Baskfield of Minneapolis, assistant U.S. Probation officer. Bishop Watters exhorted the women to become more active in their faith and to mature in their views of God. Bishop Povish, who spoke at the banquet, listed a three-point formula for a better world. He said that to gain a better world, peoples must cultivate humility by listening to others' points of views, they must cultivate hope by remembering that God is still boss; and they must maintain humor by not forgetting how to laugh. National regent Kanane asked for continued support of the Newman centers. She stated that the Catholic Daughters of America help support these centers at college campuses in Minnesota and that at present, there are 38 courts in Minnesota with a total membership of 4,476 students. Baskfield, in his presentation, explained the probation system as the eyes and ears of the courts. Statutes to drug violations were defined and in conclusion, he proposed the use of rehabilitation houses in place of prisons for drug addicts.

The convention agenda included a candlelighting ceremony in honor of 131 who have died within the past two years. Local regent Dee Trudeau reported no deaths in the Thief River Falls court.

State officers were also elected. Heading the group will be Dorothy Willette of Easton. Others are first vice regent Rose Ninon; second vice regent Georgine Alt; secretary, Lila Kein, and treasurer, Esther Pabulicki of Perham.

The state courts also voted to donate $4,000 to Sister M. Giovanni, SSND, program director of the Guadalupe area project (GAP) in St. Paul. This project, lead by Sister Giovanni, cares for the needs of those in the Mexican-American community in St. Paul. For the past five years, she has guided GAP in its teaching of English and Spanish, business skills, manual and artistic skills, remedial instructions, counseling and guidance for teenagers, and furtherance of pride in cultural heritage. Future plans of GAP include a $225,000 Continuation Education Center with live-in facilities for teenage girls. GAP, presently operating out of a large frame house, has assisted over 3,000 young people and adults in conducting over 40 different classes, guided by 80 instructors. Catholic parochial students are not accepted in these classes.

Peterson-Edwards Vows Exchanged Here At Zion

Wedding of Miss Diane Peterson of Newfolden and Dale Edwards of Thief River Falls was solemnized recently in a double ring ceremony at Zion Lutheran church in this city. Rev. Alxander Stoffel officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilman Peterson of New England, N. D., and two of her sisters: Vicki and Debbie, attended the wedding. Also present were the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Edwards of Breckenridge, his sister, JoAnn Edwards, and brothers: Jon, Tom and Paul.

Jerry Joringdal, organist, played Purcell's "The Trumpet Tune" for the processional and Mendelsohn's "Recessional" at the close of the ceremony. Vocalist Mrs. Jon Campbell sang, "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." The Nordettes, a group of high school girls from Marshall County, Central high school, Newfolden, sang, "Prayer Perfect".

The bride was attired in a floor-length, beige linen gown which she had fashioned. It featured a V-neckline edged with a wide ecru-beige hand-made lace, a gift from the bride's aunt, Mrs. R. B. Myring of Minneapolis. Matching lace marked the empire waistline and gathered the full, wrist-length sleeves into three puffs. The beige veil, styled as a flowing train, was also edged with the same lace, as was the coronet headpiece encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and babies' breath. The bride's jewelry consisted of a hand-made white gold pendant set with emeralds and diamond, a gift from the groom.

Attending the bride was her cousin Lynn Peterson of Devils Lake, N. D. She wore a leaf green linen, floor-length gown which she had made herself. The gown was styled exactly like the bridal gown, and was enhanced with beige lace inserts and banding. Her headpiece was fashioned from soft pink ribbon. Accenting the pink in her attire, she carried long-stemmed pink roses. Her pendant earrings were a gift from the bride.

James Pederson of Newfolden was best man. The groom and his best man wore mint green tuxedos with dark braid trim and pink rose boutonnieres. Similar attire was worn by the ushers: Denny Thureen and Jon Campbell of Thief River Falls. The groom's silver cuff links were gifts from the bride and his attendants' tie tacs were gifts from the groom.

The mother of the bride was attired in an off-white woolen suit with pink and brown accessories. A three-piece navy blue and white knit ensemble, with dark accessories, was worn by the mother of the groom. Both wore corsages of pink tea roses and babies' breath.

A wedding reception was held in the Zion church parlors immediately following the ceremony. The Nordettes served as hostesses. Centering the reception table was a wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Oscar Amundson of Newfolden. Trays of petit fours, iced in white and centered with a deep pink rose bud, together with dishes of nuts and mints surrounded the cake.

Mrs. Clarence Carlson of Comstock and Mrs. LeRoy Edwards of Wahpeton, N. D., aunts of the groom, cut and served the cake. Presiding at the silver service, at each end of the serving table, were also aunts of the groom, Mrs. Cy Brinkman of Cold Spring and Mrs. Al Eichers of Rockville. An aunt of the bride, Mrs. Roman Peterson of Almont, N. D., was at the guest book. Shirley Kvamme, Terry Skinner, Shirley Verbout and Sharon Lindemann served the punch as Sheila Brateng and Baeyth Hagen opened the gifts.

Out-of-town guests, some of whom attended the pre-nuptial dinner, hosted by the parents of the groom, the night before the ceremony included Joseph Brinkman of Rockville, grandfather of the groom, and Mrs. Ole Edwards of Wolverton, grandmother of the groom.

Following a wedding trip to Thunder Bay, Ont., Canada, the bride and groom are now at home in Newfolden where both are members of the Marshall Central high school faculty. The bride is a graduate of the Dickinson State college, Dickinson, N. D., majoring in art. She is a member of the Delta Zeta sorority and is an art teacher. The groom was graduated at NDSU, Fargo, N. D., and after serving with the United States Army as a First Lieutenant, he is now a vocational agriculture instructor. Photo—Rev. Wesley Mathre, Viking.

Tiny Grandma

On Sunday, Mother's day, unless something unforseen occurs, we will again be privileged to honor Tiny Grandma, one of the greatest women I've known. Her name won't be found in the Who's Who list, nor will it go down in history books. If you were to ask her, she'd say that she has lead a very quiet life.

Until recently, she was a philanthropist. She doesn't have monetary wealth, nor has she ever had, but she has given freely for years of her one great asset, herself. Born the oldest in a large family, she considered herself fortunate to have been able to have completed the eighth grade. (With her keen memory, she would have been a terrific English or history teacher. Even now, in her late 80's, I wouldn't want to compete with her in a history or spelling quiz.) She was widowed in her early 50's and since then, until just a few years ago, whenever an emergency arouse in the homes of her children, relatives, or friends, she was always there to assist. She welcomed grandchildren, helped families move, nursed the sick, cared for the dying, and just helped-out during a busy spell. Figured in dollars and cents, according to the minimum wages of today, she has given away a fortune. For what, you may ask. The answer is simple. "LOVE". Tiny Grandma has been a great inspiration and I'm thankful that our children have had the privilege of having her as Grandmother. (EMS)

3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon soda

Future Bright For Efficient Dairymen

The outlook for Minnesota dairy farmers is bright—providing dairymen have their businesses attuned to changes and industry leaders keep production in line with market demands.

That's what University of Minnesota Extension Economists Hen Thomas and Martin Christiansen see for the state's dairy industry.

A reduced growth rate in world milk production has had vavorable results for U.S. dairymen, Christiansen points out. World milk production increased about 2 per cent during the 1960's, but declined to about 1 per cent in 1971.

This resulted in a comparatively tight world market situation and the U.S. was able to work off large support purchases at fairly good prices.

However, Christiansen cautions that the world dairy situation can change to a surplus situation in a relatively short time. And it that happens, U.S. dairy leaders will have to find programs to bring production back into line with available markets.

But just maintaining good milk prices does not insure a bright future for all dairymen. Even at present record setting prices, some dairymen are going broke while others are doing very well, Thomas says.

High efficiency levels and a sufficient business volume must accompany good prices to make the dairy business profitable. High production per cow, full utilization of facilities and good crop production are key efficiency areas in dairying. Until a dairyman can work his efficiency into the top 20 per cent of the dairymen in his area, he shouldn't be considering major expansion, Thomas cautions.

He encourages dairymen who are considering expanding to consider three things before they start worrying about details such as placement of the silos:

—First, appraise your long-term dairying goals. Don't plan too small and box yourself in for future expansion.

—Learn from others. You don't have to make all the mistakes—visit other dairymen and find out what works or doesn't work for them.

—Do a thorough job of production and financial planning. Remember that a major expansion will likely cause a drop in production efficiency and a potential depression to milk prices if enough other farmers also expand. This can result in severe cash flow and solvency problems if a workable plan isn't first developed.

Local Woman Receives Award In Horticulture

At the 13th District Horticultural Society spring workshop held April 29 at Hallock, Mrs. Alvin Burstad of Thief River Falls was among the women who received state awards for their work in the organization. Mrs. Burstad received the merit award as did Mrs. Stanley Roadfeldt of Badger. Making the presentations were district secretary Mrs. S. Wilson and district vice president Mrs. Andy Erickson, respectively.

Other awards given were the honorable life membership to the State Horticultural society to Mrs. Edgar World of Roseau, presented by Mrs. A. J. Kramer, and the distinguished service award to Mrs. O. N. Hildahl of Roseau, presented by Mrs. Norman Halvorson. Corsages, made by Mrs. Mary Koglin of this city, were presented to all the special award winners.

A total of 70 guests, representing 14 clubs, were in attendance and were welcomed by Miss Mary Monson of the hosting Hallock garden club. District president Mrs. Norton Nelson of Thief River Falls presided at the business meeting. Several items were aired. Because of the difficulty involved in transporting the huge pumpkins to the district meeting, the group decided to drop the pumpkin contest. It will be replaced by a vegetable sculpture contest. A reminder was given to clubs who have not already sent in their district dues to send them in to Mrs. Helen Tri of Red Lake Falls.

It was also urged that college students from this area, majoring in horticulture and who desire to be considered for the 13th District Horticulture scholarship of $100, contact Mrs. Norton Nelson of Thief River Falls. Applications should be in by July 1. Two scholarships are available this year and will be given to only second and third year students.

Premium lists for the 1972 district flower show were also distributed. The show, with the theme, "Scents for Enchantment", will be held at the Washington school at Red Lake Falls.

Guest speaker at the workshop was Dr. Bruce Beresford of the University of Minnesota Technical college, Crookston. To correspond with the theme, "Blossom Time," he gave a slide presentation on annuals and their uses in flower beds. He also gave a demonstration of how to plant and transplant. He was introduced by program chairman, Mrs. Norma Hanson of Goodridge, who presented each of the guests with a seed packet.

The Country Store and a silver tea concluded the workshop. Half of the proceeds realized from the Country Store will be donated to the State Arboretum. The potted plant door prizes and officer's corsages were donated by Reese's Floral and St. Vincent's greenhouse. Mr. Ash of the St. Vincent Greenhouse urged the guests, as they were leaving, "to remember someone with a flower while they are living to enjoy it as one flower received while alive is worth 10,000 placed on the grave."

THE GREAT MERLIN MYSTERY SHOW
EXCITING FULL EVENING SHOW

Awe, skepticism and bewilderment are just some of the thrills in store for those who attend the performance of The Great Merlin Mystery Show.

Are there really such powers as E.S.P., mental telepathy and clairvoyance? Can the veil of the future be lifted so that we can catch a glimpse of the unknown? Merlin has amused and befuddled audiences for years by, among other things, reading the minds of people right in their own seats in the audience. It is said that Merlin's mental powers are 100 years in advance of our time. His demonstrations include the answering of questions submitted to him by people in the audience. Apparently he receive the questions as a form of mental vibration and then answers the questions according to visions that he sees in a crystal ball. Merlin absolutely disclaims any supernatural powers and answers questions, as he says, simply through extra-ordinary development of his natural psychological faculties. Of course this may be perfectly natural for Merlin but absolutely supernatural for others less wondeffully endowned.

Merlin will also present many of his famed hypnotic demonstrations including mass hypnosis using volunteers from the audience. He will cause a person to become intoxicated on a glass of ordinary water; another to eat an onion believing it to be a peach. Those who volunteer to be hypnotized will feel the weather change from 40 degrees below zero to 120 degrees above zero, all in the twinkling of an eye. After it's all over, the volunteers remember the demonstration as though it had taken place in a dream. Merlin who often hypnotizes individuals with a single glance, claims that if you can concentrate he can read your thoughts and hypnotize you. Curtain time is 8 P.M. at the

Straighten And Shrink Fabric Before Sewing

In the process of manufacturing, fabric is frequently pulled off grain. When material is mechanically wound on a bolt, it's sometimes stretched out of shape. The seamstress needs to remedy these conditions before she starts to sew, says Sarah Cox, University of Minnesota.

If the weave is not affected, the clerk may establish the true crosswise thread by tearing the piece from the bolt. Otherwise, snipping the selvage and pulling a thread or basting along the crosswise yarn are effective. Some fabrics shouldn't be torn to establish the straight of grain, says the clothing teacher.

Check to see if crosswise threads are at right angles to lengthwise threads. Fold the fabric lengthwise, selvages together. If the grainline is correct, crosswise ends will match and be at right angles to the fold.

Straighten the fabric by pulling diagonally on the true bais. If this doesn't true the fabric, baste the crosswise edges together. With the selvages also basted, steam or press the fabric. The heat will relax the threads and help them return to the original form. If the fabric has been bonded or finished, it will probably also be off grain. In that case, don't buy the fabric, or return it to the store.

It's a good idea to preshrink all fabrics, especially if the bolt indicates more than one per cent shrinkage. Frequently the fabric can be straightened at the same time. If the fabric is machine ready, run it through the washer and dryer cycle. When drip dry, machine wash and hang on a rod. Fold hand washable fabric and wet thoroughly before hanging to dry. For dry cleanable fabrics, lay the length of fabric between layers of a dampened sheet. Let it set for several hours and pat straight.

Badger Council Takes Bids On New Village Well

Badger village council has obtained the services of Stewart and Walker associates of Thief River Falls to draw up specifications necessary to advertise for bids on drilling a new well for the village.

The action was taken after Robert Davidson of Thief River Falls drilled a test well near the present well site to locate another water vein. Water was reached at a depth of 213 feet. The present well is 150 feet.

According to Davidson, tests of the water in the deeper vein indicate that it is softer even though it has the same iron content.

Drilling of a new well has become necessary because the intake screen is becoming plugged with iron. The screen in the old well is 10 feet long. The screen in the new well will be 30 feet long and is expected to last for many years.

Another possible benefit of drilling the new well is that with both wells in service the village may have a sufficient water supply to meet specifications of the Fire Underwriters bureau and fire insurance ratings in the village could be changed to class 8 rather than the present class 9. That would result in a considerable savings on insurance premiums for property in the village.

Iron Important Part Of Sewing, Specialist Says

An iron is nearly as important in the construction process as the sewing machine. Step-by-step pressing can't be overemphasized, says Sarah Cox, assistant professor in clothing, University of Minnesota.

Adequate and correct use of the iron leads to a professional looking garment. It involves three elements—heat, moisture and pressure. Before using an iron, a thorough knowledge of the fabric's characteristics is necessary. Fiber content is particularly essential in determining heat setting. Pre-test a scrap of fabric to determine the correct amount of heat, moisture and pressure. The original look of the fabric might be altered unless precautions are followed, Miss Cox warns.

The garment should be pressed after each construction step. All seams need to be pressed before crossing another. To prevent scorch and shine marks, a press cloth should be used.

In pressing, the iron is lifted up and down on the fabric. Grain distortion on some fabrics could result from sliding the iron across the fabric.

Pressing can be done more carefully with the use of the proper equipment. Strips of brown paper bags or folded tissue paper can be iserted between the outer layer and whatever is being pressed. The paper will distribute the pressure and will keep press marks from showing on the right side of the garment. Place under the seam or dart, it keeps the seam allowance from being silhouetted.

Local Residents Escape Serious Injury In Crash

Mrs. Richard McCloskey of Thief River Falls and her 1½-year-old daughter, Marcy, escaped serious injury recently when the car in which they were riding was totally destroyed when it rolled over in the middle of a gravel road near Baudette. The car hit loose gravel and rolled over twice, coming to rest on its top in the road bed.

Sigurd Lystad of Baudette discovered the accident and helped Mrs. McCloskey and her daughter out of their car. They were taken to Baudette for a medical examination which revealed nothing more serious than bruises.

"I am real thankful," said Mrs. McCloskey, "that Marcy was secure in a child's seat fastened in the middle of the back seat."

Bergland Says County Eligible For $161,325

Congressman Bob Bergland has announced that legislation approved last week by the House of Representatives committee on ways and means would provide the 7th Congressional district with $6,523,382 this year.

The total allocated for Pennington county was $161,325, while the city of Thief River Falls would receive $87,775.

According to provisions of the state and local government fiscal assistance act of 1972, Minnesota will receive a total of $114 million, with the state government receiving $51.6 million while $62.4 million will go directly to local government units within the state.

The act was approved April 17 by the House committee on ways and means. It is expected that the entire House will vote on the bill in early May.

The committee's version of the bill authorizes a five-year program which appropriates a total of $5.3 billion to state and local governments during its first full year. During the first year, the committee's proposal allocates $1.8 billion to state governments on the basis of tax effort. A total of $3.5 billion is distributed to local government units according to need as determined by population, urbanized population and relative per capita income.

The act provides virtually every city, county, village, town and township in the country with fiscal assitance. The proposed legislation places no restrictions on state government spending, but requires that local units channel funds into law enforcement, transportation and environmental protection programs.

RLF Hospital Makes Plans To Observe Week

Opportunity to learn more about health care in general and about hospitals in particular will be available this week when St. John's hospital of Red Lake Falls joins with 7,000 hospitals throughout the nation in observing National Hospital week. The annual observance, sponsored by the American hospital association, began Sunday.

Tony Schmitz, hospital administrator, said that St. John's hospital will hold numerous activities in observance of the week. There was an open house from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday with hospital tours and free coffee and bars. On Monday there will be tours for St. Joseph elementary school from 12:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. On Tuesday there will be a layman's advisory board meeting at Sullivan's at 7 p.m. Wednesday from 12:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. there will be tours for Washington elementary school of Red Lake Falls. A tea for members of the hospital auxiliary and candy stripers will be held from 3 p.m. until 4 p.m. Thursday. A picnic for employees has been planned for 6 p.m. Friday.

National Hospital day was initiated May 12, 1920, the 100th anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale. This is the 52nd annual observance, traditionally held during the week that includes her birthday in recognition of her pioneer work in hospital care.

"This year's National Hospital week theme, 'We Want You. . .In the Picute of Health,' emphasizes the change in the concept of the hospital's role," Mr. Schmitz said.

SBA Will Serve As Ombudsman For Business

Paul W. Jansen, district director of the Small Business administration, has announced that the SBA will begin immediately to serve as the Ombudsman for small businessmen in this area.

Jansen described the Ombudsman role as "an exciting expansion of activity by the Small Business administration" and that SBA is assuming this new responsibility at the specific request of the President.

According to Jansen, the President said recently that, "I am directing the Small Business administration to emphasize its role as the advocate of the interest of small business. Henceforth, the SBA shall be more than a contract procurement agency."

"It is to this role of advocacy, this role of being an Ombudsman, this role of helping the little guy find an answer from government that the SBA Business administration henceforth will address itself."

Jansen encouraged all small businessmen who require aid from governmental agencies at any level—federal, state, or local—to avail themselves of the Ombudsman service.

"Once the problem of the small businessman is made known to SBA," Jansen said, "it will be channeled to the appropriate governmental agency for action.

"Quite obviously," he added, "we cannot guarantee results in each and every instance. But we can and do guarantee a dedicated effort to even better serve the small businessmen of this area."

Jansen said that forms asking Ombudsman assistance may be obtained from the Minneapolis SBA district office located at 12 South Sixth Street, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55402 or by calling 725-2358.

Men May Enroll In Fashions At Minnesota Tech

Fashion merchandising education does not discriminate against men. This is the assertion of Mrs. Elsie Reichert, fashion instructor at the University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston.

"The young men of today can find unlimited career opportunity in fashion merchandising," Mrs. Reichert said. "Fashion is an integral part of all modern merchandising, not just women's wear. Fashion concerns wearing apparel for the entire family, as well as household furnishing, sporting goods, appliances and all merchandise that brings changing models or styles to the consumer."

University of Minnesota technical college offers a two-year program in fashion merchandising, open to men as well as women, she pointed out. The major prepares a student for a career in retailing, with emphasis on fashion and seasonal merchandise.

Boutique operators, department managers in department and chain stores, management training programs, fashion coordinators, store buyers, market representatives for manufacturers, private store owner or manager—all are illustrations of the variety of job opportunities available, Mrs. Reichert said.

Course offerings at UMC lead to an associate degree in fashion merchandising and include business administration courses in marketing, retailing, salesmanship and advertising display, as well as specialized courses in basic design principles, study of textiles and current and historical fashions.

For more information regarding a career in men's apparel write the business division chairman or the director of admissions at University of Minnesota Technical College, Crookston, Minnesota 56716.

Letters to the Editor

The Eidtor,
Thief River Falls Times

Dear Sir:

I believe strongly in the American tradition of speaking out when one has something to say. I class letters to the Editor in this category and so read with interest those published in your paper.

But of late I have been troubled by your policy of publishing those letters which are not signed, or have requested their name be withheld. If one cares enough about an issue to write about it, surely he should have the strength of his convictions and prove it by signing his name.

To me, an unsigned letter to the editor stands for nothing. If one can't back up his opinion by signing his name, then the opinion is worth very little indeed.

I would hope you would change the policy of the newspaper and only publish signed letters thereby giving your letters to the editor column dignity and integrity.

Sincerely,
(Mrs. Diane Bromley
Route No. 5 Box 24

To: Mr. Marv Lundin
Editor, Thief River Falls Times
Thief River Falls, Minn. 56701

Dear Sir:

Since this is an election year, it is important that the equal time doctrine be practiced. The following poem authored by George Carlin (bearded and shoulder length hair) presents another viewpoint to the "Long Hair Question," (your May 3 editorial).

"I'm aware some stare at my hair.
In fact to be fair,
Some really despair of my hair
But I don't care,
Cause they're not aware,
Nor are they debonair.
In fact, they're just square.
They see hair down to there,
Say beware,
And go off on a tear.
I say no fair.
A head that's bare is really nowhere.
So, be like a bear.
Be fair with your hair.
Show it you care.
Wear it to there,
Or to there,
Or to there if you dare.
To use as a spare.
Did I care?
No contrare.
Spare hair is fair.
In fact, hair can be rare.
Fred Astaire's got no hair,
Nor does a chair,
Nor a chocolate eclair.
And where is the hair on a pear?
Nowhere, mon frare.
Now that I've shared this affair of the hair,
I think I'll repair to my lair,
And use Nair.
Do you care?"

Sincerely,
John Sherack

Buyers Must Pay Sales Tax For Bikes, Trailers

If the state sales tax on new minibikes and two-wheel utility trailers is paid to the retailer at the time of purchase, the buyer must present a copy of the invoice if and when he registers the vehicle, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

"This situation does not normally occur with other types of vehicles because the dealers are licensed and know the procedures. In the case of minibikes and trailers which are bought from large retail outlets, the retailer routinely collects the four per cent sales tax on all sales.

If the purchaser elects to register the minibike for use on public roads, he must complete a purchaser's certificate and attach a copy of the invoice. The same procedure must be followed for those who register new utility trailers.

"At the time of vehicle registration, the motor vehicle deputy registrar will note on line five of the purchaser's certificate that the invoice is attached, and indicates that the sales tax was paid at the time of purchase."

"To look up and not down, to look forward and not back, to look out and not in, and to lend a hand." —Edward Everett Hale

Good Man Gone

In our opinion, the United States has lost a good man in the death of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. His name has been synonymous with law enforcement in this country for many years.

Critics in recent years and particularly in recent months have sought to discredit him and have him replaced. We are sure such criticism must have weighed heavily on Hoover who devoted his life to enforcing the nation's laws and protecting it against those who would destroy the American way of life.

In years, Hoover was not an old man. In this day and age the attainment of 77 years is almost commonplace. Whatever strain he may have experienced in his earlier years, however, must have increased immeasurably under the constant harassment of the past few years. If only all people in government had the patriotism and devotion to country of the late director of the FBI.

There are capable people in the United States and Hoover will be replaced without too badly upsetting the FBI organization, but his steadying influence will be missed in the difficult years ahead. We can only hope that another leader can rise with some of the qualities of the late director. There is no doubt that Hoover's death means a good man has gone.

Educators Help

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Educators throughout the state this year have taken more interest in politics than at any time we can remember. This probably didn't happen by accident. It undoubtedly happened as a result of the prodding of various teacher's organizations—but whatever brought it about it is a good thing and long past due.

In Murray county, teachers were conspicuously present at both the DFL and Republican precinct and county conventions. Their help could have been of great value in the past and, we hope, will be in the years ahead. These are competent, educated people who exercise a great influence over the youth of the nation. Their interest, influence and guidance can be of great benefit to the republic.

Professional teachers attending the conventions have naturally furthered the case of resolutions regarding education. This is only natural and, for that matter, beneficial as education is the major recipient of local, state and federal tax dollars today. Education is also second only to the family unit as the main factor in the development of the greatest natural resource we posses—the youth of America.

In the past, only a handfull of educators have taken an active interest in politics. The others seemed to believe there was no place for them in this sometimes dirty arena. We hope that the current interest in organized politics on the part of educators at every level will not only continue but grow. Their advice and counsel can be of great help to the democratic system.

A First Step

What have whales got to do with northern Minnesota?

If you're interested in sport hunting, they might have quite an impact here. The same is true of seals, sea otters and other marine mammals.

Anti-hunting and animal protectionist groups have launched the second phase of a national advertising campaign designed to frighten Congress into enacting a law stopping the taking of all the mammals mentioned, plus polar bears.

The goal of the groups is contrary to what leading marine specialists advise is best for the future of the animals, but that does not deter the emotional stand on the issue.

Support is being received by the anti-hunting groups from people who are concerned about the future of marine mammals but have little understanding of the undesirable result their efforts may bring. Oversimplifications, half-truths and misleading statements are being used to encourage members of congressional committees to take action which could actually be contrary to the well-being of marine mammals.

Of greater personal interest here, of course, is the fact that the pressure by protectionists for marine mammals is only a first step. The stated ultimate goal is the total banning of hunting on public lands. . . .anywhere. . . .for anything.

Leading marine experts have told the House and Senate committees that a blanket moratorium is negative and could result in more harm than good. Many of the animals are international in their movements and distribution, and the prohibition against taking the animals by Americans would have no effect whatsoever on other nations.

In fact, the state department testified that continued efforts to force a world-wide moratorium could sabotage rational efforts to establish needed and workable international agreements. Some countries are increasingly dependent on marine mammals for food and U.S. blanket closures would have absolutely no effect on their take.

Sportsmen have had a vital stake in hunting over the years, and it is primarily if not entirely through hunters that many wildlife species exist in abundance today. Admittedly, hunters have given support with the motive of preserving their sport, but they have given both willingly and generously.

What the preservationists overlook is that withdrawal of the support from hunters—if hunting should be prohibited as they propse—would almost assure the demise of many species abundant today. And that's a fact worth much more consideration.

If you think you should be entitled to hunt grouse and deer and ducks in Minnesota, better let your senators and congressman know that management of marine mammals should be left to experts and not emotions.

I Am The United States

The following article is being circulated by the Derus Media service of Chicago in booklet form and provides us with a reminder that our country is rich in tradition and worthy of our service:

I was born on July 4, 1776, and the Declaration of Independence is my birth certificate. The bloodlines of the world run in my veins, because I offered freedom to the oppressed. I am many things, and many people. I am the United States.

I am 165 million living souls—and the ghost of millions who have lived and died for me.

I am Nathan Hale and Paul Revere. I stood at Lexington and fired the shot heard around the world. I am Washington, Jefferson and Patrick Henry. I am John Paul Jones, the Green Mountain Boys, and Davy Crockett. I am Lee, Grant, and Abe Lincoln.

I remember the Alamo, the Maine and Pearl Harbor. When freedom called, I answered and stayed until it was over, over there. I left my heroic dead in Flanders Field, on the rock of Corregidor, and on the bleak slopes of Korea.

I am the Brooklyn Bridge, the wheat lands of Kansas, and the granite hills of Vermont. I am the coalfields of the Virginias and Pennsylvania, the fertile lands of the West, the Golden Gate and Grand Canyon. I am Independence Hall, the Monitor and the Merrimac.

I am big. I sprawl from the Atlantic to the Pacific, 3 million square miles throbbing with industry. I am more than 5 million farms. I am forest, field, mountain, and desert. I am quiet villages—and cities that never sleep.

You can look at me and see Ben Franklin walking down the streets of Philadelphia with his breadloaf under his arm. You can see Betsy Ross with her needle. You can see the lights of Christmas, and hear the strains of Auld Lang Syne as the calendar turns.

I am Babe Ruth and the World Series. I am 169,999 schools and colleges, and 250,000 churches where my people worship God as they think best. I am a ballot dropped in a box, the roar of a crowd in a stadium, and the voice of a choir in a cathedral. I am an editorial in a newspaper, and a letter to a Congressman.

I am Eli Whitney and Stephen Foster. I am Tom Edison, Albert Einstein and Billy Graham. I am Horace Greely, Will Rogers, and the Wright brothers. I am George Washington Carver, Daniel Webster.

I am Longfellow, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Walt Whitman, and Thomas Paine.

Yes, I am the nation, and these are the things that I am. I was conceived in freedom and, God willing, in freedom I will spend the rest of my days.

May I posses always the integrity, the courage and the strength to keep myself unshackled, to remain a citadel of freedom and a beacon of hope to the world.

I am the United States.

Borrowed Nonsense

A hippie had to appear in court. He was adorned in long hair, beard, beads and only one shoe. "What happened, young man?" the judge asked kindly. "Did you lose a shoe?" "No, man," the hippie replied, "I found one."

minnesota discovery series

Department of Economic Development

We all look forward to discovering—and re-discovering—Minnesota this summer. This lovliest of states provides outdoor recreation and scenic beauty that appeals to out-of-state visitors as well as providing Minnesotans a quality life style.

But while you enjoy all Minnesota has to give, keep in mind that these gifts can be mis-used. Exercising a little thoughtfulness can make your outings even more satisfying.

—Don't litter. When you fish, throw that cigarette butt or apple core in the boat; the boat is more easily cleaned than the lake. If you rent the boat, don't worry. That resorter likes floating candy wrappers even less than you.

—When using public camping facilities (and private, for that matter), clean up the campsite when you leave. It isn't much bother, and remember how you felt when you had to scrape someone else's fried potatoes off the picnic table?

—When you chop wood for a camping fire, don't cut down a living tree; dead wood is always available somewhere in the forest. It's a good idea, too, to always leave some extra wood for the next camper. He'll appreciate it and you may benefit the same way next time.

—Watch your fire, and be sure it's out when you leave. Only an amateur fails to douse the ashes with water and stir them to the point where not a spark remains.

—Don't be shy about picking up someone else's litter. 'Tis better to remove one beer can than to merely curse the thoughtless.

Naturally, there are many other ways you can keep our environment pleasant. The important thing is to develop a sincere appreciation for the natural resources we enjoy; when that happens, maintaining them will come as second nature.

7 ways to wring every dime out of your telephone.

If you're using the phone improperly, you may be wasting more money every month than the recent rate increase amounts to on your bill. Here are some tips that will help you use the phone more efficiently. Most of them will save you time and money. Some of them will also save us time and money and that will help us give you more economical service in the long run.

1. How to get Direct Dial savings.

Even though you can't yet dial long distance calls direct in this area, you can still benefit from low direct dialing rates, available on many long distance calls. Here's how: Simply call the operator who will dial your station-to-station call anywhere in the continental U.S. . . . and you'll get the low direct-dial rate. Greatest savings are after 5 p.m. weekdays and all weekend. For calls within Minnesota, for example, you can save up to 77 percent on a 3 minute station-to-station call over an operator-assisted, person-to-person call. Direct dial rates do not apply to pay telephone, person-to-person, hotel guest, credit card, or collect calls, or calls charged to another number.

2. So you don't know the out-of-town number.

If you do not know the number you are calling in the distant city, dial "0", and tell your local operator the name of the town you're calling and you'll get the out-of-town Directory Assistance operator. There is no charge for this service.

3. Don't make bad business out of a bad connection.

If you get a wrong number, or can't hear on your call, report it to the operator, and you won't be charged.

4. It pays to call when we're least busy.

On an in-state station-to-station call after 5 p.m., you can talk 10 minutes for $1.30 or less on the new Gopher State Bargain Rate. And you can talk twice as long, 20 minutes for $1.30 or less, if you call after 11 p.m. and before 7 a.m. These calls are at direct dial rates even though you do not have direct dialing. Simply dial the operator who will direct dial the station-to-station call for you. However, if you require further services of the operator, the Gopher State direct dial rate does not apply. Nor does it apply between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays or on the legal holidays of Christmas, New Year's, Independence Day, Thanksgiving or Labor Day.

5. You could still look it up.

On local calls, instead of dialing Directory Assistance, keep a record of the people and places you call most often. There's a place for them in every phone book. Just in Minnesota, we spend over $6.1 million a year looking up numbers, 70 percent of them already in the book. Naturally, you share that cost.

6. Repair service.

The Telephone Company will repair your phone promptly without charge. Call as soon as you can so that you can get the maximum use at all times out of your telephone.

7. Plan before you install.

The installation charge is the same to have 1 or 3 or 6 phones put in . . . so long as you do it all at once. Add-as-you-go, piecemeal installations add up fast.

Former Goodridge Resident Builds Big Houseboat

Major Simend Dahle of the 924th Air Refueling Squadron at Castle Air Force Base, Calif., and formerly of Goodridge, recently completed construction of a 21,000-pound deluxe houseboat which he built in his back yard at Castle Gardens, Calif.

Dahle received help from friends and neighbors in Atwater, Calif. in constructing the double decked craft which measures 48 feet 9 inches in length by 18 feet 9 inches in width. He has invested about $6,000 in materials but has no idea of the actual value of the boat.

Dahle, his wife Jan, son Gene and daughter Jerri will be going first class in their new houseboat which is their first water craft. Dahle said, "I have my own running water system complete with purifying filter, pressurizer and hot water heater.

"It (the houseboat) has a refrigerator, oven, range and self contained toilet. The cabin is fully carpeted and paneled. A stereo system feeds music to both decks."

Dahle can choose between electric fluorescent or gas lighting. Plans are underway to include a fireplace.

Dahle, an instructor pilot at Castle Air Force Base for more than four years, has received alert orders for an overseas assignment but his family will be remaining in the States and will continue using the boat. He is already planning to make use of it when he retires.

A story in the Castle AFB paper notes that the backyard project created such a stir in Castle Gardens "that neighbors reportedly were prepared to head for the Sierras if Dahle began to bring in animals two by two."

Public Welfare Dep't. Studies MH-MR-I System

Study of the mental health-mental retardation-inebriacy (MH-MR-I) delivery systems, including state hospitals, area boards and county welfare departments is being conducted by the Minnesota department of public welfare at the request of the Legislature.

In 1971, the Mental Health association of Minnesota asked for a study to eliminate the presently fragmented delivery system and to make effective use of available resourses. According to information received from Northwestern mental health center, they recommend that the study and resulting action by the 1973 Legislature conform to certain guidelines.

The association's guidelines state "the Legislature should not settle for incomplete patchwork remedies. Rather, there should be a re-shaping of the whole MH-MR-I Program." That includes "a complete delivery of service system predicated on the community based concept; heavy emphasis on local control; clarification of agency responsibility for people with needs in these areas; and a funding mechanism flexible, responsive, and adequate to meet these needs.

"Any delivery system should be based on the needs of those served, not on the desire to preserve existing state institutions.

"Any change in delivery of services or locus of control should not be used as an excuse to reduce the total level of State financial support for MH-MR-I Programs.

Ample programs designed to retrain and relocate current hospital staff to effectively function in new community based settings must be included.

Organizational changes necessary to allow a community based delivery system to function effectively must be made within the Minnesota Department of Public Welfare."

BSC Students Gain Experience As Teachers

Three Thief River Falls area residents who are studying education at Bemidji state college are student teaching during the spring quarter. They are Marsha Mattson and M. Kathleen Lindquist of Thief River Falls who are assigned to Grand Rapids junior-senior high school and Thief River Falls' Washington elementary school respectively, and Wayne Holte of Grygla at Brainerd senior high school.

Student teachers work in classrooms at their assigned schools under the supervision of qualified teachers. The student teachers are also advised by BSC supervisors who regularly visit the schools where student teachers are working.

The student teaching experience is part of the education curriculum required to earn a teaching degree from BSC and gives each student an opportunity to gain practical experience before assuming the responsibilities accompanying the duties of a teacher.

Several changes have been made in the farm storage facility loan program in the last two years. The interest rate has changed several times from its original rate of four per cent. The interest rate has risen from four per cent to six per cent to 7½ per cent down again to six per cent and changed again to its present rate of 5½ per cent.

Loans are available on wooden, steel, or cement-type structures for grain storage providing you have the necessary needs for additional storage on your farm and that you meet all other eligibility requirements. Filling and unloading equipment of the type normally used with wet and silo-type structures is eligible equipment.

Eligible borrowers are any person who as landowner, landlord, tenant or sharecropper, produces one or more of the following eligible commodities on the farm or farms to which the loan application relates: wheat, oats, rye, barley, corn, flax, soybeans, rice, and sunflower seed.

The loan may include the actual cost to the applicant of the purchase price, the local sales taxes payable by purchasers, costs of transportation, delivery, and erection or installation including foundations, concrete work and electrical wiring.

Items which may not be included are any discounts or rebates, costs of any secondhand or used materials, or costs for labor including transportation by own conveyance performed by the applicant or others usually employed on the farm. No loans are available on any used bins or drying equipment unless purchased from Commodity Credit Corporation, nor are they available to repair, maintain, or remodel existing storage structures or drying equipment.

Loans are available on 85 per cent of the net cost of the applicant's needed sotrage which shall not result in an aggregate outstanding balance in excess of $35,000, this of course is subject to county and state committee review and approval. Loan term is for a five-year period with four equal annual installments at 5½ per cent interest. Certain security requirements are also required of all loans.

If you intend to apply for a loan you must do so within 30 days of delivery of any material to your farm. The best thing for you to do is to get an estimate on the type of structure you want and bring to the ASCS office when you apply for your loan. There always is the possibility your loan may not be approved, and therefore it is very important that you contact us and discuss your intentions with us before any purchase is made.

If you are interested in a loan please feel free to contact the ASCS office at any time.

Two-Year Army Enlistment Is Open To Women

Two-year Army enlistments are now available to young women.

According to Staff Sergeant James Long and Sergeant First Class Francis Trim, this is the shortest enlistment program available to women entering any of the armed services.

In addition to the shorter enlistment term, a six-month delay program is available for the first time for young ladies. Under this program, previously available only to men, a young woman can enlist and delay her training for as long as six months. By doing that her starting pay would be $320 instead of the regular $288.

While the total man-power of the military is being reduced, opportunities for women are increasing. It has been found that many jobs may be performed as well or even better by women.

Anyone interested in these or other programs may obtain additional information from the Army recruiters at the Armed Forces recruiting station on Third street or by calling 218-681-1154 collect. Information is still free.

Plants, Flowers Add $2,892,000 To Farm Income

A small but specialized segment of Minnesota agriculture, production of commercial flowers and foliage plants, added $2,892,000 to gross farm income for 1971, according to Commissioner Jon Wefald.

That was $66,000 less than Minnesota growers grossed the previous year.

Chrysanthemums contined to be the major income source, $1,549,000, an increse of $99,000 over 1970 sales. Sixty-eight growers grossed $698,000 from sales of 422,000 potted "mums". Eighty-six growers sold 485,000 bunches of pompon "mums" for $590,000. Eighty-two growers reported $261,000 sales from 728,000 blooms of standard chrysanthemums.

Roses yielded sales totaling $973,000. That was $148,000 less than the 1970 crop, reflecting a production cutback by 50,000 plants or a 1971 total of 331,000 rose bushes and 6,897,000 blooms sold by the 18 growers.

Carnations yielded gross income of $132,000, down $37,000 from the year before. Thirty-nine growers marketed 1,183,000 carnation blooms.

Gladioli sales of $47,000 topped the prior year by $8,000. Fourteen growers marketed 50,000 dozen spikes.

Thirty-nine growers of foliage plants had sales with net value of $191,000, up $12,000 from 1970. Production was from 43,000 square feet of growing area.

According to statistics from the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture, Minnesota's rankings among the 23 states surveyed for acres or plants in production are eithth for gladioli, 15th in roses, 18th in foliage plants, 12th in pompon mums, 13th in potted mums and 19th in standard mums and carnations.

SLEIGHS loaded with 12 tons of wood each are pulled across the ice of Lake of the Woods as part of the logging operations in Minnesota's Northwest Angle each winter.

Logging Comes Hard On Northwest Angle

Winter logging operations in the Northwest Angle of Lake of the Woods have come to a close and some 20,000 cords of wood had been piled on Lake of the Woods ice during the season. The heavy logs, covering 40 acres, crash through the ice when the weight becomes too heavy for the ice to hold them and are ready for tugs to haul them on the 48-mile jorney north to the Ontario-Minnesota pulp and paper mill at Kenora.

Logging operations in Minnesota's Northwest Angle are among the most unusual on the continent in that they are strictly a winter project that involves Minnesota and the Canadian provinces of Manitoba and Ontario. Also, there's a touch of bygone logging days with one the the wood dealers using huge sleighs to haul wood to the ice landing site.

"We can only log here in the winter," Says Don Richards of Warroad, who heads logging operations on the Northwest Angle for Boise Cascade. "The rest of the year most of the Angle is just a big swamp. Only when it's frozen over can anything move in this area."

The Northwest Angle is itself an interesting piece of the United States. Legally it belongs to Minnesota, but geographically it is in Canada, and by road it can only be reached through Manitoba.

Logging in this area is a frantic and freezing affair. Work starts about the beginning of January when the lake ice is thick enough to support a 58-ton logging truck. It ends in March when water, under pressure from the weight of the trucks, starts spurting up between cracks in the ice.

Despite temperatures that dip to 56 degrees below zero, and winds that whip across the open lake, work never stops. "The logging season is too short to stop work just because it's cold," says Richards, whose weather-beaten face attests to 23 years working on the Angle.

Logging on the Angle is not overly mechanized because the volume of wood from the area is not high. Of the 20,000 cords landed on the ice every winter, 10,000 of it is from Minnesota, while the remaining 10,000 cords are from Ontario and Manitoba.

Wood from Manitoba is hauled on sleighs by Howard Holmgren of Sprague, Man., who has what is probably the last of such operations, once a common sight in both Candadian and U.S. woods.

The sleighs, with huge wooden runners, are loaded with 12 tons of wood. Then 10 sleighs are linked together and pulled to the ice landing by a small tractor. In the past these sleighs were pulled by teams of horses.

Of the 300 men employed on the operation about one-third are Indians, some of whom live in the area. Most loggers spend the five workdays living in camps in the area and the weekends at home.

Logging in the area is a rough job. In December, with the first really cold weather, the men start packing and freezing the roads. Later they turn their attention to the lake and flood the ice to make it thicker on those parts that are travelled from the mainland to the wood landing area near Boucher Island, Ontario.

With this done, the job of piling the cords of jack pine and spruce on the ice begins. Around each 2,500 cords is placed a log boom secured by chains.

When the ice melts, a tug tows each boom to Kenora where the wood is ground up and used to make newsprint. Transporting each boom is a slow task. Because the booms can only be moved at two miles per hour, it takes a full two days to travel the 48 miles from Boucher Island to Kenora, Ont.

The Northwest Angle logging operation has only two more winters of life. Boise Cascade was given a 25-year licence to cut in the area, and 23 of those years have already passed.

LOGGING OPERATIONS in Minnesota's Northwest Angle are still handled much as they have been for many years. They utilize only limited mechanization and most of the work is still done by hand.

TRF Youngsters To Norway Camp

Two Thief River Falls youngsters are registered for sessions this summer in the Concordia language village program. Karin and Louis Hermansen, children of Rev. and Mrs. Louis Hermansen, will attend the Norwegian camp.

Concordia language villages program, sponsored by Concordia college in Moorhead, seeks to acquaint students between the ages of nine and 17 with the language and culture of a foreign land in the context of a summer camping experience.

Chippewa Music Will Be Taught On Reservations

Northern Minnesota Chippewa children will soon be learning the music of their culture in reservation schools, as the Minnesota state college board educational policies committee approved a grant to Bemidji state college music department for this program.

The $14,000 grant was approved for a program proposed for BSC by Paul Parthun, a student of ethnic music and field researcher in Ojibwa music at the University of Minnesota under a Ford foundation grant. He will be project director for the BSC program to formally teach Chippewa children the music of their people.

"While music has long been accepted as an important part of an individual's intellectual, emotional and cultural development, it has become clear that little music has been offered in Chippewa reservation schools," Parthun notes.

"This project will provide regular, innovative and professional music education designed to take advantage of the Chippewa music culture—as well as stimulate interest in some aspects of non-Indian musical expression."

While the project will attempt to formalize teaching of Chippewa music, Parthun emphasizes that it is not an attempt to change the musical culture or heritage of the Chippewa people.

"The programs will be offered to highlight the traditional aspects of Chippewa music and to illustrate some similarities to non-Indian music," Parthun says.

The project will also utilize student teacher trainees as in-service field teachers and these college students will be engaged throughout the project as performers and instructors. They will also participate in classes specifically designed to educate them in the techniques of teaching ethnic music.

Parthun will also concentrate on providing skills to classroom teachers in the schools where he teaches the classes. He will conduct a workshop for teachers early in the academic year and throughout the year BSC staff will conduct sessions designed to enhance teacher ability and interest in music education.

Schools at White Earth and Red Lake reservations will cooperate in the program, which is directed at primary children at Red Lake, Redby, Mahnomen and Naytawaush. Further information is available from BSC music department.

Area Residents Invited To Aid Homes For Birds

Thief River Falls area residents are being asked to do more for the orioles this year than ever before.

In 1971 more than 4,000 Minnesotans sent for oriole nesting kits provided by the Bell museum of natural history at the University of Minnesota.

A fanatic gleam in his eyes, "Mr. B." of the "Touch 'n' See" room room of the Bell Museum has prepared 15,000 kits for distribution this year.

"They're for a good cause," says Richard Barthelemy ("Mr. B." to the kids). "Two good causes, in fact. Not only do 15,000 oriole families get good homes, but any profit we make will go to the "Touch 'n' See" room.

"Kids from all over Minnesota and surrounding states visit the room constantly. It's bound to get beat up after awhile and we need money to fix it up. At the same time kids can watch orioles build a nest in their own back yards."

Oriole kits, 1972 model, include the booklets "Cultivate Your Garden Birds," "Birds of the Minneapolis-St. Paul Region," a brief life history of the Baltimore Oriole, a data sheet for observations, summary of findings from last year's reports, and—something for the birds—a meter of rope made of sisal fibers, and some cotton matting.

Many reports came from Wisconsin last year, in addition to towns all over Minnesota. One report came from Williamsville, N.Y., saying that starlings had used the fibers. Robins and sparrows are also heavy users of the oriole' kits, according to reports.

School Systems Join To Sponsor Project REACH

Seven public school systems in northern Minnesota have begun implementing programs for children with special learning or behavioral problems as a result of cooperation between Bemidji and Moorhead state colleges, the University of Minnesota and educators from the seven public school districts.

The program to aid handicapped children is called Project REACH, standing for Restructuring Education to Accommodate Children with Handicaps, and the first two years of federal funding was earmarked for training of personnel to innovate and build programs aimed at helping the child with problems.

The representatives of school systems at Virginia, Grand Rapids, Staples, Thief River Falls, Kennedy, Bemidji and BSC laboratory school have begun planning for implementation of project REACH at their individual systems.

With the initial phase of training over, the educators are now taking their special training into the schools and Bemidji state college is providing specially trained student interns to aid in the second phase of Project REACH.

The seven school systems cooperating in the project will have BSC student interns for two college quarters of on-the-job experience and help. First quarter of the internship will be invested in academic and classroom work and the interns will then move into practice in fulltime teaching roles.

"Part of the academic program during the first quarter of the internship will be learning special methods of working with handicapped students," explains Dr. Charles Austad, BSC chairman of educational psychology and a leader in the REACH concept. "We'll initiate the full program next fall in the public schools and there will be a number of internships that begin at that time. Several students are already involved in workshops in preparation for that time."

A planning session was held recently at BSC Bald Eagle center east of Cass Lake, with over 150 educators, college students and college personnel discussing their concepts. Sessions were held for individual school systems, as well as overall discussion meetings for all personnel in the program.

"Enthusiasm for this program is strong among those who have been involved in the training program," Austad relates. "We feel that cooperating schools will find this a valuable part of their overall education program and that the concepts devised in Project REACH will become adopted by several northern Minnesota districts."

Children who will benefit from this program include those with physical disabilities like limited vision or hearing, children with emotional problems, these with limited academic ability, and a number of other problems that make it difficult for the student to learn in the normal public school classroom.

Members of the special Project REACH task force point out that the program will provide greater individual instruction and attention by teachers, and that the results of this instruction will be studied to determine if the effect is positive.

Recall Economist To Analyze State Reapportionment

A three-judge federal court panel has recalled a University of Minnesota applied economist to use a computer again in analyzing proposals for new state legislative districts.

Professor John S. Hoyt Jr. has been re-named a "special master"—an assistant to the court.

Hoyt is considered an expert in population trends and heads the Minnesota analysis and planning system (MAPS), an agricultural extension service project that involves computer tapes of 1970 census data.

Hoyt in January joined two other special masters in analyzing plans being submitted to the court and assisting in drawing a final election map for the court. But the U.S. supreme court last Saturday (April 29) threw out the legislative reapportionment plan prepared by the three federal judges and ordered them to come up with another one "promptly."

The court said the panel had "erred" and that it went beyond its power in its plan to reduce the present size of the state Senate from 67 to 35 members and the state House of Representatives from 135 to 105 members.

The court panel said it will reapportion of state legislature by June 6.

Ag "Inspectors" Should Be Asked For Identification

Reporting a new rash of complaints from rural Minnesota about persons who are representing themselves to farmers and businessmen as "agricultural inspectors" Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald cautioned citizens to insist on seeing proper credentials.

"We don't know who these alleged inspectors are or what their purpose may be. If they are legitimate, they should be happy to present proper identification," he declared.

Official state inspectors representing the Minnesota department of agriculture carry and are proud to show proper credentials co-signed by themselves and by the Commissioner of Agriculture. These inspectors also are instructed to fully identify their purpose on all official inspections of farm or business premises.

In addition to state credentials, many of the Minnesota department of agriculture inspectors also carry federal credentials as accredited agents for the U.S. department of agriculture or the food and drug administration.

Prowlers Face Crookston After Saturday's Double-header Split

Ordean Peterson

Tom Hanson

Thief River Falls bounced back after a heart breaking 5-4 loss to Warroad for a satisfying 6-2 triumph over Roseau Saturday afternoon to break even in the Prowlers' split double-header.

The weekend's action left the Prowlers with a 5-1 season record going into tonight's Northwest Conference game against Crookston on the Prowler diamond, beginning at 5 p.m.

Friday night's scheduled home game against Bemidji was postponed due to wet weather and has been re-scheduled for a double-header at Bemidji May 12.

TRF 4

The Prowlers appeared to be well on their way to their fifth straight win as they led 4-2 going into the seventh inning in Saturday's first game at Warroad.

But the surprising Warriors pounded out six hits in the bottom of the seventh to push across three runs - with the winning run scoring with two men out, for the dramatic come - from - behind upset win.

Jack Ganyo, Les Sutherland, Jeff Thompson, Bob Fish and Jerry Hangsleben hit five consecutive singles to open the seventh inning for the Warriors, scoring two runs to tie the game 4-4 before Prowler right hander Mike Hamilton retired the next two Warroad batters.

The Prowlers had opened up an early 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning when the first three men at bat reached base off Fish.

Thief River Falls went in front 3-0 in the second when Mike Drury singled and scored on Almquist's double.

But the Warriors came back with single runs in the second and third innings to climb to within 3-2 before the Prowlers added another run in the top of the fourth inning.

After the first man was retired, Drury doubled, advanced to third on an error in the outfield and scored on Almquist's single.

Fish picked up the win for the Warriors as he went the distance, giving up nine hits and five walks while striking out four batters. Hamilton was tagged with his first loss of the season after two wins, as he gave up 12 hits, walked just one batter and struck out four.

Almquist, Johnson and Drury were the offensive stars for the Prowlers as Almquist went three for three, Druy went two for three and Johnson collected a pair of hits in four trips to the plate.

TRF........6
Roseau........2

The Prowlers turned the tables on the host team in their second game Saturday afternoon at Roseau as they broke loose from a 2-1 deficit with five runs in the last two innings for a 6-2 triumph over the Rams.

Trailing 2-1 going into the sixth inning, it took the Prowlers just one batter to even the count as junior second baseman Tom Hanson belted a solo home run to tie the game 2-2.

Ordean Peterson promptly followed with a double, before the Rams retired the next two Prowler batters until Pete Sullivan laced a run-scoring single to put the Prowlers ahead 3-2.

A walk to Jon Jensen, followed by a single by Drury drove in Sullivan, supplying the Prowlers with a 4-2 advantage going into the bottom of the sixth.

Sullivan retired the Rams in order the last two innings while the Prowlers added two more runs in the top of the seventh.

Hanson led off the last inning with a single and was driven across home plate by Peterson's double. Shortstop Kim Johnson scored Peterson with a run-producing single to end the Prowler scoring.

The Prowler had opened a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning on four straight singles by Rick Johnson, Hanson, Peterson and Hamilton. But the Rams bounced back with a run of their own in the first inning without the benefit of a hit. Two errors and a wild pitch led the Rams' first run of the game.

Roseau went in front 2-1 in the third when Degerness reached base on a fielder's choice and scored on Hallie's double.

The left-handed Sullivan picked up his second win of the season as he limited the Rams to just two hits while striking out ten and walking just two batters. Lund was tagged with the loss as the Prowlers pounded out 12 hits in the game. Lund walked just two and struck out one in his seven-inning stint.

Hanson and Peterson each collected three hits out of four trips to the plate against the Rams while Sullivan went two for four.

Prowlers Dump Huskies 17-7

Leading just 4-2 going into the bottom of the fourth, Thief River Falls combined four hits with six walks to score eight runs in their half of the inning enroute to an easy 17-7 romp over Goodridge on the Prowler baseball diamond Wednesday afternoon.

The Huskies had cut the Prowlers' 4-0 lead to just 4-2 in the top of the fourth before 14 Thief River Falls batters paraded to the plate in the bottom half of the canto to supply Randy Dallmann with all the runs the sophomore right hander needed to post his first triumph of the 1972 campaign.

Dallmann became the second Prowler hurler to go the distance as he struck out 15 batters in the seven-inning contest while walking just three men. But seven hits and five Prowler errors kept the basepaths full for the Huskies.

Thief River Falls racked a pair of Goodridge pitchers for ten hits while the Huskies issued 15 walks and committed nine errors to help the Prowler cause.

Three Prowlers collected a pair of hits in the game, with Mike Drury and Bruce Engel both coming off the bench to go two for two at the plate. First baseman Mike Hamilton was the only Prowler starter with a pair of hits, as he went two for four.

The Prowlers grabbed a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning when lead-off batter Rob Almquist walked and the second man up, Rick Johnson, singled to advance him to third. Almquist scored on a fielder's choice and was followed home by Johnson on an error at the plate.

Another run crossed the plate in the second inning for the Prowlers when Dallmann led-off with a walk and later scored on a fielder's choice.

The Prowlers upped their lead to 4-0 in the third when left fielder Pete Sullivan reached base on a fielder's choice and scored on a passed ball as the Prowlers stranded three baserunners.

Goodridge staged a two-run rally in the top of the fourth with three singles and an error. Aldon Hyland singled to right to open the inning, and was soon joined on base by Harlen Iverson on an error at second. Dallmann struck out the next batter, but Howard Vigen and Jim Grabowski followed with two straight singles for the Goodridge runs.

Prowler second baseman Tom Hanson began the fourth inning scoring splurge as he led off with a walk. Hamilton, Kim Johnson and Sullivan followed with base hits before the Huskies were able to retire a batter. Then Dallmann, Mike Goulet and Almquist were all issued walks before another man was retired. Two more walks to Hanson and Sullivan, along with a single by Hamilton and an error rounded out the inning for the Prowlers.

Both squads traded runs the rest of the contest with reserves playing a major role in the game for both teams.

Prowler head coach Ralph Skay was able to use 18 players in the game as Thief River Falls stretched its season-opening winning streak to four games.

Track Meet Postponed

The annual meet has been rescheduled for Saturday, May 20.

Conference Track Meet Scheduled Tomorrow

Tuesday's 16th annual Northwest Conference track meet, originally scheduled for Thief River Falls has been moved to East Grand Forks due to the conditions of the Prowler track.

Defending champion Bemidji, along with Crookston, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Roseau will take part in the final "old conference" track and field meet. Next season Fergus Falls and Breckenridge will join the league while Roseau drops out of competition. Beginning in 1973 the conference track meet will be run on Fergus Falls' tartan track.

Tomorrow's meet, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., is expected to be a toss-up between Thief River Falls and Crookston, with East Grand Forks capable of scoring points also.

Prowler coach Jim Sims has been forced to juggle his line-up in a few events because of injuries and illness. Hurdler John Wangberg is doubtful for the conference meet because of a pulled hamstring injury suffered at Bagley April 28. Sophomore 440 runner Scott Olson will not be available to the Prowlers for the league meet because of a hip pointer injury, while Mark Hamerlinck is still suffering from the effects of a week-long bout with the flu.

Each team will be allowed three competitors per event. The Prowler line-up will probably find Rob Swenson, Markoe Hanson and Steve Beich in the 100 yard dash; Swenson, Hanson and Jon Markstrom in the 220; Doug Aaseby, Jerry Sandahl and Joel Sorvig in the hurdles; Rande Smith, Russ Larson and Dave Lee in the shot put and discus; Mike Fitzgerald, Don Reierson and Hamerlinck in the 440; Paul Battleson, Steve Phelps and Gary Hanson in the 880; Greg Bulger, Kevin Hanson and Tom Goddard in the mile; Bruce Johnson, Lonnie Olson and Craig Young in the two mile; Rande Smith, Kent Christensen and Gerald Trickle in the long jump; and Jeff Rhoden, Kent Smith and Christensen in the high jump.

Sims isn't sure who will compete for the Prowlers in the pole vault competition while the relay team replacements will find Rande Smith running for Olson in the mile and Aaseby running for Wangberg in the sprint medley.

Conference track and field competition began in 1957 with Crookston winning the initial title on its own track. Since then, every team has managed to win at least one title with Thief River Falls winning four straight from 1961-64.

There was a new winner each year for the first five years of the meet until the Prowlers began their string. The 1962 meet might have been the best in theb history of the event with eight records set, three of which still stand.

100-10.2 by Paul Klungness of TRF, 1962; 220-22.2 by Paul Klungness of TRF, 1962; 440-52.8 by Dan Beck of EGF, 1966; 880-2:03.5 by Gary Hadden of EGF, 1970; mile-4:36.2 by Darvin Lussier of Bemidji, 1969; two mile-10:20.1 by Jeff Larson of Roseau, 1970; 120 high hurdles-15.2 by John Warford of Bemidji, 1963; 180 low hurdles-20.1 by Kim Krostue of EGF, 1966; 880 relay-1:34.0 by Bemidji, 1969; mile relay-3:36.6 by EGF, 1966; sprint medley relay-3:57.7 by TRF, 1970; high jump-6-2 by Scott Habstritt of Roseau, 1970; long jump-21-1½ by Paul Klungness of TRF, 1962; pole vault-12-1½ by Mickey James of Bemidji, 1964; shot put-49-8½ by Larry Joppru of TRF, 1965; and discus-141-9½ by Larry Joppru of TRF, 1965.

Paul Giel Headlines TRF Athletic Banquet Tuesday

Paul Giel - U of M Athletic Director

University of Minnesota athletic director Paul Giel will headline the annual Thief River Falls athletic banquet tomorrow night (Tuesday) in the armory, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Athletes and cheerleaders from Lincoln high school, Northland state junior college and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute will be honored at the event which is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Lions, Rotary, Jaycees and Sports Boosters clubs.

The public is invited to attend the event, with admission set at $2.50 per person. Tickets are available at Wilson's Sports Centre, Mr. Duane's and at the door tomorrow night.

Milt Reierson will present the welcome and Bob Carlson will serve as toastmaster of the event with the invocation to be given by Rev. Paul Mann of the Evangelical Covenant church. Athletic directors Russ Smith of Lincoln and Al Adams of Northland will introduce the various coaches.

Giel is in his first year as athletic director at Minnesota after serving as sports director for Minneapolis radio station WCCO for eight years.

Giel is a 1954 University of Minnesota graduate where he was chosen All-American in both football (1952 and 1953) and baseball (1952).

Gridiron awards won by Giel while playing for the Gophers included the conference medal for scholastic and athletic prowess, captain of the 1953 squad, most valuable player in the Big Ten in both 1952 and 1953 (the only winner two years in a row in the history of the award), UPI football player of the year in 1953, AP back of the year in 1953 and runner-up for the Heisman Trophy in 1953.

Following his graduation from the "U" Giel signed a professional baseball contract as a bonus player with the New York Giants as a pitcher. He played for the Giants in both New York and San Francisco until 1958 when he was traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates. Giel finished his baseball career with the Minnesota Twins in 1961.

Giel graduated from Winona high school in 1950 where he lettered in baseball, basketball and was an All-State football player.

He is married and has three children, Paul, 13 years old; Gerilyn, 11; and Tom, 4 years old.

Early Opening for Bass Has Little Effect

Back in 1957 J. E. Maloney, Dennis Schupp, and Joe Scidmore made a survey for the Department of Natural Resources on bass fishing in Gladstone Lake in Crow Wing County. Here is part of that report:

Effect of Longer Season

"Prior to 1957 the angling season for largemouth bass in Minnesota opened on the Saturday nearest June 20. In 1957 the opening date was advanced two weeks. This change in regulations provided an opportunity to evaluate the effects of a longer and earlier season on the bass catch. Census data from 1952 through 1956 indicated that in these years about 35 per cent of the bass harvest was completed during the first two weeks of the season (Table 8) and thereafter the proportion of the harvest taken in each succeeding two-week period declined generally through October.

During these years the mean annual catch was estimated at 1,213 bass (range 848-2,346). The same pattern of harvest was repeated in 1957 although fishing began two weeks earlier. In 1958 the largest proportion of bass was taken during the second two-week period, but the total harvest for the season was the second lowest recorded in seven years. The catch of bass in both 1957 and 1958 (1,612 and 856 respectively) was within the high and low extremes estimated for the shorter season with later opening dates, 1952 through 1956 (Table 8). Opening season two weeks earlier apparently had little effect on the total bass harvest in 1957 and 1958.

Conclusions

"Although theoretically there must be a relationship between population density and catch, it appears that the harvest of largemouth bass in Gladstone Lake, which contains a mixed game-fish population and has quite light fishing pressure, is more related to total directed fishing effort and to the goodness of panfish angling than it is to population density of bass even though, in the particular situation, this population density changed as much as 50 per cent. The marked fluctuation in abundance of catchable largemouth bass during the study demonstrates the considerable influence on population size of year-class strength. This influence is also reflected to some extent by the age class composition of the anglers' catch."

Canoe Racers Schedule Daily Training Sessions

Members of the Minnesota Canoe association's long distance racing group have announced a series of daily training sessions in preparation for this year's Aquatennial canoe classic, a grueling 102-mile, two-day event which begins July 22 at Watab on the Mississippi river.

Karl N. Ketter, a former racing champion and member of the canoe classic committee, said the first session would be Monday, from 7 to 9 p.m. on the Minnesota river near the highway 169 bridge in Shakopee.

The public is invited to the daily warmups, and professional racers and past international champions will be on hand to instruct beginners who will be interested in competing in the Aquatennial race.

First day of the classic will terminate at Anoka, where a civic celebration is being arranged to coincide with the event. The finish line Sunday, July 23 will be at the University of Minnesota showboat landing on East River road in Minneapolis. Prize money will total $4,000.

Jerry O'Neill, Aquatennial vice commodore in charge of sports events, said information and entry blanks regarding the race are now available at the Aquatennial office, 15 South Fifth Street.

Tighten Rules On Hunting License

Minnesota hunters will have to show proof they are state residents before buying a resident big game license this year, the Department of Natural Resources announced today.

License agents will be recording the hunter's drivers license number or the firearms safety certificate number when selling big game licenses this fall.

Persons without the license or certificate will have to show some other satisfactory proof they are legal residents of the state. Hunting licenses from previous years will not be accepted as proof of state residency, officials said.

The intent of the new requirement is to discourage non-residents from trying to buy resident licenses and also to make it difficult for anyone attempting to buy more than one license to take deer during the coming season.

A computer will be used to run a check on all big game licenses sold to discover 'cheaters'.

SENIOR Mark Liden was selected as captain of the 1972 Lincoln high school tennis team. Liden has lost just one match this season while playing in the number one singles competition for the Prowlers.

Hunting License Sales Climb To Record Numbers

Number of hunting licenses sold in the United States climbed to a record high in 1971, with over a half-million increase recorded for the year, the U. S. Department of the Interior reported this week.

The Department reported that 607,107 more hunting licenses were sold in 1971 than in 1970, pushing the total number of hunting license holders to a record high 15,977,588. This marks the 10th consecutive year that license sales have increased and is also the largest single increase in more than a decade.

License sales alone, however, the Department reports, are not a precise indicator of the actual number of hunters. Many persons, for reasons of age, military service, etc., can hunt without buying a license and are not counted. On the other hand, many persons buy licenses in more than one state and are therefore counted twice in the figures. Taking both of these factors into consideration, the national shooting sports foundation estimates the number of hunters in the United States at over 17 million.

This increase in license sales is of particular importance to the 50 state fish and game departments who depend on the revenue from license sales to finance their various wildlife conservation and management programs. These license sales provided $108,597,570.00 in 1971, an increase of some $7 million over 1970 and the second year in a row that sales were over $100 million.

The number of license holders is also important to each state because it helps determine how much aid each state will receive from the government under the Pittman-Robertson federal aid in wildlife restoration program. This important program, which gains its revenue from an 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, provides funds to the states for approved wildlife restoration projects. More than $35 million was collected in 1970. Also, the last quarter collections reported by the U.S. Treasury Department showed the highest collection for any quarter in history, though the figures are subject to revision.

Part of the increase in license sales is explained by the fact that many states have found it possible to increase the length of their seasons without harmful effects on wildlife populations, thanks to wildlife management programs. The Department also reported that, due to expanding urban areas, most hunters are traveling farther to enjoy their sport rather than giving up hunting. In fact, in a recent report, the Department of Interior stated that hunters, along with fishermen, spend nearly $7 billion yearly.

SCD At Grygla Conducts Annual Wildlife Meet

Lyndon Magnuson, chairman of the board of directors, opened the meeting and called on Joe Kotok, manager of Agassiz national wildlife refuge, to discuss plans for the refuge. Kotok explained the controls on Mud river to direct its flow into the Agassiz pool to provide flood relief. He also gave a presentation on how the refuge is managed, not only for the waterfowl but also for other wildlife species. "The needs of these other wildlife species make it necessary to carry water through the winter, but the refuge realizes the importance of storage for flood relief and includes this purpose in its management plans," Kotok said.

Phil Watt, game manager of Red Lake management area, explained plans for managing the area for upland game species such as deer and grouse.

Larry Bernhoft, area game manager from Baudette, explained the deer habitat improvement work program and how the Department of Natural Resources hopes to coordinate deer habitat with logging and other land uses through prescribed burning and land clearing. Bernhoft discussed plans and studies being carried out to better establish beaver trapping seasons. He is hopeful that these studies will lead to better management of the beaver resource through an improved season. Bernhoft also discussed briefly the last year's moose season.

A brief discussion ensued on deer populations, the severity of the winter and how it will affect next fall's season.

Gordon Saul, district forester at Grygla, described some of the measures planned for the state forest area to improve wildlife habitat, particularly for deer. Plans include prescribed burning, tree planting for cover and browse, and better harvest methods to enhance deer habitat.

Representative Richard Fitzsimons spoke briefly about some of the problems encountered in the legislature in respect to game seasons, money for wildlife development and overall feelings of people against the use of such game management practices as hunting seasons, prescribed burning, logging and clear cutting.

Nixon Proclaims National Hunting And Fishing Day

President Richard Nixon signed a proclamation May 1 declaring Sept. 23 national hunting and fishing day in recognition of the contributions of 55 million American hunters and fishermen to conservation and outdoor recreation.

The proclamation calls on all Americans "to rededicate ourselves to the conservation and respectful use of our wildlife and natural resources."

The senate unanimously passed a resolution in March, introduced by sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, N.H., asking that President Nixon proclaim NHF day. It was co-sponsored by 38 senators. Rep. Bob Sikes, Fla., and 53 representatives sponsored identical resolutions in the house, and an amended version passed unanimously in April.

Rogers Morton, Secretary of the Interior, recently said about NHF day, "The American hunter and fisherman through his deep personal interest in our wildlife resources has paved the way for the growth of our modern wildlife management programs. His purchase of licenses and permits, his payment of excise taxes on hunting and fishing equipment, and his voluntary contributions to a great variety of conservation projects are multimillion dollar examples of his concern for wildlife populations and habitat preservation."

Forty national conservation and recreational organizations and agencies are working with thousands of sportsmen's clubs across the nation to hold open house for the public Sept. 23. The sportsmen's clubs will have conservation exhibits and displays plus skill centers where the public can receive instruction in the correct use of outdoor equipment.

Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation and co-chairman of NHF day, said "Hunters and fishermen have been leaders in conservation since the turn of the century. Now we're asking them to introduce their neighbors and friends to some phase of conservation in their own communities. We want to involve all Americans in grassroots environmental action, especially young people."

Ray Hubley, executive director of the Izaak Walton League of America and the other co-chairman, reports that 10 governors have issued state hunting and fishing day proclamations to coincide with the national day.

Construction Starts On Big Stone Plant

Impact of the new Big Stone power plant on the three-state area it will serve was stressed by the governors of South Dakota and North Dakota and Minnesota's lieutenant governor when they spoke today at an observance marking the start of construction of the $120 million, 440,000-kilowatt electric generating plant.

Governors Richard Kneip of South Dakota and William Guy of North Dakota and Lt. Governor Rudy Perpich of Minnesota headed the large group of government officials, legislators, civic leaders, educators, news media representatives and other interested persons who attended the program held at the plant site a short distance north and west of Big Stone City, S.D.

Also speaking on the program were the presidents of the three utilities that are jointly building the plant: A.D. Schmidt, Northwestern public service company; Albert V. Hartl, Otter Tail power company; and David Heskett, Montana-Dakota utilities company. R. A. Wilkens, vice president-operations of Northwestern public service company, was master of ceremonies for the program.

Governor Kneip pointed out that the Big Stone plant represents the largest privately financed construction project in South Dakota history, and he stressed the importance of the plant in providing a necessary source of dependable electric power for the large area it will serve. Governor Guy spoke on the use of North Dakota lignite as fuel for the plant and the impact that this will have on the economy of his state. Lt. Governor Perpich mentioned the vital part the plant will play in meeting the growing area requirements for electricity and applauded the cooperation that has prevailed between the various state agencies and the utilities building the plant in making the plant construction possible.

In their short talks, the three utility presidents spoke of the construction plans for the plant, the manner in which environmental aspects are being solved and the ultimate importance of the plant in power supply. They also paid tribute to the cooperation of various agencies in the states involved in solving the many requirements that must be met to facilitate plant construction and eventual operation.

Site preparation for the plant began in 1971, and nearly four million yards of earth have been moved in preparation for the cooling pond and railroad bed. Site preparation is scheduled for completion in 1972.

Excavation for the main plant building was begun in March of this year, and erection of structural steel will start about July 1. The completed building will be 209 feet wide, 309 feet deep, 290 feet high over the boiler and 92 feet high over the turbine-generator room.

Completion is scheduled about July 1, 1972, for the intake structure on the shore of Big Stone lake where water will be received for cooling purposes for the plant. Water will be taken from the lake during spring runoff periods.

All major plant components have now been ordered for the plant, except environmental control equipment. Last-minute developments in environmental control equipment are being studied to assure the latest and most efficient equipment of this type for the plant.

When completed and operational in 1975, the plant will consume approximately 2½ million tons of North Dakota lignite per year from the Gascoyne mine of Knife River coal mining company. The fuel will be delivered by two 105-car trains operating over the Chicago-Milwaukee railroad system.

Three Seek Post On Local School Board

Election of two members to the Thief River Falls board of education will take place Tuesday at the annual school election for District 564. Three candidates, including the two incumbents, are seeking election to the board for three-year terms.

Challenging the incumbents is Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire, a former member of the St. Hilaire school board prior to consolidation with the Thief River Falls district. Incumbents filing for reelection are Maynard Wedul, present board chairman, and Kenneth Murphy, vice chairman. Wedul has served four years on the board and Murphy has served one three-year term.

Voting will take place from 4 to 8 p.m. with polling places to be the cafeteria at Lincoln senior high school and the gymnasium at St. Hilaire elementary school. The board of education will meet at 10 p.m. to canvass the ballots that same evening.

Eligible to vote in the election will be persons 18 years of age and older who have been residents of the district for 30 days or more.

Election judges in Thief River Falls will be Mrs. Avis Holum, Mrs. Vyann Feragen and Mrs. Lloyd Howick. Mrs. Marlys Swanson will be one of the judges at St. Hilaire and selection of two others is being made today. Two of the judges appointed by the board of education are unable to serve due to other circumstances.

To permit the public to know more about each of the candidates, the Times has invited each to personally relate background material and philosophy of education. That information is as follows:

Kenneth Murphy

I'm 39 years old, married, and my wife's name is Wanda. We have two sons, Kim, 19 years old and a freshman at NSJC in Thief River Falls, and Kevin, 11 years old, in the fifth grade at Washington school. We own our home at 703 Duluth Ave. North. I'm employed with Northwestern Bell Telephone Company and we have lived in Thief River Falls since June of 1964.

I was elected to the school board of District 564 in May of 1969 and this is the end of my first term.

A few weeks ago I was asked why so much importance should be placed in how we educate our children and if maybe a lot of it wasn't really necessary.

One thing we have to remember is that when graduation day rolls around and our family and friends gather to watch our sons and daughters step up to receive their diplomas, there are sons and daughters all over this United States doing the same thing. Not only are our children going out into the world competing with each other, but they are compeating against the graduates of Boston, New York, Minneapolis, Wadena and Little Falls. When they apply for that job or take that college exam, we want them to have all the experiences and knowledge needed.

At times it seems as though we get so involved in purchasing school buses, negotiating salaries and remodeling buildings we forget the only reason we are in this business is to educate the children of our community. I hope the day never comes that we forget to ask ourselves, "Is this in the best interest of the student in our community".

We can't blame the teachers, or the administrators, or the bus driver or the school board, because the school is the community. We people of the School District—the voter, the taxpayer, the farmer, lawyer and auto mechanic—are the ones that really decide what kind of school we'll have.

I can't honestly say that the last three years have all been easy, but I think they have been some of my most rewarding. I didn't come into this position for the prestige, or to try and make a name for myself, but because I felt I had something to offer the board. My feelings haven't changed, my motives are still the same and I would like to continue serving the people of this school district.

Harry Sjulson

I was born and raised at Lancaster and lived there until graduating from high school. I also attended the University of North Dakota and the University of Minnesota for two years.

My work has been mainly in the field of agriculture, although I did teach grade school for two years and was in the army for one and one-half years. For the last 17 years, I have lived in this area and have been involved in turkey raising. I am presently the president of the Northern Turkey council.

I have been either scoutmaster or assistant scoutmaster of troop 53 since it was started seven years ago and served five years as treasurer on the school board of District 562, at St. Hilaire until it merged with District 564.

My philosophy on education is to make a good education available to every young person, with special emphasis on vocational training. And I believe this should be done with every economy possible, while staying with good business principles.

Maynard Wedul

I have lived in Thief River Falls since 1959 when I moved back here to take over my father's trucking business. I reside with my family on a farm south of Thief River Falls and have two school aged children one eight years old and the other 13 years old. My wife is a registered nurse and is employed at Northwestern hospital.

I have four years experience on the school board, two years as the board treasurer and presently as the president of the board. I personally feel that the first three years were perhaps the hardest years any board member could serve.

My main reason for seeking another term is that with the experience I have had I can now more confidently help make the vital decisions that have to be made to assure our children the best education possible.

I am concerned with getting our dollar's worth for what we are spending for education. In my opinion, there is nothing wrong in asking the educators to justify what it is costing the taxpayers to have our children and adults educated.

Resolution of a percentage increase for salaries and fringe benefits of teachers in 1972-73 and 1973-74 was reached at the negotiating session held Monday evening by the Thief River Falls board of education and the teachers' negotiating council. The agreement calls for a percentage increase of 4.5 per cent in 1972-73 and 5.2 per cent in 1973-74 and the percentage is to be applied to all salaries and benefits which faculty members receive.

The board opened negotiations Monday by offering 3.35 per cent increase for 1972-73 and 3.45 per cent for 1973-74. The teachers' council at the last meeting had asked for six per cent in 1972-73 and seven per cent in 1973-74. The board's initial counter offer Monday was an increase from 3.35 to 3.45 per cent on the second year.

The negotiating session began at 6 p.m. and extended nearly an hour past the scheduled adjournment time as the two sides neared agreement. Regular meeting of the board, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., was delayed until about 8:30 p.m.

Agreement was reached following comments made jointly to the board and negotiating council by Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools, and his meeting separately with the board and teachers by request.

When the teachers' council returned from caucus, chairman Don Hejlik asked if the board would accept or reject a request for 4.75 and 5.25 per cent for the respective years, if the offer would be made by the teachers.

Board chairman Maynard Wedul stated that the offer would be rejected, then countered by asking if the teachers' council would accept 4.5 and 4.8 per cent if it was offered by the board.

Caucus was held and the council returned to accept 4.5 on the first year but remained at 5.25 for the second year. The board countered at 4.5 and 5.0 and settlement was reached when the teachers' council asked 5.20 on the second year and Wedul's poll of the board indicated that the board would accept that figure.

No dollar amount has been placed on the percentage increase as of yet, pending determination of actual membership. Also remaining to be settled is the distribution of the percentage among the faculty and other items agreed to be negotiated by both groups.

As the regular board meeting opened, a correction was made in the minutes of the previous meeting by board member Rev. Paul Giegner. As corrected, the minutes now read as follows with the correction in parentheses:

"A motion was made by P. Biegner, seconded by K. Murphy and carried that the Board of Education direct the Administration to readvertise the head hockey coach position (so as not to limit candidates) and to submit a ranked listing of the top

Wold And Carlson Wed In Uniting Ceremony

Candelabra with ferns formed the chancel setting at the Evangelical Free church in this city for the recent wedding of Miss Eunice Mae Wold and Joel Lionel Carlson. Tapers on the pews illuminated the aisle for the candlelight wedding.

The bride is a daughter of Mr and Mrs. Benhard Wold of this city. Parents of groom are the Rev and Mrs. Ivan Carlson, also of this city.

The father of the groom officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Edsel Lindquist, a friend of the couple, was the organist. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Mr and Mrs. Ronald Trontvet, friends of the couple, as they sang, "O Perfect Love," "One Hand, One Heart," "Wedding Prayer," and "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us." Following the exchanging of the vows, the bride and groom joined in the united candlelighting ceremony, symbolizing oneness in Christ.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white silk organza enhanced by a cathedral length train. The fitted, empire bodice with a high lace neckline was styled with long full bishop sleeves. Beaded lace trim extended down the front of the gown in three rows, trimmed the sleeves, and edged the flowing train. Her bouffant double veil of silk illusion was held in place by a Juliet headpiece of matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli florets with pink, blue and yellow carnations and camellia foliage.

Matron of honor was Mrs Wayne Anderson of Irving, Texas, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were friends of the bride, Miss Ranalie Vatthauer of Plummer and Debbie Olson of Thief River Falls; and a sister of the groom, Rosie Carlson of this city. All wore indentical floor-length gowns of green dotted Swiss, in a floral pattern. The gowns were styled with high necklines, sheer bishop sleeves with wide cuffs, and full floor-length skirts. Green ribbons marked the empire waistlines. Each attendant carried a colonial bouquet composed of pink, blue and yellow carnations complemented by babies' breath.

Wearing similar attire was the flower girl Wendy Carlson of Minnetonka, niece of the groom. The ring bearer, attired like the men of the wedding party in a black tuxedo with a green carnation boutonniere, was Dale Redinger of Thief River Falls, a friend of the couple.

The bride's personal attendant was Mrs. Fred Brodin of Thief River Falls.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length, knit gown of deep pink brocade accented with beige shoes and gloves. The mother of the groom wore a floor-length gown fashioned with a printed skirt topped by a blue knit bodice. To accent her attire, she wore white shoes and gloves, a pearl necklace, and a single cymbidium orchid corsage, identical to the one worn by the bride's mother.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 250 relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wold, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, served as host and hostess. They also presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Art Anderson of Fargo, N. D., godmother of the bride, registered the guests.

The three-tiered wedding cake, supported by four heart-shaped cakes, was baked and decorated by Alice Hanson, aunt of the bride. A miniature bride and groom, inside a wedding bell ornament, topped the cake. Mrs. Norman Peterson and Mrs. Jesse Vedum cut and served the cake as Mrs. Verna Wold and Mrs. Clarence Peterson poured. All are aunts of the bride.

Waitresses were Mrs. Timothy Gehrls, Mrs. Dan Carlson, Mary Mehus and Lorna Hanson, friends of the couple. Carrying the gifts were David Wold, brother of the bride, and Gary Hanson, cousin of the bride. The gifts were opened by the bride and groom following the ceremony.

A luncheon for the immediate families and members of the wedding party was hosted by the groom's parents at their home after the wedding rehearsal.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school. Prior to her marriage, she was employed by the Falls Clinic. The groom is also a graduate of Lincoln high school. He operates Northland Electronics in this city. The couple is now at home at 1214 Riverdale Drive. Photo, Neal Fox Studio.

Organist was Mrs. Carl Nordvall who played the "Theme from Romeo and Juliet" along with the traditional nuptial music and accompanied Robert Dincau, brother-in-law of the bride, as he sang, "Song of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer" and Mark Hanson, cousin of the groom, as he sang, "Wedding Song—There Is Love."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attired in a floor length gown of white antique satin and designed with an empire waist and lantern sleeves. Lace trimmed the duchess collar and the bodice was enhanced with embroidered lace and tiny seed pearls. Matching lace and seed pearls were appliqued-on-the-front-of-the-skirt. Her detachable chapel train was silk illusion, trimmed with matching lace and was held in place by a Juliet cap. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, carnations and babies' breath and accented with small purple star flowers.

Mrs. Mary Hemming, sister of the bride from Minneapolis, was matron of honor. She wore a purple velvet hooded floor-length gown with the hood worn up to make the headpiece. A large white feathered mum with a lavender bow was carried over her arm.

Bridesmatrons were Mrs. Rita Dincau, sister of the bride from Willmar, and Mrs. Georgia Jacobsen, friend of the bride from Minneapolis. Linnae Hanson, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid. They were dressed identical to the matron of honor.

Best man was Dennis Hooley, friend of the groom from Stillwater and groomsmen were Keith Tordsen of Round Lake, friend of the groom, Loren Flom, brother of the bride from this city and John Turritten, friend of the groom from Minneapolis. The groom wore a grey Edwardian tuxedo, white shirt, black velvet bow tie and a white rose boutonniere while the groomsmen wore black Tom Jones tuxedoes with lavender ruffled shirts and lavender lace carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother selected a two-piece pink ensemble with embroidered neckline and featuring long chiffon sleeves and complemented with matching accessories. Her corsage was white carnations, centered with pink baby roses.

The groom's mother wore a floor-length, empire styled gown of pink crepe and her corsage was identical to that of the bride's mother.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Ofstedahl and Syvert Hanson, grandparents of the groom.

The reception was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Nels Flom as hostesses for the 155 guests.

The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with lavender roses and the tiers were separated with tall Grecian pillars, enclosing a miniature kissing couple ornament. The cake was cut and served by Doris Lykken and Goldia Millar while Stella Myrvik and Marlene Melander poured.

Sharon Mowrey registered the guests and Anne Millar was in charge of arranging the gifts.

Sixty per cent of the necessary funds will be forthcoming at this time, with the remaining 40 per cent available at a later date.

According to Roy Jorgenson, ICC executive director, 902 youth in the 11-county area will be given summer employment under the program.

The program will begin June 12 and in its entirety, function for 12 weeks. Each enrollee will work 25 hours per week at the federal minimum wage of $1.60 per hour. In order to qualify the youth must be unemployed, be a member of a family whose income meets the income criteria determined by the office of economic opportunity, be enrolled in school and age 16 to 21. A limited number of 15-year-old youths may be enrolled at the discretion of the administrators of the program.

The neighborhood youth corps program is designed to offer the eligible youth financial assistance in the form of wages, job training and motivation toward higher life goals. Program personnel is responsible for counselling the NFC enrollee toward the completion of high school and continuing education.

High school youths who feel they are eligible candidates for the program may make application at their local school, contact the Inter-County Community Council offices at Oklee, Bagley or Fosston, or contact the Outreach workers.

Local agencies will be contacted by council personnel in the near future to solicit work sites to accomodate the youth of our area who will be selected from the applicants by the community action committees in the various cities.

RLF School Is Cited For Work On Immunization

Minnesota elementary schools which achieve high immunization levels among their school enterers are honored with a certificate jointly granted by the Minnesota department of health, the Minnesota state medical association, and the Minnesota congress of parents and teachers.

This recognition has been given to Washington elementary school in Red Lake Falls. This school met and surpassed the goal of having 90 per cent of its current kindergarten classes immunized against rubella, polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough, and—as required by law—had 100 per cent immunized against measles.

In an effort to raise immunization levels of these vaccine-preventable, communicable diseases a tri-county, comprehensive immunization clinic was held during the month of January. Dr. David Mersy, county public health nurses Ruth Ann Kruta and Karen Sollom and numerous volunteers planned the clinic and administered vaccines.

D. S. Fleming, M.D., director of the state health department's division of disease prevention and control, sent the award certificate on behalf of the health department. William Jackson is the school principal and Mrs. Bernice Hendrix is the school nurse.

Washington school is among the first in the state to report levels of protection against communicable disease high enough to merit the award. In figuring percentages, children who were not immunized because of medical contraindications or religious reservations were not counted.

Dr. Fleming points out that "preventable diseases will stay under control only if we keep our guard up. That's why every school should do what this school has done." He adds that many schools that should qualify for the award fail to do so because of low immunization levels against rubella.

Kramer Is Named To Honor Roll Of Teachers

Mrs. M. Holen Elected Legion Aux. President

Mrs. Mayer Holen was elected president of the Ecklund-Holmstrom unit of the American Legion auxiliary at the May meeting held recently at the club rooms. She will succeed out-going president, Mrs. Erwin Ferber.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Donald Hermanson, first vice president, Mrs. Ormond Johnson, second vice president; Mrs. Joe Horejsh, treasurer; Mrs. Rudolph Hanson and Mrs. Norman Peterson, executive board members, Mrs. Alan Noreen, historian; and Mrs. Clarence Peterson and Mrs. Ernest Race, sergeants - at - arms.

At a dinner preceding the meeting, Gold Star members were honored. Each was presented with a gift from the unit.

Special guest at the meeting was Department President Mrs. Robert Beckman of Lake City. In talking to the unit on the theme, "The Time is Now", she stressed involvement in community projects by participating in such work as the Kidney Foundation, school patrol, Girls State and the Heart Research Foundation. She especially emphasized the Heart Research Foundation, a Minnesota project begun by the American Legion and its auxiliary. This project, stated Mrs. Beckman, was established at the University of Minnesota in the amount of $500,000, with the interest to be used for a professorship. The present recipient is Dr. Bob Good, known for his work in bone marrow transplant.

Mrs. Beckman also urged members to work for the passage in November of the Vietnam Bonus, the increase of education benefits for Vietnam veterans, the establishing of May 1 as Law day, and the returning of Memorial day to May 30th. She also asked the members to write their congressmen regarding the astronauts' rights to pray and use the Bible whenever and wherever they wish.

The highlight of Mrs. Beckman's visit was her presentation of the belated Life Membership to Mrs. G. O. Biddick, for her outstanding and long time continuous service in the organization. Mrs. Biddick has served locally as unit president, been chairman on various projects, and served as convention chairman. She was elected district secretary - treasurer in 1966 by district president Mrs. M. R. Levorson, who had been her secretary - treasurer. Mrs. Biddick was scheduled to receive her Life Membership at the Legion birthday dinner along with Mrs. Levorson, but she was unable to attend that event.

The program also included an impressive Memorial service in memory of Mrs. Esther Plough and Mrs. William Rud. The service was lead by Mrs. Vernon E. Nelson, memorial chairman, and Mrs. Robert Brooten, chaplain, with Mrs. Jarvis Prichard as soloist. Mrs. Frank Harger was the accompanist.

Recognition of the Junior auxiliary was given by Junior chairman Mrs. Robert Brooten. She introduced the officers: Jean Peterson, president; Marcelle Cuppett, president - elect; and Ruth Ferber and Nancy Opdahl. All had attended the junior department convention held on April 29.

During the business meeting, the unit voted to donate $25 to the Prisoner of War fund. Chairman Mrs. Holen also outlined the plans for Legion Poppy day, May 18-19.

Delegates and alternates to the district convention to be held June 9-10, in Fosston were elected. Delegates selected were Mrs. Jim Cuppett, Mrs. Erwin Ferber, Mrs. Harold M. Johnson, Mrs. Mayer Holen, Mrs. M. R. Levorson, Mrs. Alan Noreen, Mrs. George Baken, Mrs. Rudolph Hanson, Mrs. Larry Nelson, Mrs. Walter Wicklander, Mrs. Joe Horejsh and Mrs. Donald Hermanson.

Hostesses serving refreshments after the meeting were Mrs. W. A. Maves and Mrs. Charles Josephson. Mrs. Carl Wennberg was the winner of the floral centerpiece.

Solheim Reviews Final Concert Of Local Season

by Sverre Solheim

Members of the Thief River Falls Concert association attending the last of the series, Saturday, April 29, were given a warm, pleasant, and musically enjoyable evening by contralto Louise Parker.

Miss Parker and her accompanist, Richard Zgodava, presented a diverse program of arias, spirituals and contemporary music that was well received by the audience.

Miss Parker's vocal range, flexibility, expressiveness and interpretive ability were consistently apparent as she moved through the Handel and Gluck arias to arias from Bizet's Carmen to spirituals such as the traditional "The Crucifixion", which rendered the audience completely and intently silent.

On the basis of this concert, it is hoped that Miss Parker will make a return appearance at some future date.

THE GREAT
MERLIN

EXCITING FULL EVENING SHOW

Awe, skepticism and bewilderment are just some of the thrills in store for those who attend the performance of The Great Merlin Mystery Show.

Are there really such powers as E.S.P., mental telepathy and clairvoyance? Can the veil of the future be lifted so that we can catch a glimpse of the unknown? Merlin has amused and befuddled audiences for years by, among other things, reading the minds of people right in their own seats in the audience. It is said that Merlin's mental powers are 100 years in advance of our time. His demonstrations include the answering of questions submitted to him by people in the audience. Apparently he receive the questions as a form of mental vibration and then answers the questions according to visions that he sees in a crystal ball. Merlin absolutely disclaims any supernatural powers and answers questions, as he says, simply through extra-ordinary development of his natural psychological faculties. Of course this may be perfectly natural for Merlin but absolutely supernatural for others less wonderfully endowned.

Merlin will also present many of his famed hypnotic demonstrations including mass hypnosis using volunteers from the audience. He will cause a person to become intoxicated on a glass of ordinary water; another to eat an onion believing it to be a peach. Those who volunteer to be hypnotized will feel the weather change from 40 degrees below zero to 120 degrees above zero, all in the twinkling of an eye. After it's all over, the volunteers remember the demonstration as though it had taken place in a dream. Merlin who often hypnotizes individuals with a single glance, claims that if you can concentrate he can read your thoughts and hypnotize you. Curtain time is 8 P.M. at the

Crank Call Is Topic Of Rotary Club's Speaker

Best way to handle crank phone calls is to hang up on the caller before he has a chance to hook you, B. L. Williams, Northwestern Bell Telephone company manager at Crookston, suggested in a talk to the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday.

Williams explained that the crank caller thrives on the excitement, anger and apprehension of the victim.

"Don't give these cranks the opportunity to hook you. As soon as you recognize a call as being unusual, hang up. If the caller persists and calls a second, third and fourth time, continue to hang up immediately," he urged.

Williams contended that in the majority of cases, hanging-up quickly will discourage the crank caller, but admitted that it isn't always that easy. If a threat is made, Williams continued, the police should be notified. If obscene or nuisance calls persist, the telephone company should be called.

"The telephone company will, at your request, do all it can reasonably do to cooperate with authorities in apprehending such offenders," he said.

According to Williams, the telephone company has technical procedures to cope with such calls, and in a good percentage of cases they're being tracked to their origin. He noted, however, that unless the victim agrees to prosecute, the tracing and investigation of abusive calls is generally futile.

Bemidji To Host Fishing Contest On Opening Day

Opening day of fishing season is always a big event in Bemidji, but this year the May 13 opener will feature a giant fishing contest with several hundred dollars worth of prizes. A fiberglass canoe will be the top prize in each of the three fishing categories.

In addition there will be second and third place prizes, plus a drawing for an outboard motor will be held. Everyone who enters the fishing contest will be automatically entered for the drawing for the motor.

Non-fishermen are not forgotten either. Participating merchants will all have registration boxes for a general drawing. Four $50 gift certificates will be given away. The gift certificates will be redeemed by any of the merchants participating in the fishing contest.

The contest will officially open at midnight with the start of the fishing season. The weigh-in station will be located at the Chamber of Commerce office, near the statues of Paul Bunyan and Babe. Fisherman can bring the prize catch between the hours of 12 noon and 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The contest deadline will be Sunday at 7 p.m., with all prizes awarded at that time, including the drawings.

The three fish categories will be for walleye, northern, and the largest panfish. Entry blanks will be available at many area resorts, from participating merchants or can be obtained at the weigh-in station at the Chamber office.

According to the local chairman of the contest, Don Campbell, the contest is just a prelude to bigger and better fishing contests in the years to come.

Reading Program Presented At AVTS May 3rd

Hugh Schowphoester, director of Minnesota "Right To Read" program, presented a program May 3 at the area vocational-technical institute for area school administrators. Teachers from St. Bernard's school of Thief River Falls also attend.

Purpose of the program was to provide direct technical assistance to local educational agencies for building qualitative programs and assisting in the designating and development of a local educational agency person for the district.

There are 24,000,000 "functional illiterates" in the U. S. with 200,000 being produced every year. A functional illiterate cannot read the driver's test, fill in a job application form or read a newspaper with understanding.

It is the intent of the Minnesota "Right To Read" program to develop over a four-year period at least one reading specialist for every local educational agency.

The first phase of the program, involving 20 school districts in Minnesota, is to start by May 25 of this year.

Art Heinze and Dean Paskewitz were co-chairmen for organizing the clean-up and a large number of youngsters turned out for the afternoon of work. Heinze said that one purpose of the project was to promote the realization that if "someone throws it down, someone will have to pick it up". River Basins Commission To Meet May 16-17

Souris Red-Rainy river basins commission meeting May 16-17, at the Ramada Inn, Moorhead, will be a milestone in commission history, according to H. A. Hendrickson, commission chairman.

Less than five years ago, a Presidential order established the water planning agency in Moorhead to complete a comprehensive river basin plan for the Souris, Red, and Rainy basins with 1972 as the deadline year.

Hendrickson said not only is work on schedule, but the main report for the entire region, and 15 appendixes including a detailed sudy, will be published and should be ready for public use this year. Three appendixes are being printed now and will be ready in June.

Open to the public, commission activities will begin at 1:30 p.m., May 16, with a welcome from Moorhead Mayor Dwaine Hoberg. The remainder of the afternoon will be devoted to key topic discussion by speakers from Minnesota and North Dakota.

Joseph Sizer, Minnesota state planning agency, St. Paul, will present the state's new land use plan. Hendrickson said the plan is comprehensive and is expected to be presented in some detail.

Clark Jenkins, Fargo banker and North Dakota state legislator, will bring a report on national environmental projections, from a recent Washington conference, and outline their impact on legislative considerations for 1973 sessions.

Milton Sands, Alvarado, board member of the Middle river-Snake river watershed district, will discuss local problems, needs and steps taken by the district to find solutions.

Other activities of the two-day meeting will be a social hour and dinner beginning at 6:30 p.m. May 16, and completion of routine business beginning at 9 a.m. May 17.

Commission life has been extended by a new Presidential order until June 30, 1973, to help communities achieve useful local applicatin of the five-year study. Several groups in North Dakota and Minnesota have passed resolutions urging another five-year period for Level B or spot-area planning.

Hendrickson urged concerned and interested people to attend the meetings and evening activity. No registration fees are required, but a modest charge will be made for dinner events.

Prowler Runners Win Northwest Conference Track Championship

Weathered out of a home field advantage Tuesday Lincoln high school track coach Jim Sims was forced to switch the 11th annual Northwest Conference track and field meet to East Grand Forks where the Prowlers displayed an abundance of team depth to easily win the league crown for the first time since 1968.

Thief River Falls finished the all day affair with 94 5-6 points to runner-up Crookston with 72½, East Grand Forks 42, Bemidji 35 1-3 and Roseau 11 1-3.

The Pirates, paced by the outstanding performance of Gary Wagner's three first place finishes, captured seven individual titles compared to the Prowlers' five first places, but Thief River Falls placed second nine times and managed to score in every event to end Bemidji's three-year championship reign.

Crookston and Thief River Falls staged an extremely close two-team battle throughout the first part of the meet as the Prowlers barely managed a slim 35½ to 31 advantage after six of the 16 events were completed.

But the second, third and fourth placings began to pay off for the Prowlers as they slowly pulled away until the 220-yard dash when Thief River Falls runners grabbed 11 points to take a commanding 80 7-6 to 56½ advantage with just four events remaining.

Perfect weather conditions on a fast track found seven existing conference records broken yesterday, including three standard-setting performances by the Prowlers.

Team captain Mike Fitzgerald supplied the Prowlers with a record-setting first place in the 440-yard dash as the Prowler senior posted a 51.9 clocking, bettering a 52.8 set by East Grand Forks' Dan Beck in 1968. The other two records posted by the Prowlers were in the relay events where the 880 squad of Jon Markstrom, Steve Beich, Rob Swenson and Markoe Hanson recorded a 1:33.9, beating the old standard of 1:34.0 set by Bemidji in 1969. The substitute-filled Prowler sprint medley team of Beich, Doug Aaseby, Fitzgerald and Rande Smith ran a 3:53.0 to break a 3:57.7 mark set by Thief River Falls in 1970.

Other first place finishes for the Prowlers were turned in by Swenson with a 10.5 in the 100-yard dash and by Hanson with a 23.7 in the 220.

Second place ribbons were won by Rande Smith in the shot put (45-7) and discus (127-6); Doug Aaseby in the 180-yard lows (21.8) and 120-yard high hurdles (17.1); Paul Battleson in the 880 (1:59.4); Hanson in the 100 (10.6); Greg Bulger in the mile (4:48.4); and the mile relay team.

Third place performances by the Prowlers were recorded by freshman Jerry Sandahl in the 180-low hurdles (27.0); Steve Phelps in the 880; Swenson in the 220 (24.0); Bruce Johnson in the two mile (10:31.1); and Mark Kaushagen in the pole vault (11-0).

Claiming fourth places were Russ Larson in the shot (44-0¼); Van Sillerud in the discus (124-5); Kent Smith in the high jump (5-5½); Jeff Rhoden in the 120-yard high hurdles (17.7); Beich in the 100 (10.6); Don Reierson in the 440 (54.5); and Markstrom in the 220 (27.4).

Other records set in the meet included sophomore Leonard Devos' toss of 51-3½ in shot put competition, breaking the old 48-8½ standard set by Larry Joppru of Thief River Falls in 1965; Crookston's Todd Peterson set a 1:58.3 record in the 880, shattering the old mark of 2:03.5 by Gary Hadden of Bemidji set in 1969; Rip Thompson of East Grand Forks' pole vault performance yesterday cleared 12-2¼, breaking the 12-1½ mark set by Mickey James of Bemidji in 1964; and Jeff Larson of Roseau ran a 10:15.0 two-mile to break his own record of 10:20.1 set in 1970.

Next Prowler track action will be Thursday afternoon when the squad takes part in the East Grand Forks triangular, along with Crookston.

Warn Minnesota Boat Owners Of License Scheme

Minnesota boat owners were warned by the Department of Natural Resources today of a registration scheme being operated through the mails out of Washington, D. C.

The warning is being circulated by the U. S. Coast Guard to state agencies—licensing watercraft.

Boat owners throughout the U. S. are receiving a form letter carrying a letterhead of "United States Merchant Marine" with a Washington address and signed by a "William E. Blake, chief of operations, USMM."

With the letter are forms to fill out called "registration and title application".

The letter states that. . ."The United States Merchant Marine. . .shall accept registration and title applications for privately owned small craft, boats and motors," and asking that the forms be completed and returned within five days. The fee is $3-$5.

"The individual sending the letter and his organization is in no way connected with the federal government and performs no useful function to the boat owner," the Coast Guard said.

Krown for 72

Now try driving around totally unfamiliar back roads that wind up and down and all around mountains with huge tree limbs that nearly block the way. Without that rear window.

That's the way it is with most campers and trailers.

But not Krown.

Krown has an exclusive low silhouette design that actually lets you look out the rear window and see the road. And we've been able to do this without sacrificing any head room, sleeping room, and storage room. All work counters are at regular height because of our special tilt range and cabinet assemblies.

Prowlers Surprise Pirates 6-5 In Baseball Action

Junior left hander Pete Sullivan limited Crookston to just three singles over the final 5⅓ innings to compliment two come-from-behind efforts as Thief River Falls surprised the veteran Pirate club 6-5 on the Prowler athletic field Monday night.

The hard-earned triumph upped the Prowler season record to a glittering 6-1 going into today's game against Red Lake Falls on the Prowler diamond, beginning at 5 p.m. Ralph Skay's Lincoln squad will also see action Friday with a double-header at Bemidji.

After early success against Pirate right hander Jim Clausen, the Prowlers found themselves completely frustrated at the plate until the bottom of the fourth inning when Thief River Falls overcame a 5-3 deficit to score three runs.

Mike Drury opened the Prowler fourth with a solid double to center, but the Prowler scoring threat was quickly thrawted as Drury was cut down trying for an extra base on the play.

A pair of walks to Sullivan and Rob Almquist, followed by a wildpitch, set the stage for a sinking line-drive double by Rick Johnson scoring both runners to tie the game 5-5. Johnson moved up a base on an error in the outfield and scored on Tom Hanson's solid single to center to give the Prowler the lead for keeps, 6-5.

Sullivan faced just ten men the last three innings as he teased the frustrated Crookston batters while picking up his third straight win without a loss this season.

Aided by a pair of throwing errors on the part of the Pirates, the Prowlers wasted little time to tie the game 3-3 in the bottom of the first.

A lead-off walk to Almquist and an error on an easy double play ball at second led to a bases loaded situation following a full-court walk to Hanson.

Clausen appeared as if he might get out of the inning without giving up a run as he recorded a strike out and forced an easy foul pop fly caught by the third baseman before Mike Hamilton blasted a hard single to left to score two runs. A high throw on a ground ball to short enabled the third Prowler run to score from third base.

Clausen helped his own cause with a two-run single for a 5-3 Crookston lead before Sullivan came on in relief with two on and no outs.

Sullivan struck out the first batter he faced and retired the second batter with an easy pop fly to short left. Catcher Ordean Peterson ended the inning as he cut down a Pirate runner trying to steal second with a man on third-the second Crookston base runner Peterson tossed out in the game.

Crookston batters met Sullivan's pitches solidly in the sixth, but Prowler shortstop Kim Johnson turned in three far-ranging plays to throw out potential Pirate runners on close plays at first.

The Pirates ended the day with a 9 to 4 advantage in hits, but four Crookston errors figured prominently in the scoring. The Prowlers committed just one error in the game. While going the distance, Calusen struck out four and walked six while Sullivan struck out six without issuing a walk in his relief appearance.

Minnesota Fishing Season Opens May 13

Minnesota's summer fishing season gets underway at full throttle Saturday, May 13, the department of natural resources reminded today.

Unseasonably cool weather, particularly in north central and northeastern Minnesota, means fish will be in their early spring haunts.

In most lakes, walleyes will probably be found in fairly shallow water having only recently completed spawning. In fact the Department has delayed the opening of the season in some areas because of known concentrations of fish either spawning or returning from their spawning runs.

The opening will be delayed until May 20 in the following areas: Pike Bay of Lake Vermilion and St. Louis County.

In the Cut-Foot-Sioux system (described as Williams Marrows and that portion east of Williams Narrows, including what is known as the Cut-Foot-Sioux flowage, Little Cut-Foot-Sioux Lake, Little Little-Cut-Foot-Sioux Lake, and First River Lake, all in Itasca County.)

The opening will be delayed until May 27 on Black Bay of Rainy Lake in St. Louis and Koochiching Counties, south of a line between Four Islands Resort on the west side of the bay and Perry Point on the east side.

Also, all of the Rat Root Lake in Koochiching County and that portion of the Rat Root River between Rat Root Lake and Black Bay; and the Seagull River, Cook County, from Gull Lake to the upper barrier falls and the Cross River from Gunflint Lake to the Gunflint Trail.

Elsewhere, anglers are free to try to get their limits of 6 walleyes, 3 lake trout, 3 northern pike and one muskellunge in addition to crappies, sunfish and other species which have a continuous season.

The statewide bass season won't open until May 27, however bass may be taken starting May 13 in Ash and Pelican lake in St. Louis county, and in that portion of the state north and east of U.S. highway 53. The highway connects Duluth with International Falls.

Minnesota's stream trout season opened April 29.

Ice Conditions Shouldn't Hamper Walleye Opener

Fishermen interested in plying the waters of Lake of the Woods and Upper Red Lake on opening weekend of the fishing season may take heart from reports from those areas today. The walleye and northern fishing season opens at 12:01 a.m. Saturday on Minnesota inland and Minnesota - Canada boundary waters.

Bob Smith of Ken-Mar-Ke resort said that fishermen in the Wheeler's point and Morris point areas will be able to fish the Rainy river and Four Mile bay for sure, and likely the nearby waters as well. There is still ice in the area but a south wind or a rain or both could cause much of it to disappear. The Wheeler's point gap and Morris point gap are both open.

Cal Marvin of Warroad told the Times at noon that ice is loose from shore all around the lake and floating free. Swede Carlson made an aerial survey of the ice conditions and also reported that northern areas such as Flag Island and Angle bay are presently open.

Lake level is up about a foot from this time a year ago, Marvin said, so navigation should be no problem in the area. Once the ice disappears—and this could well happen by the weekend—anglers will be able to reach their favorite angling haunts without difficulty.

Chuck Beck of Sunset lodge on the Tamarac river at Waskish on Upper Red Lake said that the lake is open but that fish are still in the river. Most ditches had a good run into the lake this psring and many walleyes went up the ditches to spawn, he said. Anticipation is for a much better opening than a year ago.

Rumors that the opening is being delayed a week at Waskish are unfounded, he said. The state department of natural resources has announced delayed openings on a few lakes and streams, but none are of particular interest to the majority of fishermen from this area.

Regarding Lake of the Woods, Cal Marvin said that the area has had no rain in two weeks and that the spring run-off is completed. A south wind of 25 to 30 miles per hour and a rain would quickly take the ice out of the Big Traverse area of the lake.

DNR Volunteers Needed For 1972 Deer Registration

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources announced it will require registration of all deer taken during the 1972 firearms season, with all of the registration to be handled by private parties.

The Department is currently asking for volunteers who would be able to provide services for the stations.

It is expected that there will be at least one registration station in nearly every city or village with the stations collecting the following information: license number of hunter, date of kill, date of registration, sex and age of deer (fawn or adult) and location of kill.

Selection of stations will depend on hours of operation, location, personnel and parking. Such places as gasoline service stations or other small businesses open seven days a week are likely locations for the registration stations.

The Department feels that the business at the stations will pick up simply because of more people stopping.

The archery deer will be handled as in the past.

Those who may be interested in using their business establishment as a registration station should contact their nearest game manager. Locations of the game managers in this area are: Robert Farmes, Thief River Falls, 681-2396; Gerald Maertens, Crookston, 281-2976; or George Davis, Karlstad, 436-3755.

Watch For Litter During Minnesota Fishing Season

Minnesota anglers have a lot to say about whether lakes, streams, campgrounds and boat launching sites are clean and attractive or filthy and hazardous, according to Robert Herbst, Commissioner of Natural Resources.

With the summer fishing season opening May 13, Herbst noted that anglers are among the heaviest users of state recreational lands and waters.

St. Paul Dispatch To Sponsor Fishing Contest

Three thousand dollars more in prizes have been added to the 20th annual "World's Largest Fishing Contest", sponsored by the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press newspapers, making a total of $25,000—an all-time high. The contest opens Saturday, May 13, and closes midnight, Sunday, September 10.

The regular weekly sweepstakes prizes and super sweepstakes prizes (with an average value of $395 each) which any size fish can win are 7½ hp outboard motors, fishing boats, canoes and boat trailers.

A 1973 snowmobile and more than $4,500 worth of outboard moters (ten in all) head the list of prizes. The larest single prize is the snowmobile and the second largest single prize is the complete fisherman's package consisting of a boat with a 20 h.p. outboard motor and trailer plus a year's supply of motor oil. Another super sweepstakes prize is a his and hers pair of mini-trail bikes. Every fish entered in the contest will be eligible for these sweepstakes drawings.

As in past years, a first prize muskie package and first, second and third prize packages for northern, walleye, crappie, sunfish and bass, plus two honorable mentions, will be awarded each of the 17 weeks.

The weekly first, second and third prize packages will be made up of special contest tackle packs, fillet knives and lures, rod and reel combinations, wildlife prints, automatic fly reels, sinker selections, Wisconsin vacation guides, Minnesota vacation and travel annual, along with various lures and lines.

In addition to the $25,000 in merchandise to be given away, more than 475 fishermen will receive personalized, hand-lettered champion's award certificates bordered in gold and suitable for framing. A like number of resorts, bait shops, boat landings and sport shops will receive similar big fish headquarters certificates.

Official entry blanks—which must be used—list all the rules on the back of each blank. They may be obtained at most resorts, sport shops, boat liveries and bait shops.

To be eligible, fish must be legally caught in Minnesota, its boundary waters, or any of the 24 western Wisconsin counties listed on the back of each entry.

Judges of the contest recommend that fishermen get their entry blanks before they go fishing. The blanks must be filled out completely and double checked by the entrant and both witnesses to the weighing and measuring of the fish. Any omissions will disqualify the entry.

Individuals may enter as often as they wish but only one entry per fish. No more than one member of an immediate family will be eligible for a weekly merchandise prize.

Sportsmen Will Discuss Land Classification

Discussion of the state land classification program which is of interest to sportsmen and others in northern Minnesota will take place at the regular meeting of the Pennington county sportsmen club next Wednesday, May 17. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the city auditorium meeting room, and all persons interested in hunting are encouraged to attend.

Trees Shipped From Nurseries By Minn. DNR

Department of Natural Resources plans to start shipping tree seedlings from forest nurseries beford the end of April—providing the weather cooperates.

William Aultfather, director of lands and forestry, said nursery workers will begin removing trees from seed beds and shipping them to buyers as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

First shipments will be made to buyers in the southern part of the state since the northern half of Minnesota is still in the grip of winter weather.

NOTICE OF MEETING

Board of review of Excel township will be held at Steiner hall May 22 at 8 p.m. Chester Larson, Clerk. 2t39c

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother Robert (Butch) Manning who was taken from us so suddenly 6 years ago May 7, 1966.

Softly the stars are shining
Upon a precious grave.
Beneath lies one we deeply love,
But whom they could not save.
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile.
Little do they know the heartache
That our smiles hide all the while
We mourn for him in silence.
No eyes can see us weep.
But many silent tears are shed.
When others are asleep.

Girls Invited To Seek Title Of Miss Teen Ager

Applications are being accepted for the Miss Teen Ager of Minnesota pageant to be held at the Holiday Inn Central in Minneapolis on August 5. Girls 13-17 are eligible to enter, if U. S. citizens and residents of Minnesota, but contestants must still be 17 on Sept. 1, 1972.

Judging for girls between these ages is based on scholaitic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality and appearance, and there is no talent or bathing suit competition. The pageant has been cited for its worthwhile efforts to recognize the civic-mindedness and scholastic abilities of today's youth.

There is no entrance fee, and judging is handled by outstanding civic and educational leaders from the state of Minnesota. Each girl will be interviewed individually by a panel of judges on the day of the pageant, and again at the pageant that evening.

Winner from Minnesota will compete along with winners from the other 49 states at the national finals in Atlanta, Ga. on August 26. Winner, and first and second runner up from Minnesota will receive scholarships, and Miss Teen Ager of Minnesota will have her food, lodging and plane flight paid to the national finals in Atlanta. This will be a four-day trip and tour, August 23-26.

All interested girls may obtain applications by writing to Official Certification Headquarters, 126 Bunn Drive, Rockton, Illinois 61072, according to Mrs. E. W Johnson, publicity director.

Traffic Counters Serve Purpose In Highway Program

Minnesota highway department has about a 100 automatic traffic counters placed on freeways, trunk highways, county roads and even some city streets to monitor traffic pressures on selected, sensitive stretches of Minnesota's highway transportation system.

The traffic counts, used by the department for planning, design and maintenance purposes, yeild an abundance of information reflecting the nature of our climate, the importance of tourism and agriculture in our economy and our largely suburban way of life.

The first known traffic count was made during one week in October of 1912 on a 15-mile stretch of the Lake City-Red Wing road, now highway 61. It revealed an average daily traffic count of 37 automobiles and 51 horse-drawn wagons.

Subsequent traffic counts made at various points from 1916 to 1919 disclosed a rapid shift to motor vehicles, described at the time as "remarkable". In 1916 the daily count on the most heavily traveled roads averaged 490 vehicles. Seventy-four were horse-drawn and 416 motorized, including two trucks.

Three years later, in 1919, the same roads carried a daily average of 1,036 vehicles. Only 11 were horse-drawn, and motor trucks numbered an astonishing 15 per day.

A statewide traffic census in 1919 depicted the extent to which the motor vehicle had displaced the horse in but seven short years. By 1919 fully 92 per cent of all traffic was motor traffic. The census reported as "significant" the increased use of motor trucks, which were "rapidly supplanting teams for hauling farm products."

By 1971 there were 453,000 trucks registered in Minnesota, approximately 140,000 of them farm trucks.

Today the traffic counter on Interstate 94 at Victoria street in St. Paul shows this leg of the metropolitan freeway system to be the most heavily traveled road in Minnesota. In June of 1971 there were 96,926 vehicles which passed that checkpoint, a record certain to be exceeded this year, judging from reports.

February of 1972 had an increase of 5,293 vehicles a day on I-94, when compared to the average daily count of a year ago. The same rising trend was recorded at checkpoints on I-35E and I-35W. The average daily vehicle counts on those freeways in February were, respectively, 5,486 and 4,149 higher than the year before.

Questions Who Is Actual Owner Of Environment

Society must decide "who owns the environment" and technology must be re-directed to reduce stress on the environment, agricultural economist Vernon Ruttan told an Earth Week audience at the University of Minnesota recently.

Ruttan, director of the university's economic development center, said solving the environmental crisis will depend on the establishment of more effective property rights for resources that are presently created as free goods. Among those free goods are air and water.

The current environmental crisis is due in large part to rising competition between consumers and producers for access to environmental resources. Consumers are placing a much higher value on freedom from pollution, congestion and "visual insults" than in the past, he added.

The growth of energy and commodity production and consumption is, at the same time, increasing the demands on the environment to absorb by-products from commodity production and consumption. Society has not yet discovered an effective way to resolve the emerging conflicts in resource use, Ruttan said.

There is little hope that these problems will be solved through a public relations effort designed to achieve a new "ethics of conservation," the university economist added.

Also, Ruttan said he was skeptical of the possibilities of the regulatory approach to resource management. "The administrative capacity of public agencies is limited and there is a tendency for regulatory agencies to become captives of the industries they are designed to regulate," he said.

Ruttan participated in an afternoon panel discussion in Coffman memorial union on the Twin Cities campus.

Minn. Farmers Had Insect Loss Of $33,516,735

Insects cost Minnesota farmers—and indirectly consumers, too—an estimated economic loss of $33,516,735 on 1971 field crops, according to an annual special study released by Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald.

The study made by the plant industry division of the Minnesota department of agriculture shows the loss was a significant $15,097,846 less than 1970's losses to insects.

Corn borers and corn rootworms continued to be Minnesota's most expensive pest problems, accounting for $30,602,755 of the total loss estimated.

Robert Flaskerd, state plant disease and insect control specialist, advised that corn borers reduced Minnesota's 1971 corn yield by an estimated 17,963,613 bushels, representing a value of $20,658,155 at last year's average price of $1.15 per bushel. Farmers spent $374,000 on attempts to control the borers.

Although corn rootworms destroyed 3,984,000 bushels of corn worth $4,581,600 and farmers spent an even greater amount, $4,989,000 on control measures for an aggregate loss of $9,576,600, Flaskerd estimated the investment in control actually produced a net gain of $10,310,600 over control costs. He said treatment of 1,663,000 acres of corn destroyed enough rootworms to save 13,304,000 bushels of corn worth $15,299,600.

South central Minnesota experienced the heaviest loss to corn insects, an estimated 6,793,453 bushels or 5.13 per cent of the crop. West central had a higher loss ratio, 5.37 per cent, but a smaller economic loss due to less corn acreage. Other district loss rates were 3.06 in the southwest, 2.85 in southeast, 1.83 in central, 1.32 in northwest and 1.2 in east central.

Estimated losses due to insect control costs and reduced yields on other 1971 Minnesota crops are: potatoes, $984,352; alfalfa and grass hay, $399,641; sweet corn for processing, $141,180; wheat, oasts, barley, rye, $38,000; soybeans, $25,500; and sugar beets, $2,800.

Copies of the detailed insect loss report will be available after May 12 from the Plant Industry Division, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 670 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Farm Bureau Is Pleased By Stay Of Court Order

U.S. supreme court's allowing Minnesota to temporarily retain its present 202-member legislature is "an encouraging indication" that the nation's highest tribunal is aware of how "serious a matter" is involved.

Carroll G. Wilson of Faribault, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, made that observation this week. The high court Monday approved a request by the state Senate that a three-judge federal court panel's ordering the Minnesota legislature's size reduced to 140 be stayed until the U.S. supreme court finally decides on an appeal challenging the panel's authority to do so.

Farm Bureau, since shortly after the federal court directive was issued January 25, has "strongly voiced opposition to a court-imposed reduction in the legislature's size," Wilson said. In addition, Farm Bureau has been legally involved in this law suit, as a friend of the court, in efforts to solve Minnesota's reapportionment dilemma, he noted.

Declaring that the organization is "deeply involved" in the appeal to the U.S. supreme court, the Minnesota Farm Bureau executive said that "the overriding reason we are is because we believe that basically a constitutional issue is involved—whether redistricting is the function of the legislative branch of state government or whether a federal court is able to reduce the legislature's size.

"We think not," Wilson said, adding that there is nothing in the U.S. Constitution that mandates or permits the federal judiciary to determine the size of a state's legislative body. "To us, this is clearly the responsibility of the legislature itself," he said.

Wilson stated that "the situation could change" when the supreme court's final decision is rendered. However, he said that Farm Bureau is optimistic that the U.S. supreme court will decree that the federal district court lacked jurisdiction when it ordered a reduction in the size of the Minnesota legislature. "Farm Bureau certainly applauds the stay of execution; we feel very strongly that it should be made permanent," the state Farm Bureau president commented.

Wilson also renewed Farm Bureau's pledge "to work tirelessly for a final decision which we would hope will be favorable to our position in this historic appeal."

Honor Wilkins For 30 Years Of Road Work

Mel Wilkins of Grygla was given a surprise party recently by employees of Marshall county's highway department and other friends, in recognition of 30 years of service as a motor grader operator for the department.

The party was held in the new Marshall county garage at Grygla. It was decorated with balloons and streamers. A table held a large cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Sheldon Peterson of Grygla and topped with a small motor grader.

About 50 people attended and greeted Wilkens with "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Only one thing really counts: MY CHILD!

There is no glory in being a mother unless one has learned how to prepare a child for Life. Nor is there any pride in motherhood unless one has done her utmost to share with her child the great spiritual heritage which is her own.

People love to compliment us: "Just like her mother!" they say.

If mothers through the centuries had been satisfied with that goal, our civilization would have stagnated in the days of the cave men.

The mark of a devoted mother is her desire to make of her child even a finer person than she or her husband has become. And in this common aim she and her husband find their staunchest ally in the Church.

MURRAY OLDERMAN

Boys aged 9 thru 12 are reminded by famous sports cartoonist Murray Olderman that the Official Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit and Throw Competition (PH&T) is underway again. Now in its third year, the nationwide program stresses the importance of physical fitness and skill development by encouraging youngsters to exercise and practice while preparing for competition. PH&T winners are determined by three events: pitching for accuracy, hitting for distance and throwing for distance and accuracy. Winners advance through local, district and division competition until eight boys win the right to compete for four national championships at baseball's All-Star Game, scheduled for July 25 in Atlanta, Ga. Registration continues until June 4, just before the start of local competition. PH&T is sponsored by Major League Baseball and Phillips Petroleum Company.

"My ideal man never would think about morality. He naturally would do the kind, generous, splendid thing. While in all other departments we prefer native gifts to industry (which is also a gift of a less specialized sort), we have a queer notion that in morality industry is better than genius." —Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.

A Major Hurdle

Acceptance of percentage of increase in teacher salaries for 1972-73 and 1973-74 by the Thief River Falls board of education and teachers' negotiating council Monday evening was a major hurdle in negotiations in the district. The figures of 4.5 per cent increase for 1972-73 and 5.2 per cent for 1973-74 were truly arrived at by good faith bargaining, and would appear to be a reasonable compromise.

In our opinion, the negotiating council and the board exercised good judgment in making substantial movement from their previous positions. From past experience in negotiations, we have seen that frustrations develop, tempers flare and ill will is created to a greater degree when movement is non existent or is by pennies instead of dollars. For a time it had appeared that situation might develop this year.

Again this year, we sat through the negotiations as an observer and watched as the compromise was reached. This included regular attendance at caucases of the school board when the others in attendance were excluded. We appreciate this consideration by the board, since it permits us to have background to eventual decisions.

For the first time this year, we were also invited to attend two caucus sessions of the teachers' council. This consideration was also appreciated.

Note must be made, however, that the school board is a publicly-elected body, and we presume a right to attend its sessions because of this. The teachers' council is basically a group representing a non-public organization. We presume no right to attend any of its sessions to which we have not been invited by one or more of its officers or representatives, but we did appreciate the invitation.

Negotiations are not completed although settlement has been reached on percentage of increase. Yet to be determined is how that lump sum is to be distributed, in what manner fringe benefits are to be provided and a number of other conditions of employment which the board and teachers have previously agreed to negotiate. It is to be expected the negotiating will continue on a high level of mutual respect and understanding.

With agreement on percentage of increase, however, a major hurdle has been cleared.

Mark Twain On Taxes

Internal Revenue service, in the interest of simplifying paper work, eliminated 583 forms or form letters in 1971. This act, according to the Wall Street Journal, leaves only 13,734 forms remaining.

For those concerned about being deep in the heart of taxes, consider the words of Mark Twain who described his affairs thus:

". . .a wicked tax return—a string of impertinent questions about my private affairs—gotten up with such marvelous ingenuity that the oldest man in the world couldn't understand what the most of them were driving at—questions, too, that were calculated to make a man report about four times his actual income to keep from swearing to a falsehood. I looked for a loophole, but there did not appear to be any.

"I am acquainted with a very opulent man whose house is a palace; whose table is regal; whose outlays are enormous;-yet a man who has no income, as I have often noticed by the revenue returns. And to him I went for advice in my distress.

"He took my dreadful exhibition of receipts, he put on his glasses, he took his pen, and presto — I was a pauper! It was the neatest thing that ever was. He did it simply by deftly manipulating the bill of deductions."

Bless You, HOW

According to the International Falls Daily Journal, an organization has sprung up in Kingman, Ariz., that is called Happiness of Womanhood (HOW). It is dedicated to the preservation of the family, that is, preservation of the masculine role of guide, protector and provider, and the feminine role of wife, mother and homemaker.

The organization is seeking to achieve a membership of 10 million, to "insure respect for God's divine plan, the family structure" to "remove communist and socialist teachings from our schools," to "teach our young daughters the joys of womanhood," to "preserve femininity" and "restore morality," to "eliminate drug abuse, return to patriotism" and "elect to governmental office men or women who are dedicated to God, the family and the nation."

HOW has a League of Housewives who promise "never again to say, 'I am JUST a housewife'," or to accept mail addressed to Ms., or to subscribe to "so-called women's magazines that are promoting the Women's Liberation movement."

Instead, they promise to "practice the art of femininity and make my husband aware at all times that I am a woman," and "to do all I can to dispel the idea that housewives are frumpy." Their pledge to the men is: "You make the living and we'll make life worth living."

HOW is opposed to the equal rights amendment to the Constitution and expressed outrage that only eight United States senators opposed it. The organization said that the destiny of American women were being determined by Women's Lib, representing three per cent of the women of the country. It is now seeking to prevent ratification of the amendment by the required number of states—38.

Bless you, HOW. It is immensely reassuring to know that there are women proud enough of being women to stand up and say so. Let us hope there are enough of you so that succeeding generations may benefit from the stability to give to our world.

Mother's Day is coming Sunday, and mothers like those in HOW are the ones who have brought honor to the name.

Change In Attitude

The Detroit Lakes Tribune claims that the following jewel on the consequences of too much booze was written by a Detroit Lakes man, apparently on purpose:

Dear John:

Well, about this time of the year I usually take a moment to write a few letters to my good friends; the time when I remember all the good things and indulge myself to the extent of getting a little sentimental.

It is a blustery evening, but here in my den it's cozy and comfortable. I'm sitting before a nice open fire with my typewriter, sort of half-listening to the radio and slowly sipping a nice, very dry double martini. I only wish you were here, and since you are not, the least I can do is to toast your health and happiness, so time out, old pal—while I bend my elbow to you.

I just took time out to mix another martini and while I was out in the kitchen I thought of all the time I would waste this evening if I went out to mix another drink every once in awhile, so I just made up a big pitcher of martinies and brought it back inw ith me so i-d havr it right besideme and wouldnt have to waste time making more of then. So now Im all set and here goes. Besides marinis are a great drink. For some reson they neverseeme to affec me in the slightesst. Can drink therm all day long. So here goes.

The greatessts thing in tje whole wokld is frienship. And beleve me pal you are the geartests pal anybody ever had. Do you remembre all the swell times we had togehter pal??! Interesting Opinions

"Why is it necessary to have a February 29 every leap year? Twenty-eight days are more than sufficient for a month like February. In fact, three days would do nicely. February is the kind of month that is best disposed of quickly, like an abscessed tooth. It is sheer masochism to take the perfectly good extra day that leap year gives us and use it to prolong February. The civilized adjustment is easily made by adding the extra day onto the end of July, giving everyone a bonus day in vacation season when a day is something to be grateful for. July 32 is no more absurd than February 29." —Russell Baker

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I am a 65-year-old World War II veteran. Am I eligible for a pension from the Veterans administration?

A—Yes, if you are single and your income from all sources is below $2,600. If you have dependents, the income limitation is $3,800. Your net worth is also a factor. Suggest you contact the VA for an application form so your eligibility can be determined.

Q—Am I still eligible for educational benefits if I was separated from military service in January of 1966?

A—Yes. Veterans with more than 180 days of active duty who received an other than dishonorable discharge between Jan. 31, 1955 and June 1, 1966, have eligibility for eight years from date of discharge, or until May 31, 1974. Veterans separated for service-connected disabilities are eligible regardless of length of service.

Q—I receive military retired pay for a disability that would entitle me to Veterans administration compensation if I waived my retired pay. Am I eligible for VA educational benefits under the vocational rehabilitation program?

A—You may be eligible for this benefit so you should contact the Veterans administration office nearest you. However, it is not necessary to waive your retired pay to qualify for VA vocational rehabilitation educational benefits.

The Silver Year of the New Solum 4-H Club

The New Solum 4-H club had their April meeting at Rosebank club house with president, Debbie Reierson in charge. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite bird. Projects in which members were enrolled were checked as this was the last chance to make a change for this club year. The only program was the presentation of the play prepared for the county contest. The name of the play was "Oh, Baby". The cast included Debbie Reierson, Randy Lambert, Leonard Kron, Peggy Lubarski, Barbara Holmstrom, and Barbara Bauer. Laura Kron was the director and Neil Johnson in charge of stage and properties. Debbie Reierson presented Laura Kron with a corsage in appreciation from the members for her work in directing the cast. As the club members and guests enjoyed the comedy of this play, some the plays of previous years were recalled as the 25 years of club work were rolled back. Former 4-H actors and parents will have memories with these titles: "When Women Get Together", "Father Goes on a Diet", "Johnny Wrecks the Car", "Wilbur Faces Facts", "Foxey Grandma", "Pinch Me", and now "Oh, Baby". Although the club has won elimination contests a number of times, only one time did their play become the county champion. That was the 1965 play, "Pinch Me" coached by Mrs. Mike Johnson, Mrs. Percy Hagen and Judy Reierson. The cast included Karen Kron, Susan Holmstrom, Linda Aaseby, Janet Holmstrom, Deanna Jarshaw, John Hellquist and Douglas Johnson. John Hellquist was named the best actor from the county. Through these plays with too many 4-Hers taking part to name them here, and through share the fun numbers and short skits at club meetings, boys and girls have learned the fun of acting and working together to bring pleasure to others. At the second elimination contest held at the Northrup school on Thursday night, Randy Lambert was judged best actor of the evening when "Oh, Baby" was given in county competition. The last elimination contest was held at Goodridge the following Monday night. Laura Kron accompanied Mrs. Glenn Odberg and Mrs. Sherman Lysne of Newfolden to this contest when Mrs. Odberg served as one of the three judges.

NEWS OF ECOLOGY

MOTORISTS URGED TO PARTICIPATE IN NATIONAL CLEAN AIR CAMPAIGN

Air pollution, like the weather, is often talked about but only rarely changed by the hands of man. Now, each operator of America's 110 million motor vehicles can take a very real and effective stand against the continuing destruction of our environment by actively participating in "National Check Your Vehicle Emissions Month."

Because some 40 per cent of our air pollutants come from automobiles, much of this from cars needing maintenance, it is vitally important that everyone who drives takes part in this national program, which promises to drastically cut down on harmful vehicle emissions.

With the idea stemming from a recent Congressional resolution, April has been targeted as "National Check Your Vehicle Emissions Month," during which automotive service mechanics all over the country will be offering a 12-minute, three-systems engine check to help spot the cars which are excessive polluters.

Developed by a team of technical experts from the service industry, the special check tests the operating efficiency of an auto's ignition, carburetion and emission control systems. Comprehensive studies show that when these three systems are properly adjusted, individual vehicle pollution can be reduced significantly. Fuel cost savings (as much as $21.00 per vehicle, per year) can also be realized.

So make it your business to stop into one of these cleaner air centers before the end of April. If you do, chances are more than good that everyone will breathe a lot easier by the end of May.

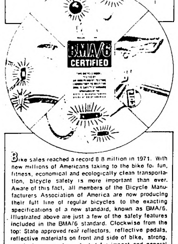
New Mark of Quality in Bikes



Bike sales reached a record 8.8 million in 1971. With now millions of Americans taking to the bike for fun, fitness, economical and ecologically clean transportation, bicycle safety is more important than ever. Aware of this fact, all members of the Bicycle Manufacturers Association of America are now producing their full line of regular bicycles to the exacting specifications of a new standard, known as BMA/6. Illustrated above are just a few of the safety features included in the BMA/6 standard. Clockwise from the top: State approved rear reflectors, reflective pedals, reflective materials on front and side of bike, strong, sturdy frame members, tested for impact and general integrity. Look for the BMA/6 seal on the seat mast of that new bike.

The Ultimate Stunt

Audiences this summer at 25 or 30 state fairs, local festivals, even major auto races will see the ultimate thrill show stunt — a barrel rolling Javelin flying 52 feet through the air!

During the two-second life of the act, the ton and a half American Motors sporty car arches up and outward from a take off ramp, rolls a full 360 degrees counterclockwise while more than 15 feet above the ground, then noses down onto a tapered landing ramp and coasts to a stop.

Named the "Javelin Astro Spiral Jump," the electrifying stunt of corkscrewing a basically stock automobile into space is the first new idea to be seen in a thrill show in 30 years. It was made possible, however, by modern computer technology originally applied to highway safety problems at the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Buffalo, New York.

During the past five years, CAL has been investigating for the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads the causes and effects of single-car accidents. The project is aimed towards the eventual reduction in damage to cars and injuries to motorists that often occur when a vehicle shoots off the road. A major part of the study has been centered around the electronic simulation of car crashes by means of the laboratory's sophisticated computer system.

To set up parameters for the "Javelin Astro Spiral Jump," Cornell Laboratory modified this intricate computer program. It plotted out the sensitive designs for the ramps, approach and landing speeds for the car, and related all these factors specifically to the size and weight of the Javelin. Then, some dummy trials were set up with a driverless automobile to prove out the computer's findings.

The first attempt was an unqualified success, and after two more unmanned test runs, the All American Hell Drivers thrill show, a promotion of J. M. Productions headed by Jay Milligan of Orchard Park, New York, took over to try the stunt with a driver at the wheel. Milligan's thrill show is built around American Motors cars and is licensed by Cornell Laboratory to perform the "Javelin Astro Spiral."

A six-cylinder SST Javelin was selected by Milligan for the stunt, the smaller engine being chosen to minimize front-end weight. Inside, a race-car type roll cage was built to protect the driver, lap belts and double shoulder harness were installed, the driver's seat and steering wheel were relocated to the center of the car to give better aim at the ramp and to provide better balance for the car during its roll.

In order to leave the launching ramp at the desired 45 degree angle, flip into a roll rate of more than 200 degrees per second and land softly on the receiving ramp, the car is programmed to be traveling exactly 40 mph when the take-off point is reached.

The "ultimate stunt" was first performed successfully in public at the Houston, Texas Astrodome last January with Charles Galiano at the controls before a record Astrodome crowd of 98,000 for a two night performance. It has since been seen in Florida, Georgia and several other states. Before summer is over hundreds of thousands of fairgoers and auto race fans throughout the country will have seen the most spectacular auto act of all time.

"Bushcraft" Is Serious Guide For All Campers

To enable a person to face nature on its own terms and survive is the purpose of bushcraft. Following its principles one can live out of doors for any length of time, relying only on one's skills and resources, making use of natural materials. Bushcraft develops the powers of observation and the ability to adapt and improvise.

Richard Graves's "Bushcraft" (Schocken Books, May 22, 1972, $10.00 hardcover and $3.95 paperback) shows how to make camping more comfortable and considerably safer. It is ultimately geared to camping without equipment. Much of the materials will be new even to experienced campers, but its techniques can be applied by all campers whether contemplating a once-a-year venture with a car, or a weekend backpacing adventure. To practice bushcraft, all a person needs is a really sharp tool and a good deal of common sense.

"Bushcraft" shows the camper how to find food and water in sufficient quantities in all but the most arid areas. It establishes safe principles for recognizing edible, safe foods and ways to overcome possible contamination of water, no matter how badly polluted it may appear.

With regard to food, there are essentially three principles: If the food looks healthy and clean, it may be all right; if the food smells all right, it can be tasted; if the taste is all right, the food is probably safe. (However, Graves cautions: be careful with nuts and seeds; regard red in food as a danger signal; avoid the fungi.)

For water, Graves describes something of the habits of insects, birds, animals and reptiles, so that the camper can often find their hidden stores of precious water.

It may be necessary for a camper to tell time without a watch or direction without a compass. A watch may be out of action and a compass may not always be reliable or of great value where deposits of iron affect the needle. Obtaining time and direction without equipment is a practical necessity, and in general one can be more accurate than the average watch or compass. The methods given in "Bushcraft" have been proven in jungle and desert conditions and are applicable anywhere on the earth's surface.

Richard Graves created and led the Australian jungle rescue detachment during World Warr II. The detachment successfully effected more than 300 rescues, most of which were in enemy territory, without losing a man. During this time, he wrote the notes for "Bushcraft", based on the premise that the essential preliminary for rescue is survival.

"Bushcraft" is the only book on survival and camping so profusely illustrated, making its instructions easy to follow. Every rope and knot discussed is also diagrammed, every method of making a fire illustrated, every kind of shelter is photographed; by reading carefully even a beginning camper can learn to make and read maps and charts.

Designed for outdoor use, the soft and hardcover editions have laminated covers to insure maximum durability.

Patrol Ordered To Give Citation To Hitchhikers

In a recent memorandum to all officers, highway patrol chief John Harbinson ordered that arrest citations be issued to all pedestrians (hitchhikers) who are unlawfully present within the right of way of interstate highways.

Exceptions to this order are persons performing necessary work tasks and occupants of disabled vehicles who may be seeking help.

Harbinson warned that, with the coming of increased movement upon the freeways, the number of hitchhikers will multiply to dangerous proportions. Included in the right of way are the entrance and exit ramps.

"Aside from the danger to the pedestrian, there is an added hazard of a driver reducing speed and stopping to pick up the hiker," he said.

Though the memorandum deals with enforcement on the state's freeways, Harbinson pointed out that the law also deals with hitchhiking on other streets and highways. Specifically, hitchhikers are in violation if they are standing in the street or roadway. They must be up on the curb or on the shoulder.

"Better yet," advises Harbinson, "Don't hitchhike at all. Hundreds of robberies, rapes and other crimes have been committed by both drivers and hikers throughout the country."

Honor FFA For Support Given Camp Courage

At their state convention in St. Paul recently, Minnesota Future Farmers of America (FFA) honored 12 of 150 chapters that contributed more than $38,500 from sales of gleaned corn or donated farm crops to finance camperships for handicapped youngsters at Camp Courage for crippled children near Annandale, Minn.

The funds also helped refurbish the speech therapy building and covered sponsorship of camp travel and amateur radio training for handicapped people.

Minnesota FFA chapters have contributed over $330,000 to Camp Courage since 1953.

Finding Summer Employment Is Difficult Job

"Finding a summer job is going to be more difficult for young people this year but not impossible," says J. K. Stadum, manager of the Minnesota Department of Manpower Services office in Thief River Falls, in a recent statement concerning summer employment.

An important step in summer job hunting is to register early at the Manpower Services claims to be the single best source of summer job openings for all types of work.

The summer job hunter should consider any type of work even though it is not what he or she wants to do. Experience is gained on any job.

Friends, neighbors and relatives may be able to help and are often good employer contacts.

If a paying job isn't available the employment service recommends volunteer work, saying it will pay dividends in experience and self-confidence.

Request Pilots To Use Landing Lights May 14-20

All pilots have been requested by the Federal Aviation Administration to participate in the FFA's observance of National Transportation Safety week, May 14 through 20.

The FFA asks all pilots to use their landing lights in all daylight traffic patterns during the week. This is intended to serve two purposes. It will signify that the pilot supports efforts for increased safety in 1972 and it will also help the FFA to determine if displaying landing light during daylight will make planes significantly more visible when approaching uncontrolled airports where the collision hazard is most prevalent.

Arctic Enterprises, Inc., has announced it is offering other snowmobile makers licensing rights to one of its patented product features for safety and greater riding comfort.

Arctic President Lowell T. Swenson said his firm has already licensed a major competitior to use Arctic's U.S. patented snowmobile ski shock absorber. The patent covers a shock absorber connected between the spindle and one extremity of the ski. It assists in controlling rebound of the ski spring as well as fore-aft tilting movement of the ski. A corresponding Canadian patent is expected to be issued soon.

Swenson said the company will make the patent available, on reasonable terms, to all members of the snowmobile industry since it "provides greater operator safety and comfort".

Terms of the initial licensing agreement were not disclosed, but Swenson said the license fee was "nominal" and based on a per unit charge.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Mrs. Lloyd Larson of Holt

Sincere apologies are due Mrs. Lloyd Larson of Holt. Before Easter, Mrs. Larson was contacted and she obligingly contributed a recipe for Kitchen Karnival. A few hours after talking to her, I was hit by a whole contingent of virus bugs. After almost two weeks in the hospital and another three weeks, plus, at home, I returned to my desk to find the recipe, with all the information, except the name of the contributor. Consequently the recipe couldn't be published. Again, my apologies.

Once again, I received the same wonderful care at Northwestern hospital as I did earlier this year. However, this time, the thing that impressed me the most was my roommate. Wish it were possible for everyone to meet her. Only once did she complain, and that was to say, "I just don't like these squeeze bottles." As I watched her trying to extract lotion from a hard plastic squeeze bottle, with hands so deformed by arthritis, I could well understand her complaint. Her disposition was always one of cheerfulness. After learning, from those who knew her, of her many illnesses, some which were near fatal, I was told that she was always "Just Fine." She saw the good in people, and the silver lining in every cloud, regardless of how thin the lining was. Each day with its problems was faced with the faith that "This too will pass and the sun will soon shine." I was happy to hear that she has recovered. What a beacon she must be in her husband's parish, near the Canadian border. (EMS)

Now for Mrs. Larson's recipe for a simple, yet elegant dessert.

Mandarin Orange dessert

3 egg whites, beaten stiff
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup sugar
1 cup crushed krisp rice breakfast cereal
1 pint whipping cream
½ cup powdered sugar
1 package instant vanilla pudding
¾ cup coconut
2 cans mandarin oranges, drained

Method: Beat egg whites with cream of tartar. Fold in nuts, sugar and crushed cereal. Spread in a 9x13 inch pan. Bake 25 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Cool. Whip cream, adding powdered sugar. Add pudding mix, mixing well. Fold in coconut and mandarin oranges. Spread over cooled baked crust and refrigerate at least 12 hours. This keeps very well, stated Mrs. Larson. It can be made two days previous to the time it is to be served.

The Larsons are semi-retired. They live on a farm west of Holt with a son, Mark, who is taking over the farming work. Another son, James, was married last summer and is living in this city while attending Northland junior college. Mrs. Larson's hobbies are crocheting, sewing and knitting, along with her church work at Nazareth Lutheran church. She is a Gold Star Mother.

Stephen Rumpf Organ Concert Is Reviewed

Ron Pearson of Warren, the writer of this review, is a recent graduate of Concordia college in Moorhead where he studied the organ and received a Bachelor of Music degree. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Pearson of Warren.

By Ron Pearson

Stephen Rumpf, young concert organist presently from Montreal, performed an interesting program for an appreciative audience at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls recently. His performance was the third such event in the organ concert series.

Rumpf has been engaged in teaching and recital work in Canada, France, Germany and the United States and is presently organist-choir director at St. James Evangelical church, Montreal, where he recently conducted an Easter performance of Handel's 'Messiah'.

Bach's "Trio Sonata No. 6", a very demanding work technically, was performed well by Rumpf who maintained steady, vigorous tempi and played cleanly throughout.

In Widor's "Symphony No. 2", the organist demonstrated expressive playing, made more difficult by the dry acoustics of the building.

The highlight of the program was an improvisation on "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow", in which Rumpf displayed a high degree of inventiveness, again made good choices in registration, and made good use of multi-sectional form.

Although the program was quite long, Rumpf was very successful in maintaining audience interest, and his excellent improvisation concluded a program of fine organ playing.

WAC Anniversary Marks 30 Years Since Founding

Yesterday (Sunday) was the 30th birthday of the Women's Army Corps (WAC) in which about 250,000 women have served since it was organized during World Warr II under the name Women's Auxiliary Army Corps. Thousands of women joined to help the war effort and served throughout the United States and in areas overseas such as England, Italy, Algiers, Egypt, India, Australia, New Guinea and the Philippiens. A year later "Auxiliary" was dropped from the title.

The size of the WAC has fluctuated with the current strength standing at 13,000 women—12,000 enlisted and 1,000 officers. Estimates now are that the WAC size will be increased as the Army moves toward its goal of an all-volunteer status by July of next year. Women will be playing an even more important role in the total Army program.

The women's side of the Army has always operated on an all-volunteer basis. Usually there are more volunteers than positions available such as in 1971 when 12,000 young women applied for enlistment and only 3,000 could be accepted.

Currently, because of limited training facilities, only about 6,000 women per year can be given basic and advanced training. It is expected, however, that this figure will soon be revised sharply upward by the opening of a new center, possibly on the West Coast.

Major reasons for enlisting cited by women entering the WAC are travel, job training and job and benefit equality.

Normal enlistment is for three years and a woman may request an overseas assignment after one year of military service.

Included in the first year are nine weeks of basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala. and either on-the-job training or specialized training at the applicant's school of her choice.

Presently, there are about 300 job specialties open to WACs, including such areas as administration, finance, food service, medical, dental, data processing, supply, language, intelligence and communications.

A woman's salary is the same as any male soldier of the same grade level and promotion possibilities are the same as those for men.

Other benefits include total medical and dental care, hospitalization and 30 days vacation each year and are also identical to benefits received by male soldiers.

FIX-UP and smash-up may not seem the same, but Mr. Pride believes that one way to fix-up the neighborhood is to smash-up the junk cars cluttering up the scenery. He will get a monumental assist, however, when the Kar-Basher equipment arrives to reduce abandoned and discarded automobiles to flattened slabs of scrap metal. Persons with junk cars which they would like removed from their property (for a modest fee) may call 681-3720 to make arrangements.

No Grazing For Set-Aside Acres Until Sept. 1st

"No grazing" for set-aside acreage on farms participating in the 1972 feed grain and wheat programs is currently in effect and will continue until September 1, according to the chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee, Marcel Dahl.

He explained that a condition for participating in the voluntary farm programs is that set-aside acreage may not be grazed during five principal months of the growing season, nor may set-aside acreage be harvested except for designated alternate oilseed crops and emergency hay, when approved by the county committee.

The alternate crop exception to the non-cropping requirement is for those farmers who use set-aside acreage for growing non-surplus, non-price-supported oilseed crops and, in return, accept a reduction in set-aside payments. Crops approved for this purpose include safflower, mustard seed, sunflowers, crambe, castor beans, guar, sesame, and plantago ovato. Farmers growing alternate crops on set-aside acres must designate these acres at the time of certification.

Conduct Survey To Determine Course Interest

Recently a survey of students in the junior class at Lincoln high school was conducted by the Lincoln guidance department. Intent of the survey was to determine if next year's seniors would be interested in taking courses at Northland state junior college.

College courses would be in addition to the student's selected senior year course program at Lincoln. The questions on the survey related to a student's willingness to pay tuition. Preferred class times, whether students would like to take the courses for college credit, and the students main areas of interest.

Results of the survey showed a significant interest in this type of program. Whether or not the results can be turned into an operational education program is not known at this time.

Course In Bird Life Has High Public Interest

Public interest is strong in the upcoming "Bird Life" course to be offered by Northland state junior college beginning Wednesday, according to Orren Bendickson, Northland biology instructor, who will be teaching the course.

Because of the high interest shown in this course, persons who have not already contacted Northland for pre-registration are encouraged to do so if they wish to enroll.

This course may be taken for two credits at the student's option. The class schedule is flexible and will be arranged at the first meeting. Classes will meet once each week for about four weeks and involve field and classroom work.

"Bird Life" will address itself to understanding and identifying common birds of Minnesota.

Registration and payment of tuition and fees will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Northland junior college in room A-13. Tuition, including all fees, for the course is $17.50.

Persons interested in enriching their knowledge of Minnesota birds may contact the admission office at Northland state junior college, 681-2181, for pre-registration.

Coast Guard To Recruit SPARs

U.S. Coast Guard's ninth district recruiting offices have announced that, for the first time in several years, they will be accepting applications for their women's reserve dvision, the SPAR's.

The Coast Guard is seeking women between the ages of 20 and 30 who want to serve in clerical or medical capacities. They must agree to participate satisfactorily in a reserve training unit and be available to perform two weeks' active duty during the summer months.

Women applying for this program may be married, but it is preferred that they have no dependent children.

Pay grade assignment will be based on educational background and experience. For example, a high school or business school graduate who can meet prescribed requirements may be enlisted as high as a First Class Petty Officer at the E-6 pay level.

Further information is available at any Coast Guard recruiting office, listed in the telephone book under "U.S. Government - Department of Transportation."

Applicants are being sought for Coast Guard units throughout the Great Lakes area.

Failure To See Motorcycles Is Accident Cause

"I didn't see the motorcycle until it was too late," is the statement made by a high percentage of the other drivers involved in fatal motorcycle crashes.

"This comment appears on so many motorcycle fatal accident reports that we are convinced that it definitely is a problem for drivers of other vehicles," Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund said today.

"And we do recognize the fact that the cycle and its driver present a visibility problem for others. To begin with, the vehicle has a low silhouette and is easily masked by other traffic; many of the machines and their occupants sport dark colors; and they are not easily seen at any distance during periods of reduced visibility."

Hoaglund offered several suggestions to cope with this serious problem:

Wear light-colored clothing. If the leather jacket is dark in color, wear a light, bright-colored liner over it.

Use headlights at all times. The state of Wisconsin requires this by law, and the legislature will be requested to pass such a law for Minnesota this coming session.

Use reflective materials generously—on the machine, helmet, clothing. This helps even during the daylight hours.

Make sure that you are seen by other drivers, particularly at intersections and when maneuvering through other traffic.

Rev. Greene Serves As Exchange Pastor

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"If we believe in the brotherhood of all men under the Fatherhood of God, we must live it."

Rev. W. Hayward Greene, pastor of the Whatcoat Methodist church in Dover, Dela., was discussing his opinion of the dual system of appointments under which his church operates in his area. It is a system he has opposed openly but, somewhat to his consternation, has been unable to do a great deal about.

Rev. Greene is the pastor of an all black congregation in Dover and spent nearly two weeks in Thief River Falls on an exchange with Rev. Jonathan Law of United Methodist church here. The two pastors traded congregations, parsonages and responsibilities on a trail basis at the urging of Dr. Thomas Walker of Wadena, district superintendent for the Methodist church.

The dual system of appointments Rev. Greene mentioned involves the supplying of black congregations with black pastors and white congregations with white pastors. As a result, there may be two Methodist churches in a community, one white and one black, served by separate pastors who may live in other communities nearby.

"Twenty per cent of the Methodist churches in my home area are black," Rev. Greene said, "and the average congregation is 100 members. There are some large congregations and some small congregations. We are seeking a realignment to adjust the pastoral work load on an area basis without regard to color. We will continue working toward that goal."

Seated behind the desk in the pastor's office at United Methodist, Rev. Greene spoke calmly and deliberately about what he felt was an injustice to the brotherhood of man.

"I am not always the composed person as I might appear to be here," he smiled, "but if I should display a militancy it will be out of a motivation of love for man and hatred for sin. I have a great indignation for evil and injustice but the love ethic is foremost in my faith and my actions."

Rev. Greene was approached about serving an all-white congregation by Dr. Walker after the latter had observed the pastor in conferences with white pastors. "I guess he must have thought I could handle the job," Rev. Greene said, "but it would have been impossible without a white pastor to complete the exchange. Only with Rev. Law's cooperation and willingness to serve was the experiment made possible."

The Delaware visitor arrived April 27 and left Wednesday morning on the North Central flight to Minneapolis. There he was to meet Rev. Law's father who pastors Hamline Methodist church in St. Paul. Interviews with Bishop Washburn and Superintendent Walker were also planned.

While he was here he found a very tight schedule had been prepared for him. He met with all groups and committees of the church, took the 21 members of the confirmation class to visit a Jewish synagogue in Grand Forks, N. D., officiated at a funeral and was involved in some pastoral counseling.

In addition to this and delivering Sunday sermons April 30 and May 7, he spoke to the Rotary and Lions clubs and visited the high schools and Northland state junior college. His wife was involved in women's activities, including a group which regularly visits the community's nursing homes.

Rev. Greene had words of praise for his reception here and said his visit was the kind of experience he had hoped for but really had not expected. He would like to return again. . ."in the winter to go snowmobiling and in the summer to visit some of your lakes. Minnesota is the land of 10,000 lakes and I've been here two weeks and haven't seen one yet," he lamented.

"The only disappointing thing I have heard concerns a black youngster who came here from Canada for some Boy scout activity," Rev. Greene said. "I was told, by someone I have reason to believe would tell me on good authority, that 21 homes were contacted before one was found which would provide the boy with a place to stay."

"This is the kind of place with the atmosphere which would add 20 years to my life," the pastor added when asked if he would consider a semi-permanent assignment to an all-white church. "There would have to be adjustments made, but they could be done and the experience could well be a challenging and pleasant one," he indicated.

"I came here to experience life, to listen, to learn and to make friends. I think I have satisfied all four desires. It has been a most memorable experience."

EXCHANGE PASTOR at United Methodist church in Thief River Falls for the past 10 days has been Rev. W. Hayward Greene of Dover, Delaware. While he has served the local congregation in all pastoral duties, Rev. Jonathan Law of the local church has been serving Rev. Greene's Whatcoat Methodist church in a similar capacity.

Search On For Princss Kay Of The Milky Way

Once again the search is on for Princess Kay of the Milky Way. Eighteen young ladies have worn the coveted crown, adding dignity and beauty to the position of goodwill ambassador to the Minnesota dairy industry. More than 1,000 dairy farm girls will compete for the Princess Kay title in local, county, regional and state contests this year.

There will be 11 regional dairy princesses vying for the Princess Kay of the Milky Way XIX title on opening night of the 1972 Minnesota state fair. The new Princess Kay will start her official duties immediately as the goodwill ambassador of the Minnesota dairy industry, sponsored by the dairy farmer members of the American Dairy association of Minnesota.

Princess Kay will be making many personal appearances throughout the 11 days of the Minnesota state fair, meeting people, making TV appearances, press and radio interviewing, with one main purpose—to speak up for real milk and dairy foods.

She will make appearances throughout the year as her education present employment or will permit.

Princess Kay will receive a complete wardrobe, salary, and will also receive a $500 scholarship at the end of her reign.

Nursing Home Week Proclaimed

Governor Wendell Anderson has proclaimed May 14-21, 1972 as Minnesota Nursing Home week.

In his proclamation signed April 10 the Governor urged the citizens of Minnesota to visit nursing homes to acquaint themselves with the benefits, services and potential these facilities offer in meeting the growing health care needs of the elderly and chronically ill.

There is no better way for citizens to learn the true story about nursing homes and about the role they play in today's health care than to visit in person. Most nursing homes welcome visitors at any time but especially during this week when many homes will be holding open house and other activities for the community and the residents.

The theme for Nursing Home week is "We Care". It emphasizes the attitude of the nursing home toward the resident, the staff and the community.

Look Who's Talking!

Who is one of the national notables saying that Congress should start impeachment proceedings against President Nixon? None other than that illustrious political giant from our own state of Minnesota, Eugene McCarthy.

This is the same Eugene McCarthy who, when being paid for holding the position of U.S. Senator from Minnesota not many years ago, had so much absenteeism from Congress that he should have been issued a guest badge when he showed up for a roll call. His attendance during at least the last half of his term was at best disgraceful.

This is the same Eugene McCarthy who, in spite of utter and total defeat four years ago, still harbors aspirations of ascending to the Presidency himself, there to reign on poetry and platitudes with the young intellectuals of the country clustered about his feet.

This is the same Eugene McCarthy who demonstrates his responsibility by running for the Presidency in 1972 with many of the debts from the 1968 campaign still unpaid.

Girls In Athletics

Judge Miles Lord's federal district court ruling that two Minnesota high school girls may compete as members of boys' athletic teams against other boys has created quite a stir.

Directors of the Minnesota State High School league promptly instructed attorneys to begin preparing an appeal of the ruling with the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Mo.

Why all the fuss? It's a rare young lady who honestly wishes to compete with boys in athletics. Not many can do it successfully. Peggy Brenden, 18, a senior at St. Cloud high school, wishes to be a member of the boys' tennis team. What's more, her coach seems to feel that she's skillful enough to deserve a chance.

Tony St. Pierre, 17-year-old junior at Hopkins Eisenhower, is eager to compete in cross country and also in the cross country events in skiing. She has participated in AAU-sponsored cross country meets on the local, state and national levels and is apparently a good athlete.

Minnesota State High School league rules do not permit girls to compete with boys in athletics. In all fairness to the league, it should be pointed out that hundreds of girls across the state do compete against each other in an increasing number of programs and the program for separate teams and competition for girls is expanding rapidly. This is enough to satisfy most girls who enjoy sports. Now and then there is a girl with unusual talents in a particular sport. Grand Rapids has had some outstanding girl athletes who could compete on virtually even terms with the boys.

A girl who can seriously compete with a boy in sports is most unusual. It's true that an exceptional girl can often outrun or outplay a mediocre boy athlete. But a good boy athlete is almost invariably better than the girl. This is not just male chauvinism—the track and field records for the world's top women athletes make it clear that few of them could compete with good high school boys.

Judge Lord's ruling says, in part: "It is incumbent upon the defendants to show the existence of a rational relationship sought to be achieved by the rule and the classification utilized in reaching that objective. . . There are, of course, substantial physiological differences between males and females. . . It must be emphasized in this case, however, that these physiological differences, insofar as they render the great majority of females unable to compete as effectively as males, have little relevance to Tony St. Piere and Peggy Brenden. Because of their level of achievement in competitive sports, Tony and Peggy have overcome these physiological disabilities. There has been no evidence that either Peggy Brenden or Tony St. Pierre, or any other girls, would be in any way damaged from competition in boys' interscholastic athletics, nor is there any credible evidence that the boys would be damaged."

It is difficult for us to see how winning the right for girls to compete in athletics with boys can be rated high in comparison with the probelms in education today. Most girls will be far happier competing with other girls. Neither does it seem a cause which the state high school league should stubbornly contest.

As the judge says, there are "physiological differences" which have actually determined most cases. But if some young lady comes along who can run the 100-yard dash in :9.9 or hit a baseball out of the park, most coaches and fans will welcome her.

Election Tuesday

If there is much general interest in the school board election to be held on Tuesday, none of it has come to our attention. With farmers eager to get into the field the first chance they get and the normal hustle and bustle resulting from a late Spring, our forecast would be for a fairly light vote.

A three-way race for the two positions open is a good thing, and we are sure that all of the candidates agree that competition for the office is a healthy thing. In our estimation, the public will make no mistake in voting for any two of the three candidates.

The public might make a mistake, however, by deciding not to vote at all. With a potentially light turn-out of voters and the ballots split among three candidates, an organized write-in campaign could quite easily succeed. This is not necessarily bad for the board or the district or education in general, but it could be a disruptive factor at the least. Motives of candidates promoted by select special interest groups are always suspect.

We say it at every election but we want to emphasize it again. Vote for the candidate of your choice but be sure to make the effort to get out and vote.

Candidates elected to the school board face three years of service and at the very least are deserving of the consideration of voter support at the polls. We know that a good turnout—respecting the lateness of the farming season—would be appreciated by whoever will be elected.

And while we are talking about the school board, we want to make one or two observations which come to mind. School board members are the most grossly underpaid elected public officials in Minnesota. By law they are restricted to $15 per meeting up to a maximum of $300 per year. The secretary and treasurer each receive an additional $500 annually.

With the number of meetings which the board has been subjected to this year, the annual total of $300 was used up before the year was one-fourth completed. For the remaining nine months the board works without compensation.

By comparison, Thief River Falls city council members receive $150 per month or $1,800 per year—six times the school board figure. Pennington county commissioners draw $217.75 per month or $2,613 per year, plus per diem at $10 per meeting not to exceed $50 per month or $400 per year. The total annual draw could be over $3,000 per year—10 times the school board member's maximum.

City council members and county commissioners work for their pay as government officials and we don't begrudge them what they earn. But we do sincerely believe a position on the board of education is at least equal in responsibility and that compensation should be greater than it is now.

It will take legislative action to change the law under which the present school board member salary ceiling is determined. That ceiling should be raised as soon as possible to a more reasonable figure. Then let each district determine for itself what the job is worth within the higher limit.

Clipped Comments

"President Nixon has done exactly what he promised when he campaigned in 1968—altered the character of the United States supreme court. Rarely has a court change of mood been so abrupt as in Mr. Nixon's appointments in three turbulent years. The Warren Court of activists has been trasformed into the Burger Court of judicial self-restraint." —Richard Strout in the "Christian Science Monitor".

Congressman Jim Wright of Texas was quoted as having made the following statement:

"The Soil Conservation Service was waging an uphill and often thankless fight for conservation and environmental improvement a full generation before the latter-day dilettantes and self-proclaimed authorities discovered that conservation had become a popular issue. . . While we welcome the enthusiasm of the new conservation converts who have so recently discovered the ancient Greek word 'ecology', we do think they could make a more constructive contribution if they would abandon the scapegoat syndrome and try to understand the interrelation of man and nature in a bit broader perspective."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Isn't it time the Food and Drug administration was returned to its original purpose of protecting consumers.

Today we find the FDA engaged in juvenile games of cops and robbers—health food stores are raided while some food processing plants go uninspected for 20 years.

Our children are given speed in school to control their behavior. Diesthylstilbesterol, a dangerous cancer-causing drug used to fatten cattle, continues to find its way to the consumer.

The FDA is in need of reform.

To the Editor:

May I use your column to express my gratitude to the people of Thief River Falls?

These last two weeks have been a nightmare for our family. It has been a hard two weeks for us. Nothing like this has ever happened in the 24 years that Roland has been in law enforcement. I want to write and thank each one of you who has been so considerate. We have had many phone calls and letters encouraging us and would like to be of some help, and also many people have stopped me on the streets and in the stores who said they are praying for us. I think this is tremendous. You don't really know how many friends you really have until a crisis comes up.

When Bob Carlson called up and thanked me for my part in settling this matter, I told him I only prayed for him, the city council and chief daily. I think that's what solves problems.

Now that things have subsided somewhat, may I ask you to do something? Continue to pray for your chief and also the city council; they need our prayers if they are going to try to work together. Your mayor has been tremendous through all this and I want to thank him for standing by my husband so faithfully. He needs our prayers too. We have come here to be of service not of hindrance. Thank you so much, each one of you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Roland Waller
Wife of your Police Chief

Dear Sirs:

I think that we should really take a look at what our taxes are paying for.

Computers and people to collect next years taxes.

Does that make sense?

Dear Editor,

It has been my misfortune to be forced to study on weekends. Since the library is a public building that is supposed to be noted for its quiet atmosphere it is obviously the "ideal" place to study.

After spending a number of weekends at the library I was inclined to change my previous opinion. A quiet, studious atmosphere no longer exists at our library. Surprisingly, the source of disturbance does not come from those using the library, but from the librarians. With one librarian yelling across the room to another it is very difficult to concentrate on one's work.

One librarian in particular, I am sure, does not know what it means to whisper. On several other occasions I have been in the library when the librarians have played loud, rhythmic music on their record player. To say the least, this is very distracting.

My purpose in writing this letter is not meant to be malicious. I merely hope that the respect for each individual's right to use the library as means to find quiet, relaxation and a place where one can get something accomplished might be restored.

Please withhold my name from print. Thank you.

Early settlers in southwestern Minnesota—now called Pioneerland, appropriately enough,—were well aware of Indian society and culture, being contemporaries with the tribes which were steadily being pushed from the Minnesota prairies. Therefore, they probably took little notice of such things as the pictures scratched into the rocks in what is now Cottonwood County.

But as the Indian way of life disappeared, it became an object of increased interest, much as antique lovers now value the kerosene lantern which grandfather noticed only when he needed light in the barn.

The petroglyphs (from Greek words meaning "rock carving") are now one of the most fascinating sights in Pioneerland, primarily because of the mystery which surrounds them. It is a mystery which may never be solved, because nobody knows why they were created or what they mean.

Some of the many pictures carved in the rocks are obvious representations of turtles, deer, buffalo and other creatures. Some are human figures or parts of figures—hands, faces, etc. Others, however, are symbols, lines and abstract forms.

Absence of drawings of horses, guns and other items which were introduced by Europeans indicate that the petroglyphs were done long before the 18th century and may, indeed, be thousands of years old.

Archaeologists believe the carvings were done over a long period of time by many different Indian tribes. The pictures could be their method of illustrating legends, of communicating with their Gods, or even just idle "doodling."

The petroglyph site is important in another way. It is part of what may be the last piece of true prairie left in Minnesota. To help the visitor interpret the geology and ecology of the area, as well as to familiarize him with Indian rock art, the Minnesota Historical Society has built a modern, interpretive shelter containing many enlightening exhibits.

The petroglyph site is located three miles morth of Highway 30 on County Road 2, near the community of Jeffers. The route is well signed and easy to find. Admission is free and the site is open daily from May to October.

Treat yourself to mystery this spring. Who knows? You may even find a way to solve it.

Most of Minnesota's major resorts are located on only 200 of the state's 12,000 lakes. An obvious question then is: What is being done with the remaining 11,800 non-resort lakes?

Are they hidden away in wilderness areas, seldom visited by anyone other than a forest ranger of a party of fishermen?

The answer, of course, is that many thousands of them are not tucked away, unused by the public, at all.

Nearly 5,000 lakes, for example, are within the boundaries of Superior National Forest. Along with hundreds of streams, they are preserved there in an outdoor paradise for recreational use by campers, bird lovers, rock hounds, canoeists and modern-day explorers.

Nearly every state or community park in Minnesota has a body of water as its focal point. The Twin Cities alone have nearly 30 lakes within their boundaries. Duluth and many other communities can also boast of several lakes.

To be officially classed as a lake, a body of water must cover at least 10 acres. Minnesota's lakes, rivers and streams cover 4,059 square miles, not including 2,212 square miles of Lake Superior water surface.

This total of nearly 7,000 square miles of inland water surfaces includes still-to-be-developed Lake of the Woods and other majestic lakes in the Northwest Angle, the most remote wilderness area remaining for recreational use in the continental United States.

Counting all of the lakes, streams and rivers in parks and preserved wilderness areas, more than 10,000 non-resort lakes are in use or are available for use. But not all state lakes are large bodies of water. Minnesota abounds in hundreds of small lakes never viewed or visited by tourists.

There are no signs to indicate their presence in wilderness clearings, and often they are known only to those who own lake-shore summer homes. These lakes, appearing as only small blue dots on state maps, provide total seclusion and all sorts of water sports for the fortunate summer residents.

Minnesota's Work Incentive Program, popularly known as WIN, will be three year old in July.

It is administered by our State Department of Manpower Services. Its goal is to convert welfare recipients into productive members of the labor force.

And at a time of serious and chronic unemployment, it deserves your wholehearted support.

The Minnesota WIN program, unlike those in many states, has proven highly successful. Since it was launched in mid-1969, it has provided vocational training for several thousand heads of welfare families.

Through WIN, more than 1,000 welfare recipients have secured regular employment and have been removed from welfare roles.

Money spent on WIN's vocational training program is a sound investment, indeed.

The benefits in human terms of returning an unemployed father or mother to a productive role in our society are obvious.

In economic terms, the savings in welfare costs alone for each enrollee who completes the WIN program in $150 a month.

New legislation enacted by Congress recently should make the WIN program even more attractive to employers.

Under the new provisions, employers can qualify for tax credits equal to 20 per cent of the total wages paid in 12 months to any welfare recipients they put to work.

Employers can secure more information concerning the program and the new tax credit provisions by contacting their nearest State Employment Service Office.

Our experience with the WIN program in Minnesota, then, is one that is almost wholly positive.

Employers benefit from the tax credits. Taxpayers benefit from lower welfare costs. And most importantly, families on welfare are returned to society's mainstream.

Two Industries On Iron Range Are Up For Sale

Two Minnesota Iron Range industries are being offered for public sale by the office of business development, U.S. department of commerce, Washington, D.C., according to A. M. DeYoannes, director of the area redevelopment administration, department of economic development, St. Paul.

MesabAlloy, Inc., Hibbing, manufactuer of high alloy grinding balls and drum liners for taconite industy, was established in 1968 at a cost of approximately one million dollars. The federal EDA and the state of Minnesota ARA have acquired title to the property following bankruptcy petitions filed Dec. 15, 1971.

Hibbing Precision industries, a facility for close tolerance machine work, was started late in 1963 with approximately $500,000 of federal and state funds. The operation was closed by bankruptcy petition and federal foreclosure for failure to meet contract terms in late November of 1971.

EDA will require a pospective purchaser to provide a statement of its plans for operation of the project and a proforma financial and cash flow statement for one year. EDA will also want assurance that adequate working capital is availabe to operate the facility.

Information on the financial status and details of machinery and equipment are available from Miles Sullivan, Chief of the Office of Business Development, Loan Administration Division, EDA, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., 20230; A. M. DeYoannes, Director, Area Redevelopment Administration, Department of Economic Development, 51 East 8th Street, St. Paul, 55101; or Small Business Administration, 5th Floor, Plymouth Bldg., 12 S. 6th St., Minneapolis, 55402.

Before you set out on your next trip, ask your insurance man about a "floater" policy that will protect your baggage against loss or theft. The cost is often very low compared to the risk of loss.

Sociologist Says Freeloaders On Welfare Rare

A University of Minnesota sociologist has thrown cold water on those who say that welfare costs have gone up because of many freeloaders who would rather live off public moneys than work.

Current figures tend to back up sociologist George Donohue's argument: Now 90 per cent of the recipients are children, mothers or persons over 65 years old. The number of able-bodied fathers on welfare is less than one per cent of the total.

And cheating is rare. A recent investigation in Minneapolis found that slightly over three per cent of welfare costs were going for fraudulent purposes, Donohue said.

Nevertheless, welfare costs have soared in recent years and Donohue attributes the rise to inflation, our expanding concept of welfare and the increasing number of older people.

"People say that welfare costs have doubled in the last 20 years, but even if the relative costs had remained the same, the cost of welfare would have doubled as a result of inflation," he explained.

Welfare costs are also increasing because we are expanding our concept of need. "In the past, welfare was just to meet the needs for sustenance or survival. Now that's changing. A reasonable level of living for individuals includes clothing and recreational needs that weren't met in the past," he said.

"Now we're increasing our concept of human dignity by increasing those things covered by welfare cost in our society."

A third thing adding to increased costs is an increase in the number of older people. More are becoming eligible under the medicare program. These people weren't covered in the past, he said.

The entire welfare cost question should be considered in perspective, he said. Welfare costs are still low in comparison to military costs.

186,000 Receive Food Assistance In Minnesota

An estimated 186,000 low-income persons in Minnesota received food assistance during February from the U. S. department of agriculture in cooperation with the state departments of public welfare and public education, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest regional administrator of USDA's food and nutrition service. This was an increase of more than 7,500 persons over January.

The February total included an estimated 168,517 persons in 63 food stamp program areas. Minnesota participants paid $2,097,555 for food stamps valued at $4,033,023. The difference of $1,935,468 or bonus value of the coupons is USDA's contribution to the program. The bonus averaged $11.49 per person, compared with $11.42 in January.

In the food distribution program, 17,484 persons in 20 counties received over 511,000 pounds of some 21 nutritious foods free from USDA.

Earl Sargent led off the top of the eighth inning with a single, his fourth straight out of the game, and later scored on Stan Drew's base hit with one out to give the Bemidji Lumberjacks a 7-6 extra inning triumph over Thief River Falls and a sweep of Friday's re-scheduled double header at Bemidji.

The Lumberjacks combined the nightcap victory with a 3-1 win in the first game to drop the Prowler season record to 7-3 entering tonight's game against Roseau beginning at 7 o'clock on the Prowler diamond.

Bemidji opened up a quick 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning of the second game and moved out to a comfortable 5-0 bulge before Thief River Falls erupted for six runs in the bottom of the fourth, a scoring outburst highlighted by a pair of home runs by juniors Kim Johnson and Tom Hanson.

The Prowlers forced the Lumberjacks into a change of pitchers in the fourth as the Prowlers sent ten men to the plate, collecting five hits in addition to a pair of walks and a passed ball.

But Bemidji wasted little time getting back into the thick of things as All-Stater Gary Sargent blasted a home run to tie the game 6-6 in the top of the fifth.

Neither team threatened in the sixth or seventh inning, with the Prowlers failing to reach base and the Lumberjacks managing to get just one man aboard—via an error with two out in the seventh.

Don Wackwitz, who came on in relief in the fourth inning, picked up the win for the Lumberjacks while Mike Hamilton suffered the loss, although the Prowler senior struck out eight Bemidji batters without walking a man. Wackwitz and starter Charlie Meyers combined to strike out 13 Prowlers in the game with Jacks outhitting the Prowlers 10-9.

Hanson, Hamilton and Jon Jensen supplied the Prowler offensive punch in the game as they each collected a pair of hits out of four trips to the plate.

Bemidji incrased its lead to 3-0 in the third on Earl Sargent's home run before Thief River Falls scored once in the fourth with three straight singles by Kim Johnson, Jensen and Pete Sullivan.

The Prowlers outhit the Jacks 5-4 in the game, but Bemidji's two first inning runs tagged Sullivan with his first loss of the season after three straight wins. The Prowler left hander struck out three and walked just one in the seven inning affair while three Lumberjacks hurlers saw action, combining to strike out nine Prowler batters while walking five.

There will also be a preliminary "B" squad game preceding tonight's game against Roseau, starting at 5 p.m.

UND Scholarship Fund Will Honor Doug Tegtmeier

A University of North Dakota scholarship fund has been established to honor the late Douglas D. Tegtmeier, known through 11 years of radio sports announcing as "the Voice of the Sioux."

The scholarship fund was established by KNOX Radio, Inc., Grand Forks, of which Tegtmeier was one of the owners and sports director for 11 years. According to Dr. Gerald F. Hamerlik, UND director of student financial aids, the scholarship will be awarded on the basis of academic performance and need to a sophomore, junior or senior athlete. Preference will be given to one majoring in broadcasting.

The scholarship will be awarded annually, with selection to be made by the student financial aids committee in cooperation with the athletic department and the communication department.

Tegtmeier was born in Elbow Lake, Minn., and attended high school in Willmar. He joined the U.S. Navy in 1943 and served in the South Pacific until the end of World War II. He attended UND from 1947 to 1948, the University of Minnesota and the American Institute of the Air, Minneapolis, from which he graduated.

Tegtmeier worked with radio stations in Moorhead, Fairmont and Thief River Falls, before being recalled into naval service during the Korean conflict. He moved to Grand Forks in 1960 and joined KNOX.

As KNOX's sports director, Tegtmeier virtually became a part of the UND athletic program. His extensive coverage of UND home and road athletic events earned him the title, "Voice of the Sioux." He was named North Dakota Sportscaster of the Year five times and was a past president of the North Dakota Sportscasters Association.

Tegtmeier died Aug. 18, 1972, at the age of 46. He is survived by his wife, the former Marjorie Ann Wangenstein.

Rasch placed second to Worthington's John Brown, the top junior college shot putter in the nation, who won Friday's event with a toss of 50-4. Brown also defended his discus title with a meet record 147-3 performance in the rain.

Five other meet records were set with Don Bell of Golden Valley winning the 880 in a time of 1:56.9, Gordy Benfield won the three-mile in 14:45.0, Mark Applen of Golden Valley won the intermediate hurdles in 56.5, Wayne Smedsrud won the mile in 4:19.2 and Wahpeton's 440 relay team was clocked at 43.4.

the high hurdles with sophomore Tim Olson running a 16.3 while sophomore Tony Burke tossed the shot 40-6 to claim a fifth. Burke also set two new school records in the discus with a heave of 127-3 to place fourth and a toss of 140-7 in the javelin.

Prowlers Beat RLF 15-7 Wednesday

Lincoln high school baseball team pounded out 16 hits Wednesday afternoon to rip Red Lake Falls 15-7 on the Prowler diamond, with sophomore right hander Randy Dallmann picking up his second win without a loss this season.

Ten Prowler batters collected at least one hit off Eagle pitching with six players hitting safely twice. Among the Prowlers collecting a pair of hits in the game were Rob Almquist, Rick Johnson, Pete Sullivan, Jon Jensen and Dallmann.

Prowler right fielder Rick Johnson opened the game's scoring in the bottom of the first inning as he singled and later crossed the plate on a passed ball.

Nine Prowler batters marched to the plate in the second inning as Thief River Falls stretched its 1-0 lead to a comfortable 6-0 advantage.

A walk to shortstop Kim Johnson to open the second was soon followed by a pair of singles by Sullivan and Jensen to give the Prowlers a 2-0 lead. Another walk, this time issued to Dallmann, loaded the bases with the Eagles still looking for the first out of the inning.

Red Lake Falls pitcher Dan Derouin struck out the next two Prowlers before Tom Hanson laced a two-run single and Ordean Peterson promptly added a two-run double for the Prowlers.

After a strike-out to open the Prowler third, Thief River Falls bunched three straight base hits for a 7-0 lead. A double by Jensen, followed by singles from Dallmann and Almquist led to the Prowlers' seventh run, and a single by Hanson drove in the eighth run of the game for the Prowlers.

The Eagles produced a pair of runs in the fourth inning for a 6-2 contest, but the Prowlers exploded for six runs in their half of the fourth, with the first seven batters reaching base safely.

Mike Drury opened the Prowler fourth with a single and was followed in order by Kim Johnson with a double, Sullivan with a single, Jensen was hit by a pitch, Dallmann singled, Almquist singled and Rick Johnson doubled before the Eagles retired the next three pinch hitters.

Hamilton relieved Dallmann on the mound for the Prowlers and the squad co-captain was touched for five runs in the last two innings with Prowler reserves seeing extended action.

Sioux Announce Attractive 1972 Grid Schedule

An attractive, but demanding 10-game 1972 football schedule has been approved by the University of North Dakota Athletic Board of Control, according to athletic director L. R. Marti.

The 1972 Sioux football team, defending North Central Conference champions, will play five home and five road games this fall.

The season opener Sept. 9 will be at Memorial Stadium against Montana State. Other home games, all against four NCC foes, include Sept. 23 versus University of South Dakota, Oct. 21 in homecoming against arch rival North Dakota State, Oct. 28 against Northern Iowa, and Nov. 4 against Mankato State. All UND home games begin at 1:30 p.m.

There are two non-conference contests in the five road games—Sept. 16 versus University of Montana at Billings, and a return trip Nov. 11 to end the regular season at University of Nevada at Las Vegas. The NCC road games will be Sept. 30 at Augustana, Oct. 7 at Morningside and Oct. 14 at South Dakota State.

"We believe this is a very demanding schedule and one which will be a great challenge to our football team," said UND head football coach Jerry Olson.

Here's how Olson views 1972 Sioux opponents:

"Montana State is in its second year of rebuilding and stronger than last year. We hear they've changed their defense and because this is our opener we will have a sketchy scouting report." UND beat Montana State, 17-15, on a neutral field at Billings, Mont. last fall.

"Montana will be as strong and as physical as last season. They are building their team around 6-6, 260-pound offensive guard and pro prospect Barry Darrow." Montana beat the Sioux, 27-14, last fall.

"South Dakota U definitely will be one of the favored teams in the conference this fall," USD beat UND last fall, 29-21.

"Augustana will be one of the most improved teams in the NCC," UND topped Augie last year, 26-10.

"Morningside will be hard to figure but should be stronger in the line. They have recruited several outstanding junior college players and a standout freshman quarterback." UND beat Morningside last year, 59-7.

"South Dakota State has a new regime, new coaching staff and high morale. They also have a favorable schedule." UND defeated SDSU, 35-7, last season.

"North Dakota State will be just as strong and physical as during their championship era and will be ranked as one of the favorities in the conference." UND dumped the Bison last fall at Fargo, 23-7.

"Northern Iowa will definitely be an improved team. They've had an excellent spring session and will be bolstered by outstanding junior college additions." UND topped UNI, 23-10, last season at Cedar Falls to win the MCC title.

"Mankato State is coming on like gangbusters. Their improvement the last two seasons has been great." Mankato upset the Sioux last fall, 13-10, at Mankato.

"Nevada at Las Vegas is an unknown quantity to us at this point but they are expected to be very strong. They run a big-time program." UND and UNLV tied at Vegas last year, 17-17.

Need Volunteers For TRF Youth Baseball Program

With the start of summer vacation less than a month away for Thief River Falls youngsters, plans are now being finalized for the youth baseball program, under the direction of Ron Novak.

There will be a meeting tonight (Monday) at 7 o'clock at Northrop school to put the finishing touches on plans for the 14 to 15-year-old league, which will be the first league to start playing this season. Anyone interested in umpiring or coaching in the program is invited to attend the meeting.

A meeting for the 13-year-old league will be held Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, also at Northrop. Anyone interested in working with this league is also urged to attend the meeting.

The 14 to 15-year-old league will begin practice sessions next week. The league will consist of five teams, and because of the increased interest in baseball, any 16 - year - old interested in playing this summer is welcome to play in the 14 to 15 - year - old league.

Coaches in the 14 to 15 - year - old league include Bill Peterson, Wally Grovum, Don Lindquist and Charles Dicken. Another coach is needed for this league, and anyone interested in helping the program may call Novak.

The 13 - year - old league will also begin within the next two weeks. This league will consist of four teams. At the present time the league has two coaches and is in need of two more volunteers interested in coaching.

The 11 to 12 - year - old league will hold its first practices on Monday, June 5, at 1 p.m. at the fairgrounds diamond. Practices will continue for that entire week, with league games scheduled the following week. Coaches are also needed in the 11 to 12 - year - old league.

The 9 to 10 - year - old league will begin practice on Monday, June 12, at 1 p.m. at the fairgrounds diamond, while the 8 - year - old instructional league also begins practices June 12 at 3 o'clock at the fairgrounds diamond.

Giel Addresses Large Athletic Banquet Crowd

A crowd of over 400 people was on hand Tuesday night when University of Minnesota athletic director Paul Giel headlined the 22nd annual Thief River Falls athletic banquet in the National Guard armory.

Giel, appointed Minnesota athletic director in December 1971, had the large corwd grinning minutes before the punch lines during his numerous light-hearted anecdotes concerning his brilliant athletic career which he graciously played down.

Speaking on a more serious note Giel told the attentive crowd, "Whatever you do in life, give it your best shot because you owe it to yourself and your friends," but the former Gopher All-American in both baseball and football said, "The most important thing in life is to grow up being nice to people."

MSC Schedules 10-Game Grid Schedule In '72

A ten game schedule—the first in Moorhead state college football history—awaits the Dragons in 1972.

The balanced Dragon schedule lists five home games and five road assignments and includes one addition—Eastern Montana. Moorhead will face six Northern Intercollegiate Conference opponents and four non-conference foes.

Moorhead opens its 1972 season against Concordia college on Saturday, September 9, at Alex Nemzek Field at 1:30. The Dragons begin NIC play on September 30 against Bemidji state college at home.

In addition to Bemidji, the Dragons will meet Minnesota-Morris, Southwest state, Michigan Tech, St. Cloud state and Winona state in NIC play. In non-conference meetings Moorhead will tangle with Concordia, Eastern Montana, Minnesota-Duluth and Kearney state (Neb.).

The Dragons will carry a seven-game victory string and an eight-game unbeaten streak into the 1972 season. The Dragons captured the NIC title with a spotless 6-0 league mark, finishing 7-1-1 overall in 1971.

Are they keeping something From you?

by Cryin' Charlie Sinks

As I sit here at my typewriter on this April day watching our tenacious winter, it is hard to feel close to the warm weather fishing I know must come.

We here at the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press have just completed one of the first and most important parts of the 20th Annual World's Largest Fishing Contest. For more than 3,000 resorts and sport shops (another 3,000 will be contacted personally by our "country men") which make up our "master mailing list", we have addressed and made ready the mailing which could bring valuable additional business to these fishermen's headquarters and thousands of dollars worth of prizes to you, their fishing customers.

We are sending them the "Big Fish Headquarters Kits" containing posters, entry blanks, timing schedules for each week's entries and complete information on one of Minnesota's biggest pleasure-time promotion. Watch for the posters.

Those businesses which serve you, the fisherman, and are capably managed make good use of this promotion. By displaying the posters which offer you a chance at part of $25,000 in prizes (an all-time high), they can attract potential customers who may pick up an entry blank and any other tempting items fishermen so often buy on impulse.

Occasionally we get phone calls from people who want to know where they can get entry blanks. They are given the closet location where a Big Fish Headquarters Kit was sent. Sometimes they are on the phone again telling us that the 'manager' threw the material away. The caller in any of various stages of disgust, if not outright anger, because the 'manager', who is sometimes the owner, couldn't be bothered to offer this free service to his customers. All that is necessary is for the entry blanks to be left on a counter near the cash register. If they're not, chances are that person will not become a customer.

Alert sport shops and resorts make good use of the World's Largest Fishing Contest to build good will and ring up sales at the same time. And, when an entry turns up on the prize-winners list, the thousands of readers know that is the place to stop for blanks and any new fish-tempting equipment they've been thinking about. When they're in the area, that's where they stop.

If I were to invest in a business, I would rather put my money where they know how to make use of every means of attracting and keeping customers.

By May 8, at least 3,000 places will have received entry blanks for the World's Largest Fishing Contest.

The smart owners and managers will have entry blanks for you!

NR Commissioner Opposes Proposed New Regulations

Two bills proposing federal regulation of wildlife and hunting have been opposed by Minnesota Commissioner of Natural Resources Rober Herbst.

In separate letters to the state's congressional delegation, Herbst went on record against federal regulation over endangered resident wildlife and a bill calling for a federal license to hunt or fish on federal lands.

Herbst said the Department of Natural Resources agrees with the intent of H. R. 13081 to conserve endangered wildlife species, but said the federal government should not pre-empt state authority over resident wildlife.

"They do not have the staff in the federal agencies to deal effectively with such a program," he said. "We do not need and do not want the federal government to pre-empt our authority over resident wildlife species."

Referring to the other measure, the Whitehaurst omnibus animal protection bill (H.R. 13489) Herbst said the bill contains several undesirable features.

The bill proposes that all those who hunt, fish or trap on federally owned land would have to buy a "sportsman stamp". Herbst pointed out that Minnesota has a checkerboard pattern of unposted state, federal, private and other land ownership in many areas, making it virtually impossible for the sportsman to know whose land he is using.

He also opposed the added cost to sportsmen that would result from the federal license and predicted it would reduce the number of state licenses sold, reducing revenue and handicapping state efforts to manage wildlife resources.

The bill also contains a feature prohibiting the use of the traditional type traps for the harvesting of any animal. Herbst said the effect of the ban would be to eliminate trapping.

"Trapping is a wholesome outdoor sport that about 20,000 Minnesotans participate in annually," he said, "and is the only effective means of harvesting surplus furbearers."

He added that many farm youth and school age children enjoy trapping and realize a small but important income from the hobby.

Further, he said, Minnesota, like most other states, has strict regulation of trapping, including bans against the use of snares.

Sport Fishing Resource Urges Further Studies

Sport fishing over the centuries has experienced few dramatic changes in equipment, techniques and the angler's philosphy.

Landing the big one is still the goal. The thrill of expectancy and the rush of a striking trout are what makes this sport exciting.

Yet only in the past few decades have we gained good knowledge about what goes on beneath the water's surface—the complex organization of phenomena over several years and perhaps over acres of watershed and miles of stream.

Professor Thomas F. Waters of the department of entomology, fisheries and wildlife at the University of Minnesota, has noted that "tantalizing amounts" of knowledge are just beginning to appear on the rate at which these phonemena take place—the dynamic character of the stream community.

Research has been underway for several years at the University of Minnesoa on game fish. Waters is working with graduate students who are attempting to estimate the annual production rates of brook and rainbow trout and the sculpin, an inconspicuous fish, in small eastern Minnesota streams. Waters' students also are interested in the production of organisms that fish eat, such as fresh water shrimp and acquatic insects.

In another project, fisheries graduate student John Ney is attempting to develop biochemical techniques of examining blood and other tissue in fish to determine to what degree fish from the same body of water are from different populations. Ney, for the past three summers, has taken blood samples from bluegills in two Minnesota lakes. Ultimately it could be possible to determine the origin of fish mingling in a large body of water, such as the ocean.

Near completion is a study by another fisheries graduate student, Bill Swenson, on walleyes and saugers in Lake of the Woods. Swenson says he found that the walleyes' growth was reduced 15 to 25 per cent through the year due to the low supply to food in the lake during June and July. Some of this reduction in growth also was due to competition with saugers for food.

Charles W. Huver, curator of the Bell museum of natural history at the university, has been working with Muskies Inc., which is establishing a private fish hatchery at Battle Lake. Research will be underway by this group that may result in increased yields from spawning by using pituitary hormones to get adult muskies to ripen simutaneously, Huver says.

Permits Needed To Control Weed In State Lakes

Although the ice has just left many Minnesota lakes, the Department of Natural Resources is already receiving requests for aquatic nuisance control permits from lakeshore owners.

Weed control regulations are essentially the same as 1971, officials said. No chemicals may be placed in public lakes or streams without obtaining a permit from the Department but property owners may do a small amount of cutting and pulling without a permit.

Such work is limited to no more than 2,500 square feet extending a maxiumum of 50 feet along shore or half the owner's property frontage, whichever is least. Any weeds cut or pulled must be removed from the water.

The Department may deny an application for a permit to use chemicals in public waters where adverse effects on fish and wildlife may occur or when chemical application would conflict with other water uses.

The Department recommends cutting of weeds whenever possible since nutrients tied up in the plants are removed from the water and are not recycled into new weed growth.

Recreation Site Near Duluth Is Closed to Camps

Island Lake recreation site north of Duluth on county road four will be closed to camping this year, the Department of Natural Resources announced this week.

The area, operated by the Department's division of lands and forestry, has been used in the past for picnicking, swimming and camping. Only camping will be prohibited, said William Aultfather, director of lands and forestry.

He said the small site was originally leased from the Minnesota Power and Light Company and that camping was not encouraged but had developed to the point where it interfered with other uses.

The heavy camping pressure on the two acre area has also resulted in site deterioration, said Aultfather.

Two other campgraounds are located nearby at Indian Lake and the Cedar Bay state forest. Division of lands and forestry campgrounds are of the primitive type, designed to furnish only the basic needs.

Aultfather said the fivision currently maintains 62 campgrounds and 46 picnic areas.

Public Hearings For Snowmobiles Are Scheduled

Commissioner Robert L. Herbst announced that the Department of Natural Resources will hold a hearing in St. Paul Thursday, June 1 to hear the publics' thoughts on snowmobile regulations.

New lower limits or noise emission are due to go into effect before next winter. One of the primary purposes of the hearing is to gather additional information on desirable and technically possible noise levels.

The hearing will be conducted in the adutiroium of the state office building near the capitol beginning at 10 a.m.

Representatives of snowmobile organizations, the industry, conservation groups and anyone else concerned with snowmobile use are invited to attend and express their views.

Written statements may be submitted to the Department without appearing at the hearing.

Openings Remain For Basketball Clinics At UND

Enrollment in three separate sessions of the annual University of North Dakota basketball school next month is soaring daily, according to school director and UND head basketball coach Dave Gunther. The 1972 school enrollment will be the largest since Gunther began the school three years ago.

Gunther also announced enrollments for the first session of the school, June 4-10 has been closed. He emphasized, however, there are openings for the June 11-17 and June 18-24 one week sessions.

The school is open to boys entering grades seven and twelve this fall. "Our school has been approved by the high school state athletic associations in North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, Canada and other states," Gunther added.

Total cost of a one-week session is $65 of which $35 must accompany application and balance paid at registration. Local commuting youths will pay $30.

All instruction will be on the UND campus and fieldhouse. Each student will participate in daily classes, on court practices, scrimmage games and other activities. School participants will live in campus dormitories and eat on campus.

Gunther said he has enrolled youths from North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Manitoba. Further information about the school may be obtained by writing to Gunther at the UND fieldhouse or telephoning 777-2234.

DNR Coyote Study Shows Food Need

During the past 18 months he also captured and ear tagged 37 coyotes and fastened collars with radio transmitters on 22 of them in order to trace their movements.

Chesness said that after following coyote trails for 175 miles during the past three winters, he found only one case where he was convinced a coyote had killed a deer (a fawn).

But he discovered that carrion from dead deer is the principal winter food of coyotes and that another major food source is the remains of domestic animals butchered on farms.

In late summer and early fall, coyotes like wild fruit such as plums and blueberries. Mice are an important part of the diet in fall and early winter.

Coyotes also take ruffed grouse, snowshoe hare and porcupines.

Lifetime Sports To Be Taught At BSC Workshop

A workshop on "Lifetime Sports" during the summer at Bemidji state college will examine those activities in which a person can participate throughout life.

Archery, canoeing, recreational shooting, backpacking and camping, and fishing will be highlighted during the June 12-15 workshop, with outstanding instructors in each area.

Marg Beck of BSC will instruct the canoeing portion of the workshop, with David Engerbretson teaching fly-tying and fishing, Willis Corbett instructing the shooting sessions, Dorothy Templin teaching archery and Robert Carlins handling the backpacking and camping sessions.

Dave Hutchins of BSC men's physical education department is director of the workshop and will provide further information and application forms.

EDA Publishes Guide To Help Find Industry

Publication of a guide to help local organizations working to attract industry to communities with high unemployment has been announced by Robert A. Podesta, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

"The handbook on industrial development was prepared as a part of President Nixon's program to help create new jobs through an expansion of private enterprise in economically lagging areas," Podesta said.

The report lists manufacturing industries ranked by growth trend and provides related information on labor characteristics of industries listed.

"This publication was prepared to help local economic development groups and others concerned with economic development in their efforts to locate and attract new and expanding industry. The growth characteristics of manufacturing industries provided in this booklet will permit a concentration of these efforts on those industries having the greatest economic development potential," Podesta said.

Program Honors Senior Citizens At State Fair

A program honoring Minnesota's outstanding senior citizens will be conducted jointly by the governor's citizens council on aging, the Minnesota federation of county fairs and the Minnesota state fair for the first time this year.

The new format calls for selection of an outstanding man and woman over 65 years of age in each of the state's 87 counties. County winners will become candidates for statewide recognition during the 1972 state fair, August 25 through September 4.

Each county fair board will appoint a committee to handle the county's selection. Persons chosen will receive certificates of commendation from Governor Wendell Anderson and their names will be submitted for consideration at the state level. Minnesota's two outstanding senior citizens will be honored at ceremonies in front of the Grandstand on Senior Citizens' Day at the Minnesota State Fair, Thursday, Aug. 31.

Intersted persons or organizations may offer nominations to their county selection committee. If no committee is formed by the county fair board, nominations may be sent directly to the Council on Aging. For further information write: Governor's Citizens Council on Aging, 277 West University Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota 55103, or Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul, Minnesota 55108.

Service Signs Along Highways Are Explained

Those large blue and white signs on Minnesota freeways indicating the proximity of gas, food and-or lodging are limited to five types of service for the motorists and are placed only at diamond interchanges in rural areas.

Some of the motorist services signs on interstate system highways provide directions to hospital and camping facilities.

In explaining the policies governing the location of the service signs, Richard H. Sullivan, state traffic engineer, said that the state highway department has established standards of operations for the various facilities to assure the availability of the specific services.

Gas, food and lodging must be located within two miles of the freeway exit, Sullivan explained. Service stations are required to be open at least 16 hours a day, seven days a week, for the sale of gasoline and motor oil. In the case of restaurants, the requirement is an establishment which serves three meals a day, seven days a week, and is licensed by the state and-or political subdivision.

Where lodging is posted on the freeway service sign, the nearby accommodations are to be available 24 hours a day through the year and the facility be licensed by the state and the local authority.

The requisite for hospital on the blue and white sign is a hospital which accepts emergency cases and is readily accessible from the freeway (normally not more than 10 miles) and having a medical doctor available 24 hours a day. In urban-suburban areas, standard guide signs providing directions to the hospital via local streets are the responsibility of the governmental agency having jurisdiction over the thoroughfares. Where more than one hospital is located within a reasonable distance of the interchange, directions are provided to the one generally recognized as providing the most comprehensive emergency service.

In some areas, camping is designated on the service signs as well as gas, food and lodging. To qualify, Sullivan pointed out, the camping accommodations must have a license from the state department of health, be equipped with modern sanitary facilities and be in operation 24 hours a day. Further, the campgrounds must not be more than 10 miles from the freeway exit via an all-weather road. Another requirement is a minimum of 20 spaces for camping and parking.

Installation of the signs is limited to the rural sections of the freeways because it is felt that the several services are obviously available in the urban centers, Sullivan said.

IRS To Conduct Airport Survey In May Or June

A compliance survey of airport facilities in this area will be conducted during May and June by revenue officers George O. Lethert, IRS district director, has announced.

The current survey is designed to determine whether all airport operators are complying with the provisions of the airport and airway revenue act of 1970. Many operators comply conscientiously with the tax laws, Lethert indicated; however, some may not be aware of all the requirements which apply to their operations.

"Field area surveys are a continuous part of the regular IRS program to maintain high levels of taxpayer compliance with the tax laws," Lethert said. Any delinquencies determined generally are the result of misunderstandings and oversight.

Health Dep't. To License Water Well Contractors

Minnesota department of health is now licensing water well contractors as required by law passed during the last state legislative session. The department of health is seeking out all the contractors, especially those who can be "grandfathered in."

The state health department has mailed application forms for qualification for licensing to approximately 300 water well contractors in Minnesota. The list of contractors used for the mailing was obtained from various sources and is believed to be incomplete. Any water well contractor not receiving an application is urged to write to the Division of Environmental Health, Minnesota Department of Health, 717 Delaware Street S. E., Minneapolis, Minnesota 55440 to obtain an application.

The law provides that all persons engaged in the business of water well drilling three years prior to August 5, 1971, may be licensed without examination. Persons qualifying under this grandfather provision of the law must be licensed by Aug. 5, 1972.

According to Frederick Heisel, director of the state halth department's division of environmental health, "the law on water well contractor licensing is one of the most important environmental protection acts passed by the 1971 legislature because of its implications for ground water quality control."

The Minnesota state board of health is required to regulate and license the drilling and construction of all wells within the state, examine and license water well contractors, and after consultation with the commissioner of the department of natural resources and the pollution control agency, establish standards for the design, location and construction of water wells within the state.

The National Wildife Federation has asked the Department of Interior to ban the use of lead shot for waterfowl hunting by the 1973-74 season in order to encourage industry to find a substitute for the shot, which poisons an estimated 2-3 million waterfowl annually.

Large Decals On Rear Window Of Car Are Illegal

"A new fad of placing large-size decals on the rear windows of automobiles is unlawful according to state law," Minnesota director of public safety W. R. Hoaglund warned today.

"Just recently," Hoaglund said, "many car owners are buying large decals which state, in large letters, the make of car they are driving. These cover practically the whole rear window and, though everything but the lettering is transparent, they do obstruct much of the rear vision and are in violation of the law."

Hoaglund suggested that if car owners want to display these decals, they be placed somewhere on the body of the car, and not on any window surfaces.

"The Newspaper Skills Course gave me my start in a very rewarding career!"

Bob is a 1970 graduate of the Newspaper Skills Course at Anoka Technical Education Center. Each summer a group of selected students spends eight weeks of hard work at this course, learning the skills of newspaper writing, editing, advertising and photography. Bob is the first of the course's 36 graduates to own his own newspaper.

"I had absolutely no newspaper experience when I entered the course," he says. "But after two months I found that I was able to write news stories, take news photos (develop and print them, too), make up ads, compose pages for printing, and perform many other intricacies of newspaper work.

"To my amazement, that was only the beginning. After learning the basic elements of newspapering in the Skills Course, I have been able confidently to branch out, enhance the skills I learned, and ultimately to manage my own newspaper."

If you have a high school diploma, can type, have a "feeling for words," and — this is the most important — have a deep interest in going into newspaper work, you may be accepted as one of the 20 students in the 1972 Newspaper Skills Course. Write Newspaper Skills Program, Box 191, Anoka Technical Education Center, Anoka 55303. The course starts July 24 and ends Sept. 15.

Poster Contest On Hiring Vets Is Announced

A statewide poster contest for high school students in Minnesota with the theme "Hire a Veteran" was announced today as part of a national contest, according to John R. Murphy, director of the Veterans Administration center at Fort Snelling.

U. S. savings bonds will be awarded to local and state winners throughout the country. The local and state competitions will eventually produce three national winners who will receive trips to Washington, D. C., in October.

Local and state veterans groups and other service organizations will be asked to participate in the contest in their localities, Murphy said.

The three national winners will be personal guests of administrator of veterans affairs Donald E. Johnson, who is head of the VA, at the annual Veterans day national observance at Arlington national cemetery on October 23. Johnson is chairman of the President's veterans day national committee. The national winners, as VIP's, will be treated to other awards and events while in Washington.

Johnson is enlisting the aid of state governors and commissioners of education in the national poster contest. Information is being mailed to school principals so that the contest can get underway promptly when schools open after the summer vacation.

Murphy said that students in grade 9-12 in public, parochial and private schools are eligible. Poster size will be restricted to 17 by 22 inches.

He said that the Veterans administration has been instrumental in bringing thousands of veterans and prospective employers together at job marts throughout the country. While responsibility for assisting veterans in finding jobs rests with the department of labor, he said, the total welfare of the veteran and his family is of prime concern to the VA which is the largest employer of veterans in government. Recent hirings by the agency have averaged 1,000 a month.

The Minnesota VA official said he hopes that during the summer vacation students will give thought to the poster contest, even sketching their ideas in preparation for the return to school and the start of the contest.

Underlining Is Choice To Make In Home Sewing

Underlinings will increase the cost of making a garment, but also the quality, according to Sarah Cox, University of Minnesota clothing teacher. There was a time when almost everything had to be lined, but today's seamstresses have a decision to make. Some fabrics, such as firm knits or firmly woven fabrics, don't require an underlining.

She suggests studying the fashion fabric in relation to the pattern. The underlining is a "shape builder." It builds in formness, stability and wrinkle resistance. In sheer fabrics, the extra layer of fabric reduces transparency and preserves color.

It is necessary to select a less crisp underlining so it drapes with the fashion fabric. The underlining should be of a tight weave and lighter in weight. The garment shape will be preserved if it doesn't stretch. Both fabrics must have the same care characteristics. A seamstress should preshrink the underlining before sewing.

The firmly woven underlining is cut from the main pattern pieces and handled as one with the fashion fabric. Both pieces are seamed together. The underlining must be slightly smaller than the other piece. This will keep the fabric from wrinkling. Each unit should be stay stitched by feeding the fabric underlining face up through the machine. For reinforcement, stitch as close to the seamline as possible.

Each pattern and fabric should be considered individually. Whole or partial underlinings may be used. A bodice may require the softness of a lining or a skirt may need a crisp A-silhouette. Set in sleeves are rarely lined to avoid bulk in the armhole seams.

Farmers Union Is Apprehensive On Value-Added Tax

Tax relief is sorely needed by farmers and other property taxpayers, but caution needs to be taken that the cure is not worse than the ailment, according to leaders of the Farmers Union in this county.

In a resolution, adopted at a countywide meeting of officers and leaders, the group noted that property taxes are reaching the confiscatory stage.

"As a percentage of net farm income, today's land taxes are worse than at any time since the mid-1930's," said the statement which was sent to Minnesota's U.S. Senators and Congressmen.

Referring to the possibility that a federal value-added tax might be adopted to partially replace the property tax load for educational purposes, the Farmers Union group that such a levy is basically a sales tax and that it could put farmers and consumers in an even worse position than at present.

"It will do no good to eliminate or reduce the very regressive property tax, if the replacement tax is equally regressive or even worse," said Farmers Union.

If a value-added tax was to be levied to raise the $20 billion a year now being levied against real property for school purposes, it would take an extremely high rate of tax to produce the revenue, it was warned.

Tax relief could be financed from ability-to-pay levies, said Farmers Union, if federal income tax loopholes were closed and if waste in defense and space spending was reduced.

Environmental Symposium Set For Sept. 16

Plans are well advanced for Minnesota's first state-wide meeting on techniques for utilizing environmental teaching resources "outside the classroom."

The day-long symposium will be held Saturday, September 16, at Anoka senior high school.

Experiences designed to demonstrate how to more effectively utilize a pond, court room, airport, local industry, a farm, playground, city hall and woodlands as environmental instruction sites will receive strong emphasis.

Lyle Bradley, chairman for the "Minnesota Environmental Site Symposium," sponsored by the Anoka-Hennepin school district, said he expects educators, church groups, and private citizens from most of the state's 87 counties to attend.

He said the symposium announcement is being made now so plans for participation can be made prior to the end of the current school term.

"We will be focusing our program on dramatic new dimensions in educational opportunities—beyond conventional classrooms," Bradley said. "Our primary objective is 'show me' sessions on the development of practical, meaningful skills and awareness in thousands of students ranging from kindergarten through college level."

Participants in panel discussions and media presentations will include Minnesota's most skilled environmental teachers and resource specialists. A key session will feature the "how" of the acquisition development and use of instruction sites.

State environmentalists participating in symposium planning feel considerable duplication, and trail and error testing, can be eliminated through the Minnesota-wide exchange of information and ideas.

They also feel that, while many of Minnesota's 432 school districts have incorporated environmental instruction in their curriculum, "informational exchange has been fragmentary." A comprehensive Minnesota environmental site directory, being prepared by the Department of Natural Resources, will be distributed at the Anoka session.

The fall symposium will also place heavy emphasis on introducing environmental studies to all areas of instruction.

Job Openings Remain Slack But Improving

Job openings are beginning to increase but will remain slack until after road restrictions are lifted. Minnesota department of manpower services predicts considerable construction activity during the summer including road and building projects.

J. K. Stadum, manager of Thief River Falls office of Manpower Services, and Charles B. Josephson, veterans employment representative, recently announced several job openings which may be of particular interest to veterans. They are listed at the Manpower Services office.

Stadum and Josephson also mentioned that anyone who has lost a job through automation, plant shut down or obsolescence of their marketable skills may be eligible for retraining under the manpower development training act. Under this program a person may attend school and receive pay while in training. Anyone interested in obtaining more information on this program may contact any state employment office. Veterans are given preference.

Sjulson, Murphy Win School Board Positions

Kenneth Murphy

Harry Sjulson

Polling the top total of 373 votes, Harry Sjulson of St. Hilaire earned a position as a new member of the Thief River Falls board of education in the Tuesday school board election. Reelected was Kenneth Murphy of Thief River Falls with 354 votes.

Unseated as a result of Sjulson's successful challenge was Maynard Wedul of Thief River Falls, presently chairman of the local board of education, who polled 288 votes. The board will reorganize for the coming year early in July.

An organized write-in campaign was apparent as Peder Furuseth received 122 write-in votes in the election. The attempt fell far short however as 704 ballots were cast in the election with a total of 1,159 votes for candidates. Many persons marked their ballots for only one candidate although two were to be elected.

Other write-in votes were given to Kermit Finstad, 17, Roger Worth, 2; Harlan Mickelson, 2, and Wallace Tunberg, 1.

With polling places operated at the Lincoln cafeteria in Thief River Falls and elementary school gymnasium in St. Hilaire, the vote totals showed Sjulson polling 271 votes in Thief River Falls and 102 in St. Hilaire; Murphy receiving 335 in Thief River Falls and 19 in St. Hilaire; Wedul given 244 votes in Thief River Falls and 44 in St. Hilaire; and Furuseth obtaining 121 votes in Thief River Falls and one in St. Hilaire.

The vote total fell far short of last year's record when 2,170 votes were cast and it took election judges until nearly 4 a.m. to tabulate the ballots. There were seven candidates last year with Edgar Naplin of rural Red Lake Falls polling the record number of 1,190 votes as a write-in candidate. Also elected were Curtis Charlson with 1,161 and Rev. Paul Biegner with 957.

The previous record vote had been 1,941 total votes cast in 1963 and Lloyd Howick had been the previous individual high vote recipient. There were 1,197 votes cast in 1970 when Wallace Sparby and E. C. Olson were elected to the board.

Grygla Election

Voters turned out in large numbers in School District 447 (Grygla-Gatzke-Skime) when 456 persons went to the polls Tuesday. The total showed 365 voting at Grygla, 63 at Gatzke and 28 at Skime.

Arnold Stanley of Grygla received 351 votes to become a new member of the board and George Mork of Wannaska was reelected to a three-year term with 338 votes. Martin Loberg, a 23-year veteran of the board, had filed for reelection but withdrew about a week ago. Stanley and Mork had both filed for the board positions.

Major recipients of write-in votes for the three-year terms were Grant Satre of Grygla with 82, Reuben Engevik of Gatzke with 79 and Curtis Jesme of Wannaska with 14.

Ron Engelstad, who was appointed to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Holger Nelson last fall, received 355 votes to be elected for a one-year term. Harlan Cleven received 78 write-in votes for that position.

Goodridge Vote

At Goodridge only 22 votes were cast with Orlin Hanson, present board chairman, being

Board Has Bids On Road Projects At May Meeting

Pennington county board of commissioners recently accepted bids for several resurfacing projects at their regular monthly meeting. Roads included are county road 77 to the golf course bridge, part of county road 18 near the roundhouse past Long's bridge and part of county road 62.

Plans to resurface part of county road 63 were rejected for the present because of other work that should be done before the new surface is applied.

The winning bid was submitted by Duininck Brothers and Gilchrist of Olivia at $69,075. Seven bids were received and went as high as $87,000.

The board also accepted a bid for a panel truck from Northern Motors in the amount of $2,699 for a ½-ton van for survey and highway work.

The board had advertised for bids for a tractor and mower. Because of the differences in specifications on the replies, the board will re-advertise with more specific specifications.

Charles Richards, Pennington county sheriff, was present at the meeting and discussed requests from Goodridge and St. Hilaire to contract for law enforcement patrols for those villages. Nothing was decided because of a lack of specific plans.

Lewis Carpenter, holder of a 3.2 beer license, requested permission to sell beer on Sunday. State law permits it but leaves counties an option to forbid it. This request will be discussed later.

Annual preparations for Memorial day were discussed. The county board provided $25 for use at Goodridge and $200 for use in Thief River Falls. The VFW receives the money this year and uses it in honoring the deceased veterans. Responsibility for this alternates between the VFW and American Legion each year.

The tax forfeited land sale will be held June 9 at 10 a.m.

County board of review will meet July 13 to discuss assessments. At the county meeting categories will be discussed and not individual cases. Those are to be presented to each local board of review.

Vows Spoken At Oklee By Linder And McGeary

Miss Elaine Linder and Dennis McGeary, both of this city, exchanged marriage vows on April 14, at 8 p.m., in a candelight ceremony at Zion Lutheran church at Oklee.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Linder of Plummer and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McGeary of Danvers.

Rev. Charles Gunderson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Giving the devotional mediation was Rev. James Bernauer of this city. Tom Thoreson, a friend of the couple, played the wedding marches and also accompanied Rev. Lloyd Wallace when he sang, "Song of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose an A-line gown of white satin complemented by a detachable chapel-length train. Venice lace and ruffling encircled the high neckline and graced the wide, fitted cuffs of the full bishop sleeves. Matching lace appliques accented with pink ribbon, trimmed the bodice and skirt. Her bouffant veil was held by a matching floral headpiece, and she carried a hand bouquet composed of white gladioli florets, pink carnations and pink and white ribbon streamers.

Dennis Linder of Plummer, a brother of the bride, was best man. Andy Peterson and Kory Chervestad of Oklee were groomsmen and Dave Weleski of Thief River Falls and Ronald Hegge of Oklee seated the guests. All are friends of the groom. Serving as acolytes were Tony and Eddie McGeary. As their attire, they chose black double-breasted tuxedos with white ruffled shirts. The groom wore a white carnation boutonniere and his attendants had pink carnations pinned on their lapels.

Both mothers were attired in light blue street-length dresses and both were presented with yellow orchid corsages.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Serving as reception hostess were Mrs. Henry Larson, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Lyle Morken, friend of the bride, presided at the guest book as Miss Monica McGeary and Mrs. Mike McGeary ladled the punch.

The four-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by aunts of the bride Mrs. Gust Foldoe and Mrs. Ralph Sorenson, was topped by a wedding bell ornament. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Foldoe and Mrs. Myles Swanson, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Austin McGeary, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Allan Steenerson, poured.

Waitresses were Carol Walhaug, Susan Kolstoe and Sandy Howe. Mrs. Kory Chervestad and Mrs. Andy Peterson were at the gift table.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Man., Canada, the newly-weds are now at home in rural Oklee. The bride is a graduate of the Plummer high school and Moorhead State college. "I urge all persons interested in being considered for nomination to one of our nation's service academies to write to my office as soon as possible," he added.

Applications for admission to the service academies can be obtained by writing to Senator Mondale at 443 Old Senate office building, Washington, D.C. 20510. They must be returned to his office no later than Oct. 31, 1972, in order to be considered.

Food Bargains May Backlash On Consumers

"Today's food bargains may backlash on consumers in the future as low prices are today on the farmers," Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald warned today.

He cited the latest monthly index of prices received by Minnesota farmers as "bad economic news that consumers should learn to read and heed."

The April 15 index compiled by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture showed a one point drop on average prices for 22 major farm commodities and on both parity indexes.

On the parity indexes, Minnesota farm prices were only 71 per cent of the traditional 1910-14 base period and 96 per cent of the 1967 price averages.

Eggs continued to be the biggest loser on all counts, dropping to 17 cents per dozen, the lowest April 15 price average in 31 years for this $54 million industry.

"These below-cost egg prices make worse an already disastrous situation for our poultry industry. Farmers have been clobbered by tragically low returns for eggs for the past two years. Heavy losses are bankrupting this industry and forcing many farmers to quit. This ultimately means reduced production, shorter supplies and higher prices for consumers. It could happen within the next six months, industry people tell us," Commissioner Wefald stated.

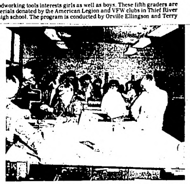
He said the 3.5-cents drop in egg prices during the latest index month, applied to Minnesota's estimated monthly production of 18.5 million dozen eggs, represents a $647,500 loss. The 17 cents per dozen producers received was only 43 per cent of the average price Minnesota farmers received for their eggs in 1947-49.

Other price losers on last month's index for Minnesota farmers were milk by 5 cents per 100 pounds, farm chickens by ½ cent a pound, turkeys one cent a pound, hay down $2 a ton, cattle down 50 cents per 100 pounds, oats and barley both down a cent per bushel, and hogs down by 80 cents per 100 pounds.

Price gains were reported for milk cows by $15 per head, lambs 60 cents per 100 pounds, sheep up 30 cents per 100 pounds, calves up 80 cents per 100 pounds, soybeans up 18 cents a bushel, corn up four cents a bushel, flaxseed up five cents a bushel, wool up by two cents per pound, cows up 10 cents per 100 pounds.

April 15 prices were lower than for the same date last year on corn, wheat, rye, barley, sheep, wool and eggs.

LEARNING TO USE basic woodworking tools interests girls as well as boys. These fifth graders are building bird houses using materials donated by the American Legion and VFW clubs in Thief River Falls and facilities of Lincoln high school. The program is conducted by Orville Ellingson and Terry Lubitz.



FIFTH GRADERS work on bird houses Saturday mornings at Lincoln high school in a program organized by Pennington county extension agent Terry Courneya.

Information Day For Clergy At Bemidji School

Bemidji state college will hold an information day for area clergy May 22, according to Dr. R. D. Decker, president.

The program is being planned by the Bemidji campus ministry in cooperation with the BSC student and academic affairs offices.

Dr. Decker says that the day's dialogue is intended to interpret, to the clergy of northern Minnesota, the programs and concerns that the college has for the growth and development of its students.

The morning program will be presented in the theatre of the Bangsberg fine arts complex. The campus ministry will conduct the afternoon sessions in Walnut hall.

Dr. Decker says that the panels are planned so that the visiting clergy will have ample opportunity to question representatives of both the college and campus ministry regarding their programs.

Shop Projects Gain Interest With Youngsters

Everyone wasn't fishing Saturday morning. Evidence may be found in the turnout of fifth graders continuing their shop projects at Lincoln high school.

These young people, boys and girls, have been meeting Saturday mornings in the Lincoln high school wood shop to learn the use of basic hand-tools for working with wood.

Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension agent, organized and is supervising the program which is being taught by Orville Ellingson and Terry Lubitz.

Material for the project is furnished through donations from the American Legion and VFW clubs in Thief River Falls.

According to Courneya, the housing situation for wrens and blue birds in the Thief River Falls may be expected to be very good this summer because each of the 75 young people participating in the five-week project will complete two bird houses.

A program in basic bicycle maintenance and repair is planned for June. There will also be other programs of interest to boys and girls provided by the county extension service during the summer and fall months.

MEA In Crisis Orientation On Negotiations

Presidents and chief negotiators of about 500 Minnesota Education association (MEA) locals will attend a "crisis orientation" session Saturday in St. Cloud.

According to Duane M. Wilson, director of MEA's negotiations consultant service, the session "will focus on analyzing the status of teacher-school board negotiations on a statewide basis."

The "crisis orientation" results from the need at the local level for an assessment of the situation and from action of the 49th annual delegate assembly, Wilson said. In its Rochester session last month, the MEA's policy-setting body adopted a resolution that says in part:

"The MEA condemns the Minnesota school boards association board of directors' guidelines position on teacher's compensation. . .

"The MEA urges local associations to negotiate settlements which retain the single salary schedule concept. . .

"In the event the above objectives are not attained, the MEA delegate assembly authorizes the MEA board of directors to consider the feasibility of calling a special session of the MEA delegate assembly for consideration of a statewide strike. . ."

The "crisis orientation" session is intended to assist MEA officers and staff in determining to what extent the objectives stated in the resolution have been attained.

A report on the consensus gained during the session will be given to the MEA board of directors at its June meeting in St. Paul.

Clearcutting Is Suggested For Aspen Harvest

Mechanized logging and clearcutting would be beneficial for harvesting three-fourths million acres of aspen stands in northern Minnesota in the next decade, according to a University of Minnesota forester.

"Mechanized harvesting has no adverse impact on forest soils or watershed conditions as currently applied," said Zigmond Zasada, a University forester stationed at the Cloquet forestry research center.

And mechanized logging leaves the area in a condition desirable for aspen establishment and growth and for wildlife habitat improvement, he said.

Clearcutting, the practice of cutting all trees in a given area, is necessary for good aspen reproduction and wildlife habitat improvement for deer and ruffed grouse. Clearcutting also prevents new aspen stands from being diluted with other tree species that might eventually result in complete conversion of the forest from aspen to other trees, Zasada explained.

Although fully mechanized logging operations are most effective in clearcutting, the presently used partially mechanized system, where men with powersaws do the cutting, is expected to dominate the state's logging for the next decade, Zasada said.

The fully mechanized logging system removes 90 per cent of the residual stand, Zasada stated.

"The system as currently used does eliminate 50 per cent or more of the residual stand and advanced reproduction, but still does not accomplish the full stand removal needed in aspen management," he said.

A survey of 1,700 acres of aspen type in Hubbard county harvested by conventional methods showed 26 per cent of the poor site plots and 41 per cent of the good site plots stocked with less desirable hardwoods.

Effect of leaving residual stands on logged areas was studied in an experiment in Cass county. Invading hardwoods were removed in part of a well stocked stand of 13-year-old aspen. Thirty five years after the treatment, the volume in the thinned area was 100 per cent aspen while the volume in the untreated area was 71 per cent aspen and 29 per cent tolerant hardwoods inferior to aspen in value and quality.

535-Acre Tract Is Purchased By Land O'Lakes

Land O'Lakes, Inc., Minneapolis, Minnesota, has purchased a 535-acre tract of land in Hamilton county, Iowa, 10 miles east of Fort Dodge. The acreage will be used as a research farm to test Land O'Lakes-Felco branded products. The sale was completed on March 27.

Land O'Lakes currently owns two research farms, one five miles east of Fort Dodge, Ia., and another outside of Hampton, near the Twin Cities. In time, both of these farms will be sold and all operations will be consolidated on the newly-acquired farm.

According to Ralph Hofstad, senior vice-president of agricultural services at Fort Dodge, consolidation of research at one location will result in more efficient use of management resources and technical personnel. Hofstad commented that the purchase culminates a year-long search by Land O'Lakes officials for a suitable site.

Final selection was made on the bases of soil type, topography, highway access and proximity to the headquarters of the agricultural services division in Fort Dodge. The new farm is close to the route for the proposed Interstate 520 and is accessible by hard surface, all-weather roads.

Using its own personnel Land O'Lakes will continue to do basic research in animal milk products, beef cow-calf operations, beef cattle feedlot, confinement swine production and turkey nutrition. On test plots, there will also be extensive demonstration and testing of agronomy products, seeds and materials handling equipment. Demonstration results are tied closely to Land O'Lakes' marketing effort.

AN ACCURATE throw by Prowler catcher Ordean Peterson caught John Degerness leaning the wrong way for the final out in the first inning of Monday night's Thief River Falls-Roseau game on the Prowler diamond. Prowler third baseman Jon Jensen applies the tag on the play. Thief River Falls won the game 5-4 to boost its season record to 8-3 going into tonight's double-header against Oslo at 5 o'clock and Alvarado at 7 p.m. on the Prowler diamond.

Prowlers Edge Roseau Rams 5-4 In Baseball Action Monday

Junior Pete Sullivan's variety of off-speed pitches completely bewildered Roseau batters in the sixth and seventh innings Monday night as the Prowler left-hander came on in relief to wipe out a Ram scoring threat and preserve a 5-4 Thief River Falls win on the Prowler diamond.

Prowler head coach Ralph Skay's successful decision to switch Sullivan from first base to the pitcher's mound came in the top of the sixth with just one out, Roseau runners on first and third and the Prowlers clinging to a narrow 5-4 lead.

Sullivan floated three straight strikes past frustrated Roseau lead-off batter Rick Vatnsdal for the second out and proceeded to retire Tim Wagner on an easy grounder right back to the mound to end the inning with a concerto of honking horns.

The Prowler southpaw brought even more cheers from the fans on hand in the seventh as he retired the number three, four and five batters on two easy ground balls back to the mound and a strike out.

Sullivan's game-saving performance preserved sophomore right-hander Randy Dallmann's third straight win without a loss this season.

The Prowlers will put their 8-3 record on the line tonight (Wednesday) when they host Oslo at 5 o'clock and Alvarado at 7 p.m. in a split double-header on the Prowler diamond. The Prowlers will travel to Red Lake Falls for a make-up contest Thursday before ending the regular season Friday afternoon with games at Climax, beginning at 1:30, and at Crookston, starting at 4:30.

An attempted squeeze play resulted in a force out at the plate, but center fielder Mike Hallie supplied the key blow with a single over second base to drive in two runs.

A successful double steal moved the remaining Ram base runners to second and third, but a pin-point pick-off throw by catcher Ordean Peterson found John Degerness leaning the wrong way at third for the third out following a strike out.

Roseau's 2-0 lead lasted only until the Prowler half of the second when Thief River Falls scored five times with the benefit of five hits and four Roseau errors.

Prowler shortstop Mike Hamilton led off the second with a single to center and presented the Prowlers with an excellent scoring opportunity when the ball rolled by Hallie for a two-base error.

Mike Drury reached base, putting men on first and third, when his easy pop fly near the first base foul line was misplayed for an error. The Rams appeared to have caught Drury off first base, but Hamilton toyed with the Ram first baseman by inching down the third base line until Drury eventually reached second and Hamilton slipped safely back to third with the frustrated first baseman still holding onto the ball.

The right-handed Wagner followed a strike out performance with a wild pitch, allowing Hamilton to score the Prowlers' first run of the game. A throwing error on a play at the plate on Sullivan's grounder to first tied the game 2-2, with Sullivan advancing to second on the play and later scoring on Dallmann's single to center.

Roseau came right back with a pair of runs in the top of the third inning to cut the Prowler lead to just 5-4.

Wagner led off with a single and moved to second on Degerness' single following a pop-fly out to short left field by Lund. Hallie once again came through with a clutch hit as the Ram center fielder doubled to drive in Wagner and put runners on second and third with just one out.

A perfectly laid bunt by Baumgartner would have loaded the bases for the Rams, but Hamilton picked up the loose ball at short and threw out Degerness who tried to score on a delayed dash from third.

A single by Ammerman scored Hallie, putting runners on second and third, but Dallmann retired the next batter on an easy infield grounder.

The Prowlers collected nine hits off Wagner with Almquist, Hamilton and Sullivan all going two for three at the plate.

In the junior varsity game preceding the Prowlers' 5-4 win, Thief River Falls clobbered Roseau 13-6 behind the hitting and pitching of Jeff Tunberg who was credited with the win while going three for three at the plate, including a triple and two doubles for four rbi's.

Mike Goulet also hit a home run in the "B" game as the Prowlers collected eleven hits.

Thief River Falls scored three times in the first, twice in the second, erupted for seven runs in the third and finished its scoring with a run in the fourth. Roseau scored three runs in the last two innings, the fifth and sixth.

Hamilton was playing shortstop for the first time this season Monday night, replacing regular Kim Johnson who was injured in a motorcycle accident.

Vermilion Wins JC Track Meet

Vermilion's Gary Beckman and Bob Brown combined to score more points than the entire team totals of the other five squads to pace the Ironmen to an easy championship performance in the MJCAA Northern Division track meet yesterday on the Prowler track.

Beckman and Brown each claimed three individual titles in the meet, with Beckman winning the triple jump (41-6), pole vault (13-0) and the 440 intermediate hurdles (60.5) while adding a second in the long jump and a fifth place in the shot put for 23 points. Brown won the long jump (21-5), 100 (10.0) and 220 (23.2) and added a second place in the triple jump for 22 points. Mesabi finished with 30 points, followed by Crookston Tech 29, Rainy River 17 and Fergus Falls 8.

Northland's second place finish marked the highest finish in conference athletic competition of any kind for the Northmen.

Sophomores Tony Burke and Tim Olson supplied the Northmen with a pair of first place finishes as Burke tossed the discus 129-0 and Olson ran the 120-yard high hurdles in a school record 15.9. Olson set another school mark in the 100 with a 10.5 clocking in the prelims.

LHS Runners Place Fifth In Annual Dragon Relays

Powerful Moorhead successfully defended its Dragon title with 107 points, easily finishing ahead of Crookston with 40, St. Cloud Apollo 32, Fergus Falls 29, Thief River Falls 25, Fargo Shanley 21, Wahpeton 16½, East Grand Forks 14, Breckenridge 9½ and Perham 6.

The meet was a costly experience for the Prowlers as premiere sprinter Rob Swenson suffered a hamstring injury during the 100-yard dash. Swenson will be out of action for the rest of the season—missing the district 31 and region eight meets. And Prowler head coach Jim Sims is doubtful that hurdler John Wangberg will be recovered from his hamstring injury in time for district competition.

Best performance in the Dragon meet for the Prowlers was turned in by the 880 relay team consisting of Jon Markstrom, Steve Beich, Kent Smith and Markoe Hanson. The Prowler relay squad broke the Lincoln school record of 1:33.9 set just last week with a 1:33.8 for second place behind Moorhead's 1:30.7 clocking.

Thief River Falls claimed two third place finishes, with Paul Battleson running the 880, in 2:01.6, trailing rival Todd Peterson of Crookston who ran a record-breaking 1:58.2. Another third place was claimed by the Prowler sprint medley relay team with a 3:45.2 compared to Moorhead's 3:45.4 winning time.

The Prowler mile relay team placed fourth with a 3:39.2 in yet another event won by Moorhead in a time of 3:31.6.

Three fifth place performances by Prowlers were claimed by Mike Fitzgerald in the 440 with a 52.6, with Moorhead's Rob Anderson winning the event in a record 51.7; Hanson with a 10.7 in the 100 which was won by Jim Gravalin in 10.5; Doug Aaseby with a 22.2 in the 180-yard low hurdles, won by Moorhead's Dave Grinaker in 20.9 and Van Sillerud with a 118-0½ toss in the discus competition won by Moorhead's Gary Revling with a heave of 138-11½.

Several Police Cases Cleared

Several police cases of the Thief River Falls police department have been solved through investigative efforts of Elton Cummings, police investigator.

Three boys, ages 13 through 16 have been apprehended for a burglary reported in February. Three other juvenile boys were apprehended for the burglary at Flom's grocery March 22 and an attempted burglary at the same location March 26. One juvenile boy was apprehended for the larceny of a two-way radio valued at $800 taken from the Soo Line railroad in March.

Numerous cases of vandalism have also been attributed to these boys during the past three or four months. These include damage reported by Eric Allen, two reports from Brodin Sheet Metal, Inc., breakage of two plate glass windows at Amundgaard Implement and a report from Joan Enerson.

Investigation of the report by Sharon Rowley who stated that check blanks had been taken May 7 was solved and resulted in the apprehension of three 13 year old girls. Two of the girls have been implicated in the forgery of two of the checks.

Several new complaints were handled by the police department during the past week.

On May 10 it was reported that a pop bottle had been thrown through the window of a truck at the National Guard armory. The damage was estimated at $35.

Fred Grant reported Thursday that 5 fishing rods and reels, ice skates and a set of drive sockets had been taken from his garage over a period of time. The value of the loss was about $75.

Terry Courneya reported Thursday that a bicycle belonging to his son had been taken. It was recovered the same day and a juvenile boy has been contacted in the incident.

About 4:55 p.m. on the same day, Jon Pream of Thief River Falls was driving south on Duluth avenue when his vehicle was struck by a vehicle traveling on the Backe street driven by Sidney James Brouse of Thief River Falls. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $300 to the Pream vehicle and $125 to Brouse's.

Mrs. Palmer Lorensen reported Friday that someone had taken $20 from her daughter's locker at Lincoln high school.

Harold Haugen of Oklee was driving his car north on Atlantic avenue about 1:30 p.m. Friday and stopped for a stop sign at Third street and proceded through the intersection, striking a vehicle driven by Donald Bren of Thief River Falls who was driving west on Third. Damage to Haugen's vehicle was estimated at $900 and Bren's at $850.

About 3:50 a.m. Saturday, Pam Watson of Frazee was driving north on Arnold avenue when her vehicle was struck by one driven by Karen L. Berggren of Williams, Minn., who was traveling east on Seventh street. Watson was taken to Northwestern hospital and treated for shock. Berggren was also taken to the hospital and complained of a sore neck and a sore and bruised knee. Watson's car received about $900 in damages and Berggren's was estimated at $1,200.

About 7:10 a.m. Sunday the police department received a report that there had been an accident on Sherwood avenue and that two boys had been observed walking west, away from the car. The car, owned by Darryl Tveitbakke of Thief River Falls, had apparently been traveling east on Parkway and missed the turn. Damage has been estimated as "total". At 7:36 a.m. John Fitzgerald of Thief River Falls reported that the Tveitbakk vehicle had been stolen from the parking lot at Northland Manor.

Sunday morning Roy Pederson, police patrolman, was cruising on south highway 59 when he noticed two young hitchhikers and stopped to find out who they were. After leaving them, Pederson continued patrolling and turned to inspect the municipal liquor store. As he drove his car into the store parking lot he saw the two hitchhikers run toward a nearby woods. Pederson found that the door of the liquor store had been forced open and notified police headquarters by radio. Pederson was unable to locate the two boys because of fog. He stopped two Canadian motorcyclists who stated that they had seen two people farther south on highway 59. Pederson proceded south and apprehended the 16 and 17 year old youths. Four fifths and a pint of liquor were found and the young men from Robinsdale, Minn., have been charged with burglary. They were returned to Hennepin county for prosecution.

At 2:30 p.m. Monday, Scott Olson of Detroit Lakes, Minn., reported that $80 in cash had been taken from the pocket of a shirt hanging on a motorcycle.

Yesterday (Tuesday) it was reported that someone had broken 17 windows in two buildings and a truck windshield at Balvin Implement over the weekend. The damage was estimated at $85.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume 61 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, May 17, 1972 Number 40

Supreme Court Is Featured In Book

Striking a balance between individual liberty and public security has been one of the central issues facing the U.S. supreme court in this century, according to a University of Minnesota history professor.

Paul L. Murphy has traced the complex history of the high court in his book, "The Constitution in Crisis Times 1918-1969". The work places the court in the social and political context at the times important issues were raised.

"Constitutional government, American-style, has been under a constant state of challenge since Woodrow Wilson's wartime 'dictatorship' of 1917-18," Murphy said.

Since that time, he said, the court has gone through a number of stages. At times it has been the protector of wealth and property and in other periods it has been the jealous guardian of individual liberty.

Following World War I, the court upheld many wartime laws ranging from government operation of service industries to restrictions on free speech and press, Murphy said. Espionage acts and the selective service act of 1917 were upheld.

A number of judges at that time, however, saw law as a valid instrument for social change, Murphy said. "Such legal empiricists clearly called for law immediately adaptable to concrete postwar social and economic needs."

In 1921, former President William Howard Taft became chief justice with the view of safeguarding private property against what he believed to be "its most dangerous enemies—socialists, communists, progressives and militant champions of labor and labor unions," Murphy said.

Murphy said Taft saw "judicial activism" as a means to recreate laissezfaire governmental policies. "The liberty on whose side the Court came up was liberty of business to continue its practices and the liberty of the public to accept and adjust to them on business' terms," Murphy said.

Evolution of civil rights has been complex. Murphy said the court upheld the right of black people to a fair trial saying, "The rack and torture chamber may not be substituted for the witness stand."

But the same court which ruled against state discrimination refused to force the Democratic party as a private body to allow black people to run in primary elections, Murphy said. Aliens and pacifists were also denied access to the political system.

Later, the New Deal and economic crises saw a "general underwriting of federal activism" by the court in allowing federal agencies to supervise certain aspects of the economy, Murphy said.

During World War II, it upheld a number of national security provisions including the government management of industries and relocation camps for Japanese-Americans, Murphy said.

Later the court ruled that America had won the war "without abandoning our traditional faith in the reliance upon private enterprise and individual initiative devoted to public welfare," Murphy said.

Murphy's work reveals a number of other ironies in the court's history. "Chief Justice Earl Warren, under whose leadership the court was most vigorous in its support of individual rights, had been the California attorney general who supported the relocation of Japanese-Americans during World War II," Murphy said.

Justice Hugo L. Black, whose nomination was opposed because he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan, became one of the court's strongest proponents of civil and equal rights, Murphy explained.

"Under our constitutional system," Black wrote in 1940, "courts stand as havens of refuge for those who might otherwise suffer because they are helpless, weak, outnumbered or because they are non-conforming victims of prejudice and public excitement."

Murphy, who is on leave to establish an American studies program at the University of Lagos in Nigeria, is the author of "Liberty and Justice" and "The Meaning of Freedom of Speech: First Amendment Freedoms from Wilson to F.D.R."

Legislators Aid Distribution Of Emergency Funds

Representative Richard Fitzsimons of Warren and Senator Donald Sinclair of Stephen attended a special meeting of the legislative advisory committee in the office of Governor Wendell Anderson Thursday.

An emergency appropriation of $80,000 was made to the department of veterans affairs for payment of veterans relief due to a greatly increased caseload.

Natural resource reimbursement account funds of $384,000 were allocated for an accelerated development program for state parks in northeast Minnesota to help alleviate the unusually high unemployment in the Duluth area.

Funds were approved to pay the costs of the redistricting plan suggested by the federal court and also for microfilming state warrants that must be moved due to a fire in the Eagles building near the Capitol that had been used for storage.

SUN WORSHIPPERS TAKE CARE—HAIR CARE

Groomed for the conditioning of lovely hair, Clairol's Balsam 2 Regular Formula was used by the dark haired girl on the left, while Protein Body Formula, which adds extra body to fine limp hair, was used by the model at right. Both hair styles are by Hugh Harrison.

Beach Bunnies and Sun Worshippers beware. Your golden suntan can cost you dearly. The price? Hair that is dry and brittle. Hair that looks and feels like straw.

But cheer up. You may sunbathe all you want if you take hair care. There's a new product, Clairol's Balsam 2, proof positive that two good things are better than one. It detangles and desnarls "like the finest creme rinse, while at the same time, rich moisturizers help condition dull, dry hair.

It promises to steal a mere 60 seconds from your daily sunbath. In return, it helps to make your hair look healthier in one easy treatment.

So take care and save time.

Pro-Abortionist Says Doctors Should Prepare

Mrs. Betty Benjamin, president of MORAL (Minnesota Organization for the Repeal of Abortion Laws) said this week that doctors may soon be expected to perform an abortion simply because the patient asks that it be done.

She quoted a statement on abortion by 100 professors of obstetrics, released nationally in the April 1, "American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology" which pointed out that changes in the law (in other states) has made it necessary for the traditional physicians role to change "if we are to serve the new society in which we live."

"Minnesota's law could be changed overnight by the courts", Mrs. Benjamin said. "How prepared are Minnesota's physicians to handle abortion on demand?"

With careful planning, conscientious effort and modern techniques, the professors issuing the statement say the load can be handled.

"The doctor with conscientious objections must, of course, be excused, but he will be expected to refer his patients elsewhere. A more difficult dilemma will be faced by the doctor who approves of abortions for some reasons but not for all. He may be accused of being unduly arbitrary or capricious, the professors say.

"Abortion should be made equally available to the rich and poor. The better educated members of our society are generally aware of their rights. It will devolve largely upon the medical profession to inform all others of this right. Care must be taken to avoid the allegation that abortion is being used as an instrument of social bias. Although women should be relieved of any sense of shame or guilt from the abortion experience, they should not regard abortion a primary method of birth control."

Mrs. Benjamin asked interested physicians and others to write for a copy of the professors statement to MORAL 549 Turnpike Road, Golden Valley, 55416.

Special Gift

You could pass the tree a hundred times without seeing the bright little bird peeping out.

Nature neglected to give man such camouflage. In the scheme of things he is actually quite obvious. But God created man in His image—a much greater asset. He was given a strong body and a mind with which to think. And He has given us a very special gift; the miracle of Faith.

Yes, Faith is a gift. It comes only through our seeking, and the quest is not an easy one. Strangely enough, you might not find Faith in church. But there you will discover where to begin to look for it.

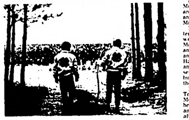
4-H'ers Work to Conserve America's Natural Resources



SPECIAL — Young people today are firmly committed to their survival and that of this planet. They are involved with the problems and seek solutions to air and water pollution, garbage disposal, survival of threatened animal and bird life. In fact they want to conserve all of America's natural resources.

Among the active and concerned young people are more than 320,000 enrolled in the 4-H conservation of natural resources program.

The effectiveness of their work is reflected in a case study of one young man who worked four years in 4-H conservation, sponsored nationally by John Deere and supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

John J. Silvia Jr., 18, of Middletown, R.I., concentrated his efforts on preserving and enhancing the life and natural habitat of animals, birds, insects and vegetation. And he skillfully persuaded others around him by word and deed to become involved.

In order to carry his conservation message more forcefully to other 4-H members and to various civic groups, the youth took up the 4-H public speaking project. He used his 4-H photography project to tell the story of the need for all people to be concerned and do something about conservation.

As a result of his avid interest and his effective teaching of younger 4-H members, his 4-H club earned special recognition in 1970.

Now a University of Maine freshman planning a career in wildlife management and conservation, Silvia also earned one of six educational scholarships of $700 each provided by John Deere in 1971.

Again in 1972, John Deere is making available to members a maximum of four medals of honor per county and an all-expense-paid trip to the 51st National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 26-30, for the state winner.

At the National 4-H Congress, representatives of the donor will present six educational scholarships of $700 each to national winners.

Clubs carrying on outstanding conservation programs receive certificates of merit. And a $50 cash award is provided for one county in each state reporting the most outstanding 4-H conservation program. This award is to be used for further work in the 4-H conservation of natural resources program.

For information about local 4-H conservation activities contact the county extension agent or the state 4-H office.

Another Stupid Act

Shooting of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama was another stupid act in the drama surrounding the leaders of our nation. The person who would commit such a crime is so reprehensible as to defy description.

Gov. Wallace had been gaining ground in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States, but not too many people really gave him even an outside chance for the nomination. Many agree with some of his philosophies but many of those would not take that agreement to the voting booth.

Attempt on the life of Gov. Wallace to remove a prime Presidential candidate is therefore not likely. Rather it would seem the act was one of personal vindictiveness. There is no way to adequately probe the thinking of the governor's assailant.

Surely the act will again touch off a wave of anti-gun sentiment in the Congress. No one will mention that it is already illegal to attempt to commit murder. And it is likely that the person who did the shooting also violated one or more other laws already in existence. This will be conveniently overlooked in the oratory which is bound to follow the Wallace incident.

The utterly senseless shooting of a major political figure says something about the sickness of American society today. We view it as an indictment of permissiveness in the home and in the courts. But mostly we feel a sense of frustration over being powerless to prevent such things from happening again. Who will be the next victim of a similar stupid act?

Selling Us Short!

Following editorial comment on the President's decision to mine the harbors of North Vietnam is from one of our exchange papers:

President Nixon has our praise for his determination to confront the Russians, chief suppliers to Hanoi, in his announcement that the U.S. is to mine Haipon Harbor in an effort to cut off these supplies and bring the Vietnam war to a sudden end.

Who are these so-called Americans, at this late date, to sell us short, in their bid for election, and, what did they do when they were in power to end the war?

Did Nixon start this conflict?

He is only trying to protect what few remaining fighting men we have left in Vietnam and save face for America, which any loyal American should appreciate instead of down-grade.

True, we never should have gotten involved! Never! But we are there and have given our support to those who have fought to keep from being enslaved under Communism.

Right is right and wrong is wrong and Nixon's tough-line, now, is the only choice he could make unless it be defeat and the annihilation of south Vietnamese who have chosen to live in a free world.

This has been a political war ever since it was started, and, if Nixon's action now is politically motivated, so what?

We predict the U.S. will win, altho we have already lost the war. We should have gotten tougher from the very start. But, better late than never!

Expecting Perfection

Where does all common sense go?

Recently we read (we can't remember where) a speech on the topic of consumerism, a subject we have preached on before.

The gist of the speech was that the general public is very quick to wrathfully accuse manufacturers and the like of exploitation when it comes to products offered for sale.

Cars are not carefully made, cereal boxes are not full, toys are defective, etc., etc.

What the speaker went on to ask was "Do you as a worker try the hardest YOU can to do the best you can EVERY time you go to work? Do you never make mistakes? Are you giving a dollar's worth of work and dedicated effort for a dollar's worth of pay?

The speaker said, "If you are not (and who of us can say we always do our best), you should be able to realize who is REALLY to blame for poor products on the market today."

We are sick and tired of public-minded know-it-alls who are constantly trying to incite the American public against the system (which to us is better than any we have observed) and of politicians who try to make political hay on the subject of consumerism.

Consumerism is a suspect issue and we should all be too smart to fall for it. It would be much better to spend the time used for complaining in self-assessment on just how we are doing our own assigned tasks. If we can honestly say we are perfect, maybe then we would be justified in complaining about how others do their work.

Would all the perfect ones please stand up.

Each A Charity Case

Defacing public property is an offense that has been with us for generations. Children are not the only offenders, but on the whole they are inclined to be more thoughtless. Evidence of this thoughtlessness is apparent on the street surrounding the Youth Center on West Main Street. Debris is left in store front entrances, pop, candy bars and other food is smeared on windows. Cars are peppered with snow and mud and some store windows have been broken.

Citizens of Ada who have contributed to the Youth Center are being turned off by these actions.

YOUTH. . .why be your own worst enemy?

We quote from a sermon given by the Rev. Kenneth D. Claypool of the Fargo Plymouth Congregational Church:

There are some favors you cannot really pay back in kind. You and I are very careful that we do pay back favors and kindnesses received from our friends and associates. If we get behind in social obligations, we plan a big dinner or some such, making it especially nice, and invite all those who have been unrepaid for a function to which they have invited us. But when the giver is God we are unable to do such a thing. Also, when our blessing is inherited from the past we are unable to repay.

This kind of situation puts us in the position of the wealthy student of Williams College a hundred years ago, who was sent to the office of the famous president, Mark Hopkins, on the charge of having defaced college property. In a cocky mood the boy pulled out his billfold and offered to make compensation. "Young man," said Mr. Hopkins, "no student can pay for what he receives here. Can you pay for the sacrifice of Colonel Williams who founded the college, or for the devotion of the half-paid professors who have taught here in order that youth like you might have an education? Every man here is a charity case."

Is it not true that each of us is, in many ways, a charity case? It is well that we return in kind those favors and blessings we receive when we can. But there are multitudes of blessings, which are often the more meaningful ones, for which there is no possibility of repayment in kind. How could we repay for the blessings of life itself; of the rich blessings which are ours in this great country; for the health which is ours; and for the beauty which surrounds us? Yes, life makes each of us a charity case.

A Modern Balance

Pardon us for commenting about our own business, but every now and then it should be a pardonable fault. We wanted to share with our readers a few comments about advertising from the Paynesville Press as follows:

"The liberality of our advertising friends while it draws from our bosoms the most lively gratitude, urges an apology to our sentimental patrons."

This may come as a surprise to modern newspaper readers, who sometimes complain that "too much of the paper is devoted to advertising."

In truth, the American newspaper of today gives less emphasis to advertising than it has at anytime since the American Revolution. For instance, most modern newspapers exclude advertising from the front page. Only a few still carry a small amount of front page advertising

A significant change has taken place in the attitude of publishers toward the balance between advertising and news. No modern publisher lets increased advertising displace reading matter.

In fact the opposite is true. The modern newspaper actually increases news content as advertising in creases. The percentage of space devoted to each remains approximately the same.

Thus, the more advertising a newspaper carries, the better it is in all respects. The reader may compare newspapers of any size in any city to see proof of the relationship.

The Paynesville Press is right on all counts. When advertising increases, the number of pages of the paper is increased, providing room for much more news copy. In addition to providing a service by letting the readers know about the goods they have for sale, our advertisers provide the financial support necessary to bring you a better newspaper. We appreciate the opportunity; we hope you appreciate the product.

4-H'ers in Bread Program Doing What Comes Naturally

SPECIAL – With the current food scene filled with words like "organic" and "macrobiotics," young people are experimenting more and more with the old-fashioned art of bread baking.

"Bread making is a part of the 'return to the natural' movement," says Miss Lois Howard, National 4-H Service Committee home economist. "And everybody appreciates the tantalizing aroma of freshly baked bread."

There are over 650,000 young people learning to perfect the techniques of baking through enrollment in the 4-H bread program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Sponsored nationally by Standard Brands Incorporated, boys and girls discover the importance of bread in their diet every day and have the fun of preparing tempting, nutritional yeast breads for their family and friends.

Besides the pleasure of eating the results of their efforts, the 4-H members may receive other benefits as well. Standard Brands' sponsorship includes incentives and recognition culminating in educational scholarships of $700 each for six national winners in the bread program.

State winners receive an all-expense trip to the 51st National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 26-30. And up to four medals of honor are offered in each county.

One of the 1971 national winners was Bill Kuntz, 17, of Indianapolis. The only boy among the scholarship winners, Kuntz has produced scores of Santa Claus cakes, gingerbread houses and a dozen different kinds of yeast breads from raisin and rye to sweet rolls and stollen during his eight years in the project. The young baker has a collection of more than 60 cookbooks, including one which carries one of his own recipes.

Another of last year's national winners was Deborah Ann Soper, 18, of Westminster, Md. Excelling in baking almost all varieties of yeast breads, Miss Soper began her own countywide bread workshop for nine to 12 year olds. She tried to limit the workshop to eight youngsters but was forced, because of its popularity, to double the enrollment.

For local information concerning the 4-H bread program, contact the county extension office.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

Internal Revenue Service

Q- Do firms which have realized "windfall" profits as a result of the wage-price stabilization program have to reduce prices?

A- Yes. Firms which increased their prices before Nov. 14 in anticipation of scheduled wage increases but were unable to put all or part of the increases into effect because of Phase II controls must reduce their prices by May 8, 1972. These price reductions should be equal to the amount of the increases, but if a particular company has had allowable cost increases that had not already been used to increase prices, those costs increases could be taken into consideration in establishing the reduced prices.

Q- Is it true that a landlord must declare under penalty of perjury that all the contents of the notice of rent increase sent to tenants are true and that the increase is not in violation of stabilization regulations?

A- Yes. In addition to all other information and statements required by the rent regulations, a notice of rent increase should contain the following:

It is hereby declared under the penalties of perjury that the foregoing statements are true to the best of my (our) knowledge and belief, and that the increase in your rent is not in violation of the Economic Stabilization Regulations.

Q— Can a hospital or other institutional health provider have more than one price increase within the first year following Nov. 14, 1971?

A— Yes, provided that these increases do not cumulatively exceed the 6 per cent annual rate and otherwise comply with stabilization regulations. Also, the provider should note that once the aggregate increase exceeds 2.5 per cent, there is a requirement to report each increase to both the District Director of Internal Revenue and the Local Medicare Intermediary. The provider should also send the IRS a statement of those increased cost factors that would justify the increased prices.

Q— If a single family dwelling unit qualifies for exemption from controls under stabilization regulations, when may the landlord charge an amount specified in a lease which he was prohibited from charging under the regulations?

A— The exemption for qualified single family dwellings and owner-occupied multi-family units was effective on February 3, 1972. Thus, after February 2, 1972, any provision of the stabilization regulations which prevented the collection of the full amount of rent specified in a valid lease between landlord and tenant, became ineffective in regard to the exempted property.

Q— Are there ever situations when a Category III employer should file a PB-1 or PB-2 form?

A— Yes. PB-1 or PB-2 forms, which normally are used by larger employers to prenotify or report wage increases to the Pay Board, should also be filed by Category III employers who request an interpretation as to the acceptability of a wage or salary adjustment or when seeking an exception. In these cases, the forms should be filed with the Internal Revenue district office.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

Here's an idea of what to look for from the Association:

Check the swing frame. How sturdy is it? Is it still anchored securely in the ground? Look for defective seat boards, chains or ropes and holes.

Shield the teeter-totter fulcrum so that children can't catch their fingers. Are the boards painted and in good repair or are your children likely to get splinters?

Place clean sand or sawdust on the ground at the bottom of slides and frequently replenish or replace it. Locate slides in the shade whenever possible so they don't become hot from the sun.

Check sandboxes for broken glass and other debris. At the same time, inspect it for protruding nails, screws and slivers.

Adjust the height of ladders, bars and rings to your child's height so he never has to use benches or boxes as take-off boards.

State Fair Sets Varied Program At Grandstand

Minnesota state fair will open its gates on Friday, Aug. 25, for a run extended for the first time to 11 days. With a program of entertainment and educational features designed to provide something for every visitor, the 113th state fair is expected to attract more than one million persons before its finale on Labor Day, Sept. 4.

August 25 will be the first of two children's days at the 1972 fair. Persons under 16 years of age will be admitted to the fairgrounds without charge through 6 p.m. Special free events, including a grandstrand variety show in the morning and high school marching band competition in the afternoon, are planned for the new opening day. The second "Kids' Day" will be Friday, September 1.

Entertainment will abound in the grandstand at this year's exposition. Fourteen performances of eight completely different shows are scheduled for the first 10 nights of the fair.

Opening Friday's program will be a demolition derby starting at 8 p.m. and featuring 100 motorists smashing into each other until only one car remains moving. In a sequel, another multiple-car pileup will take place on the racetrack at 2 p.m., Friday, September 1.

On Saturday, August 26, and Sunday, August 27, television's latest sensations, Sonny and Cher, will entertain evening grandstand show fans. The talented husband and wife singing-comedy duo will be featured at two performances Saturday at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. and one on Sunday at 8 p.m.

John Denver, who catapulted to fame with the record "Country Road", will return to his home state for shows at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday, August 28. Kenny Rogers and the First Edition will also be on the bill that night singing songs such as "But You Know I Love You," "Reuben James" and "Something's Burning." In addition, ventriloquist Aaron Williams, with his friend Freddie, will be on both programs.

A group of country music's biggest stars will entertain on Tuesday, August 29, when names such as Lynn Anderson, Sonny James, Tom T. Hall, Tex Ritter and Del Reeves perform at an 8 p.m. show.

Wednesday and Thursday, August 30 and 31, Bobby Goldsboro, Anne Murray and George Kirby will star in one 8 p.m. show each night. Singers Golsboro and Miss Murray are newcomers to the grandstand stage while Kirby, with is comedy and impressions, is an old favorite, returning to the Minnesota fair for the fourth time.

Merle Haggard, the year's number one country and western artist, will be the headliner on Friday, September 1. Joining Haggard for one show at 8 p.m. will be top female vocalist Sammi Smith along with perennial western favorite Waylon Jennings and Haggard's band, The Strangers.

Neil Diamond returns to the fair by popular demand for two shows Saturday, September 3, at 6 and 9 p.m.

On Sunday, September 3, a new concept in musical entertainment will be presented at the 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. performances on the grandstand stage. Up With People, a group of some 100 young singers and musicians, will display a kaleidoscope of contemporary music including folk, jazz, country and rock.

Counties Spend $34 Million In Road Programs

Nearly $34 million in state-collected road user funds will finance construction this year on Minnesota's county state aid highway system.

The figure—$33,947,605—represents 60 per cent of the apportionment for 1972 and designated for contruction, Gordon M. Fay, state aid engineer, explained. Forty per cent of the total apportionment of approximately $56.5 million, or $22.6 million, is allotted for maintenance operations on the county state-aid system.

Since the county state-aid highway program was initiated in 1958, more than 8,730 miles have been paved, Fay reported. Next in volume of improvements has been construction of base courses on 5,993 miles. Grading of 5,692 miles of highway and seal coating of 1,976 miles also were accomplished. Other county state aid highway (CSAH) projects included construction of 360 bridges, the installation of 31 traffic signal systems and 135 miles of storm sewer lines.

Annual apportionment to Minnesota's 87 counties under the county state aid highway program consists of 29 per cent of the net highway user distribution fund (state motor fuel taxes and license fees). From this fund, nine per cent is apportioned to cities and villages of more than 5,000 population for the municipal state aid street system and 62 per cent to the state trunk highway system. Currently, the county state aid highway system totals 29,764 miles.

Heart Ass'n. To Emphasize Less Saturated Fats

Diet fads come and go, and the people who try to follow them usually slide back to their old eating ways in a few weeks, says The Minnesota Heart association.

But there is one diet that is not a fad. It is easy to follow since it calls for moderate changes in eating habits to help reduce risk of heart attack and stroke.

People who follow a "heart diet", the Minnesota Heart association adds, are not forced to give up all their favorite foods. But they have to learn to "go easy" on them.

A diet that emphasizes butter, cream, eggs, beef, pork, organ meats and shellfish is high in saturated fats and cholesterol and tends to raise the cholesterol level in the blood. This can speed development of a condition—affecting most persons—which causes the arteries to become roughened and narrowed by fatty deposits.

Eventually, the blood flow may be blocked. If this condition prevails in a coronary artery, a heart attack may occur. If these deposits block the flow of blood in an artery leading to the brain, a stroke is likely.

The diet also emphasizes the need to control intake of colories to keep a desirable weight, and stresses meeting daily needs for protein, vitamins, minerals and other nutrients.

Dr. George Martin

Martin, Beich Gain Top State Offices

Two Thief River Falls residents were elected recently to top positions in Minnesota health organizations. Dr. George Martin was elected president of the Minnesota State Medical association and Dr. O. D. Beich was elected president of the newly merged Minnesota Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Dr. Martin, 47, elected Thursday at the closing session of the house of delegates during the physicians' 119th annual meeting at the Mayo civil auditorium in Rochester, is one of the youngest men elected to the association presidency.

A 1950 graduate of the University of Illinois college of medicine, he expects to emphasize quality Minnesota health care during his term in office, stressing the humanness of medicine as it involves the physician and the people of the state.

Dr. Martin is a native of Brookfield, Ill., attended Northwestern university in Evanston, Ill., before entering medical school, and served his internship in the United States Navy. Beginning his practice in Montevideo in 1953, he moved to Thief River Falls in 1954.

He joined the Red River Valley Medical society in 1954 and became its representative to the Minnesota State Medical association house of delegates in 1962, serving in that capacity until 1970. In 1969, the association elected him as alternate delegate to the American Medical association and in 1970 he became its delegate for a three-year term. In 1971 he was voted president-elect of the association.

In addition to his work with the governing bodies of the association and AMA, Dr. Martin has been a member of the association's committee on rural medical service and the liaison committee to Blue Shield. A member of the American Academy of Family Physicians, he served for two years on the health manpower committee of the Northlands Regional Medical program.

Active in church and civic work in Thief River Falls, Dr. Martin is a past president of the Lions club, Chamber of Commerce and board of education. He and his wife, Patricia, have three children, Mrs. David (Jodi) Stewart of East Lansing, Mich., and George and Cheryl of Thief River Falls.

Dr. Beich Elected

Dr. Beich, who has served seven years as a public member of Minnesota Blue Cross and the past year as vice chairman of Blue Cross MII, was elected president of the merged Blue Cross and Blue Shield organization Wednesday in Rochester.

The merger of Blue Cross and Blue Shield was made official by a vote of the corporate bodies of each corporation, Dr. Beich said. The merger proposal had previously been approved by Berton W. Heaton, Minnesota insurance commissioner.

The new corporation will be run by the board of trustees which includes 11 physicians, 11 hospital administrators and 11 public members. Minnesota Blue Cross has reserves of $30 million, Dr. Beich said, and the new

Announce Office Products Store

Northern Office Products, Inc., is the name of a new business which will open its doors to the public in Thief River Falls about July 1. The business will be located in the former Fleet Distributing and Supply building which the company has purchased at Knight avenue and Third street.

Remodeling is now underway on the 6,500 square feet of building area to prepare it for use as an office products store. A 14x35 area on the north side of the store will serve as a service shop for office equipment.

Stockholders in the corporation are Arnold Carriere and Lee Nelson of Thief River Falls and Ray Simon of Crookston. Carriere is president and treasurer of the organization with Simon as vice president and Nelson as secretary.

Carlere has been employed by Arctic Enterprises for four and one-half years and presently serves as director of management personnel services. Nelson has worked at Arctic for one and one-half years and is office services manager. He previously was employed at Grundy's office supply and Tony Dorn, Inc., in Thief River Falls. Both have resigned their positions at Arctic Enterprises.

Simon has operated Simon's office supply in Crookston for the past 10 years. Effective July 1, the name of the Crookston business will be changed to Northern Office Products, Inc., and the Crookston and Thief River Falls outlets will be operated under the new corporation. No changes are planned at Crookston except for the name and expanded product lines.

When the Thief River Falls store opens about July 1, it will include a full line of small office supplies, office furniture displays, Hermes typewriters and calculators. The firm will also be dealer for A. B. Dick equipment including copy machines, duplicators and offset presses for a 10-county area in northwestern Minnesota. Some additional electronic and furniture lines are also being added, and arrangements have been made to add another major line of typewriters and dictation equipment.

Included in the remodeling will be installation of paneled partitions to divide the building and create individual office settings for display of furniture and equipment. The west end of the building will be used for warehouse and delivery area. Retail and display areas will be entirely carpeted.

The combined Thief River Falls and Crookston operations will have about eight full-time employees initially, Carriere said. All of the stockholders will be active in the business operation. Salesmen and retail personnel have been hired and officers of the corporation are presently talking with people concerning service technician jobs.

Work Begun On Electric Line To St. Hilaire

Lee Engen, Otter Tail Power company Crookston district manager, announced today that work has begun on the electric transmission line and distribution system in St. Hilaire.

New poles, larger electric conductors and a pole-top switch will be installed on the transmission line leading into St. Hilaire.

In the distribution system, several poles will be replaced, new and larger conductor wire will be installed on the primary and secondary voltage lines, and new transformers will be added, Engen said.

The company will bring in a large portable electric generator to carry the town while work is being done on the transmission line. There will be very short electric service interruptions when the electric load is switched to the portable generator, and also when some of the cutover to new facilities is made, according to Engen.

The work is being done by the company's line crews from Crookston and Red Lake Falls. Also, so that interruptions will be held to a minimum, some of the cutover will be done while lines are energized by the company's live-line crew from Twin Valley. This work is being done under the supervision of Gordon Solee, division engineer of Crookston.

Transmission and distribution changes are being made, Engen said, to keep the electric service ample for the growing electric load of the customers in St. Hilaire. The work will be completed in about one month.

Arctic Announces New Model, Record Sales

EL TIGRE is the newest addition to the Arctic Cat line of snowmobiles to be offered for 1973. The sporty styling is adopted from the 1972 EXT model and offers several high performance engine options. For other new Arctic Cat machines for 1973, see the Wednesday Times.

Record sales and earnings for the year ended March 31 and a new model snowmobile (the El Tigre) for 1973 were announced recently by Arctic Enterprises in Thief River Falls. Production is now underway on the 1973 line of Arctic Cat machines which includes five full-size models and the miniature Kitty Kat.

For fiscal 1972, the company reported net income of $6,224,320, on consolidated net sales of $125,043,943. This compares with net income of $4,703,062 on consolidated net sales of $80,236,986 for the previous fiscal year. Net income per share was $2.15 up 33 cents over net income of $1.82 per share for the previous year.

For the fourth quarter consolidated net sales totaled $17,779,659 compared with $16,858,118 in the last quarter of fiscal 1972. Net income was $189,435, or three cents per share, versus $300,826, or 11 cents per share for the same period a year ago. An increase in average outstanding common shares reduced net income per share in the fourth quarter of 1972 by approximately three cents per share. Arctic sold approximately 338,000 common shares through a public offering in July of 1971. Per share amounts are based upon 2,891,825 average outstanding shares in 1972 compared with 2,585,512 in 1971.

In announcing year-end results, Arctic president Lowell T. Swenson stated that snowmobile and related service parts sales were lower than anticipated in the fourth quarter due to the lack of snow in some key snow belt states.

"However, inventories of snowmobiles in our factory-distributor-dealer pipeline were reduced to about 14,000 at March 31, 1972, and we consider this a favorable sign," Swenson said.

A new Minnesota state income tax law which became effective July 1, 1971, also affected Arctic's net income for 1972. The higher state tax rates reduced net income by approximately seven cents per share.

General Leisure Products corporation, of Omaha, Neb., Arctic's wholly owned lawn mower and lawn tractor company, contributed net income of $70,941 or two cents per share on sales of $9,258,530 during the fourth quarter of fiscal 1972. During the fourth quarter of 1971, which included only the first two months following its acquisition, General Leisure had earnings of $115,280 or four cents per share on sales of $6,203,400.

For the full year General Leisure incurred a net loss of $494,271, or 17 cents per share, achieving first-year-of-ownership objectives.

"We believe that break-even operations are realistic during the coming year," Swenson said.

In the fourth quarter, Silverline, Inc., Arctic's boat manufactruring subsidiary, at Moorhead, contributed $1,728,755 to consolidated sales and $29,931 or one cent per share to consolidated earnings. In the same period last year, Silverline, which also manufactures Arctic's snowmobile hoods and seats, earned $22,568 or one cent per share on net sales of $1,364,777.

El Tigre Added

Four models of the sport El Tigre series combine with the Panther, Cheetah, Puma and Lynx to make the 1973 line of Arctic Cat snowmobiles the most complete in the company's history.

A flashy addition to the 1973 line is the competition-bred El Tigre. Built around Arctic's aircraft riveted aluminum chassis, El Tigre offers the competition-minded snowmobiler free-air induction, twin carburetors and tuned exhaust. Other standard equipment includes a 15" track with bonded cleats.

Re-shaped belly pans and completely re-styled hoods are features of the Panther and Cheetah. The new V-shape design on belly pans of both models allows increased structural strength. Hood designs fold into the instrument panel, enclosing the engine compartment and providing increased driver safety. Side louvers allow adequate engine cooling.

On the Panther and Cheetah, die-cast aluminum foot pads have been placed forward extending under the hood, allowing for

141 Take Part In Handicapped Children Clinic

Thief River Falls women's clubs sponsored clinics Wednesday and Thursday for handicapped children.

The clinics were held at the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls and attended by 141 people from Thief River Falls and the surrounding area. People came from Hallock, Karlstad, Stephen, Argyle, Middle River, Greenbush, Badger, Roseau, Warroad, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Red Lake Falls, Oklee, Fertile, Erskine, McIntosh, Fosston, Gonvick, Mahnomen, Williams and Baudette.

The clinic was organized in cooperation with the Crippled Children services of Minnesota and was staffed by specialists.

Bids Accepted By City Council At Meet Tuesday

Bids were accepted Tuesday by Thief River Falls city council for street improvements and water and sewer lines.

The low bid for the street improvements was from Border States Paving of Fargo in the amount of $208,135.95. The highest of the four bids submitted was $247,113.

Ewald, Wagner and Corrin of South Interantional Falls was the lowest of three firms bidding on the sewer and water project. Their bid was for $70,595. The high bid was $94,848.

The council agreed to adjust the water and sewer connection charge for Kenneth Berg, the owner of the lot behind the new off-sale liquor store. The city acquired half of his lot to build the store and decided not to charge him the full rate for half of a lot.

The council met with Frank Phillips, representative of the Teamsters union, and discussed contract proposals for city employees. The city council had requested that supervisory personnel be excluded from the bargaining unit. Phillips disagreed on listing certain persons. Agreement was reached on several of them but not on others. Those on which no agreement was reached will be presented for a hearing before a mediator for a decision. Phillips will meet with the council again at a later date.

Wanda Joy Anderson And Wayne O. Johaneson Wed

Candelabra, bouquets of white carnations, and potted palms formed the setting at the First Lutheran church in Middle River for the recent wedding of Miss Wanda Joy Anderson and Wayne O. Johaneson.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Robert Toren of Middle River and the late Victor Anderson. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johaneson.

Rev. Donald W. Fredine officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 150 relatives and friends. Mrs. Eldon Sparby was the organist. She played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Mrs. Lowell Pogatchnik as she sang, "Son of Ruth" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Calvin Anderson. She was attired in a floor-length gown of Schiffli embroidered organza over satin. The empire bodice, with a satin bow at the waistline, featured full bishop sleeves with cuffs that extended mid-way to the elbows. A wide ruffle of embroidered organza edged the skirt that flowed back into a chapel-length train. A matching bow held her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisy mums, blue carnations, babies' breath and blue ribbon streamers.

Miss Dianne Nornes of Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Mrs. Fred Brodin of this city, a cousin of the bride. They were attired in floor-length gowns of light blue nylon print, in daisy pattern, over light blue taffeta. The gowns were styled in empire fashion with short puffy sleeves and high necklines. Their headpieces were fashioned of light blue velvet streamers. Each carried a colonial bouquet of white daisy mums complemented by babies' breath, tinted blue.

The bride's personal attendant was Joyce Enerson of McIntosh.

Attending the groom were his brothers: Michael Johaneson of Paynesville as best man and Donald Johaneson of Bemidji, as groomsman. Ushers were Roger Anderson of Minneapolis, cousin of the groom, and Robert Anderson of Rapid City, S. D., brother of the bride. All wore dark blue suits with light blue shirts and white ties. A blue carnation boutonniere was worn by the groom and white carnation boutonnieres complemented the attire of the other men of the wedding party.

The mother of the bride was attired in a navy blue polyester knit princess styled dress with red and white accessories. The mother of the groom wore a lavender and gold polyester knit long-sleeve, A-line dress with beige accessories. Both wore identical corsages of double cymbidium orchids with light colored ribbons.

Special guests at the wedding were Mr and Mrs Thorval Kolden of Thief River Falls, grandparents of the bride. Mrs. Kolden's corsage featured a single cymbidium orchid.

A reception in the church parlors was hosted by the bride's mother and step-father. Serving as host and hostess were Mr and Mrs Donald Anderson, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Edward Monson, sister of the bride, registered the guests and Mary Lundquist, cousin of the bride, and Phyllis Johaneson, sister of the groom, served the punch.

The wedding cake, a four-tiered chocolate cake, highlighted the serving table. Baked and decorated by Mrs. George Severts of Middle River, it was iced in white with blue flowers and trim. The two upper tiers were supported by filigreed pillars. Topping the cake was a Christogram. Mrs. Robert Swan, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Gary Skibiki, sister of the groom, cut and served the cake. Mrs. David Givers, and Mrs. Robert Anderson, sister and sister-in-law of the bride, respectively, poured.

The fits were opened by the bride and groom, assisted by Misses Deborah Matero and Nadine Aune, friends of the bride. Fellow members of the bride's mother's church circle served the reception.

For a wedding trop to northeastern Minnesota, the bride wore a sleeveless navy blue and white striped dress with a red, white and blue belt.

The newly-weds are now at home in Thief River Falls at Greendale Manor. Both are attending Northland State Junior college. The bride is a graduate of the Middle River high school. The groom is a graduate of Goodridge high school and Alexandria Technical school and has completed four years with the United States Air Force. In addition to attending NSJC, he is employed by T & S Implement.

Jackie Haugen-Mike Olson Vows Said At St. Hilaire

Marriage vows were exchanged recently at the Calvary Lutheran church in St. Hilaire by Miss Jackie Haugen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Haugen of rural Thief River Falls, and Mike Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Carlson, also of rural Thief River Falls.

Rev. James Swanson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Lyle Hanson of this city. She was attired in a deep orange floor-length gown styled in empire fashion with long sleeves. Her grandmother's gold and topaz pin complemented the bodice. To complete her attire, she wore a white hat and carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose.

The groom was attended by his cousin Bruce Knutson of Newfolden. Both were attired in business suits with yellow boutonnieres.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in their home following the ceremony. Approximately 150 relatives and friends were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Zahl, cousins of the bride, served as reception host and hostess.

The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow roses, was cut and served by Mrs. Oliver Haugen and Mrs. Ray Ranum. Mrs. Lester Hoaas poured. All are aunts of the bride.

Cousins of the bride, Vickie Ranum and Robin Zahl served the punch as Marilyn Haugen, another cousin, presided at the guest book. At the gift table were Bonnie Cameron, Mrs. Kenny Scott, friends of the bride, and Debbie Haugen, cousin of the bride.

Relatives and friends attending were from Warren, Crookston, Erskine, East Grand Forks, Newfolden and the Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire areas.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the groom is serving with the United States Navy, stationed aboard the USS Brownson.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Harvey Deterling
Rural Thief River Falls

Today Kitchen Karnival salutes a group of Thief River Falls women who have contributed much to the welfare of children in Northwestern Minnesota. This group, the Thief River Falls Federated Women's club, has long been responsible for sponsoring local clinics for handicapped children under the age of 21. Members of the organizations have volunteered services since the present Crippled Children's Services of the Department of public Welfare, St. Paul, started the program in 1936. However, local records show that the Thief River Falls Women's clubs have assisted in child welfare clinics as far back as 1916.

In the past there was a serious misunderstanding regarding these clinics as people were under the impression that only children, receiving welfare aid were benefited. Although funds are provided by the Department of Public Welfare, these clinics are provided for all, at no cost, regardless of income. The only requisites are that children are Minnesota residents and that they are under 21 years of age. However referrals from the child's family doctor or school nurse are preferred. Specialists for the respective clinics, general (crippled children's) cardiac, and hearing and speech, are hired by the state.

For the people living in this upper northwestern part of the state, at a great distance away from specialists, these clinics are of tremendous value, in both time and money saved.

Members of the local women's clubs, the Zehlians, Laurel and DeCor clubs, volunteer their services, at these clinics take care of publicity, registrations, appointments and recruite pages and nurses to assist the Crippled Children's service staff. Many residents of Thief River Falls, who are not members of the clubs, have also assisted at these clinics, all on voluntary basis. Especially helpful have been the women in the nursing profession.

To all who have been instrumental in providing these clinics, a big Thank You. (EMS)

Our recipe today comes from Mrs. Harvey Deterling, one of the volunteers at the cardiac clinic held recently.

Never Fail Cup Cakes

pinch of salt
½ cup shortening
1½ cup flour
½ cup sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon soda dissolved in ½ cup boiling water
1 cup sugar

Method: Combine all ingredients in a bowl and beat well. Pour into paper-lined muffin tins and bake 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

For a treat for a child's birthday party or for taking to school, Mrs. Deterling uses the flat-bottom ice cream coans and fills them two-thirds full.

The Deterlings have lived in Thief River Falls for the past three years. Mr. Deterling is manager of the Municipal airport and since November, they have resided at the airport. They are former residents of New Ulm. They have two children, Lori 15, and Lisa, 10.

Mrs. Deterling is a Licensed Practical nurse, but has not worked in her profession since moving here, except for her volunteer work at the Children's clinic. She is not a member of the Women's clubs. Her hobbies are sewing, knitting and crocheting.

Alpha Xi Group Holds Final Meeting Of Term

Edith Etter of Thief River Falls, chapter president, conducted the meeting, and Donna Poole of Thief River Falls gave the invocation.

Guest speaker was Joe Crawford, doctoral candidate at University of North Dakota, who discussed political campaign techniques, women's attitudes and how they are influenced, what factors affect a political campaign, and how to overcome a candidate's handicaps.

Following his presentation the business meeting and election of officers were held. Elected were Edith Etter, Thief River Falls, president; Grace Landin, Warroad, first vice president; Eloda Knutson, Goodridge, second vice president; Florence Klima, Roseau, recording secretary; and Lily Kolczynski, Hallock, corresponding secretary. Installation of officers will be held September 23.

Plans were made for attending the state convention June 2-4 at Northfield, and several members expressed interest. Thief River Falls members will be unable to attend because June 3 is a scheduled working day for them to close the school term, but members from other schools in the area will be able to represent the chapter.

U.S. Submarine Veterans Will Hold Reunion

U.S. submarine veterans of World War II will hold their 18th annual convention and reunion of Breezy Point, Minn. August 16 through 20, 1972. Five hundred or more World War II submariners and their families (reservations are in from Maine to Hawaii, Panama to Alaska) will gather to renew old friendships and commemorate the memory of those shipmates who lost their lives in action in World War II.

The recipients of this year's scholarship awards will be announced by Rear Admiral Leon J. (Savvy) Huffman, director of the scholarship program. Several social events are planned.

Admiral Fredrick B. Warder will be the guest speaker at a banquet August 19. Admiral Warder is known by submariners of WWII days and captain of the SEAWOLF.

The Submarine service in World War II numbered less than two per cent of the U.S. Navy but accounted for 55 per cent of all enemy shipping that was destroyed. Over 5¼ million ton of enemy shipping, numbering 1,178 merchant ships and 214 enemy naval ships were sent to the bottom. Submarine losses were also high. One out of every four men who served on submarines and one-fourth of our submarines did not return from patrol. A total of 3,404 men and 52 submarines were lost.

Every man in Minnesota who served in the "Silent Service" during World War II is asked to contact either John R. Maloney, 3725 41st Ave. So., Minneapolis, Minn. 55406; or Ernest E. Carley, 1694 Hubbard Ave., St. Paul, Minn. 55104.

Assistance in establishing disability claims or gaining other veterans benefits is available without charge to any veteran through a nationwide system of veterans service officers maintained by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A portion of the cost is contributed by the public through their purchase of V. F. W. Buddy Popples.

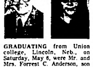
VANDALISM is too common in Thief River Falls, according to Elton Cummings, police investigator. This damage was done Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. Someone apparantly threw a piece of concrete through the rear window of a car belonging to Kenneth Finstad of 721 North Horace avenue, causing about $100 in damage.



GRADUATING from Union college, Lincoln, Neb., on Saturday, May 6, were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest C. Anderson, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Molskness of rural Thief River Falls. Both received a bachelor of science degree in elementary education and have accepted positions to teach in the Seventh Day Adventist school system in Minnetonka, beginning in the fall.

Right Turn On Red Light To Be Effective July 1

"However," said Minnesota department of public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund, "there are some limiting factors which must be observed.

"First, the driver must come to a complete stop as he normally would for any stop sign or red light.

"Second, he must yield the right of way to pedestrians and other traffic lawfully proceeding through the intersection.

"Third, the right turn on red will be prohibited at certain intersections, and these will be so marked.

"In other words, the turn is lawful, taking into account the above restrictions, at any intersection controlled with traffic signals except where the turn is prohibited by a special sign.

The prohibiting signs will be placed by engineers having jurisdiction over the various street and highway systems. These will include state, counties and certain municipalities. Some of the signs will be in place on July 1, and others will be erected throughout the year as traffic engineers study traffic movements.

Hoaglund also warned that jumping the gun on this new law is strictly unlawful and extremely dangerous, and violators will be issued traffic citations.

He also pointed out that this is strictly a Minnesota law, and does not apply in other states unless they have a similar law.

Most people lose some of their hearing ability as they reach senior citizen status. The loss of hearing due to aging, called presbycusis, can cause words to seem garbled, and high tone sounds especially hard to understand.

Minn. Farmers Big Consumers Of Meat Products

Minnesota livestock farmers rank among the nation's biggest consumers of the meat products they raise, according to Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald.

During 1971 Minnesota's farm families slaughtered and consumed the meat from 25,000 cattle and calves, 35,000 hogs and pigs, and 2,000 sheep and lambs, it is estimated by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Only neighboring Wisconsin farmers topped Minnesotans nationally in the amount of home grown beef and veal consumption. Iowa farmers ranked third in the quantity of beef and veal consumed from their own production.

Minnesota farmers also ranked ninth nationally in home consumption of pork of their own raising and 17th in home consumption of lamb and mutton raised on the farm.

Gross value of the meat animals consumed by Minnesota farm families last year was $19,264,000. That was $3,842,000 less than estimated for 1970. Commissioner Wefald noted that Minnesota had 3,000 less farm families in 1971 than in 1970, and that the rising prices on beef and falling prices on pork and mutton contributed to the drop. Farmers slaughtered 5,000 fewer beef animals for their own use in 1971, while increasing per capita consumption of the other meats.

On the basis of an estimated 40,000 hog and pig farms, 76,000 cattle and calves farms, and 11,000 sheep and lamb farms, the value of the farm raised meat products consumed by the average family on Minnesota livestock farms last year was about $207 for beef, $87 for pork and $7 for mutton and lamb.

Roseau Hosts 7th Pre-School Screening Clinic

Children, age four and under, were examined Tuesday at the seventh pre-school multi-county screening clinic at the First Baptist church in Roseau. The clinics are sponsored by the Crippled Children services of Minnesota with local arrangements for Tuesday's clinic handled by the American Legion auxiliaries from Roseau, Greenbush and Warroad.

The clinic provides free screening for speech, vision, hearing and other handicapping conditions and counseling for parents. Corrective measures can be taken more easily when a child is small than when conditions become more serious as the child gets older.

The clinic staff consisted of pediatricians, nutritionist, speech and hearing consultants, medical social workers, dental hygienist and a Minnesota public health nurse.

The next pre-school clinic will be held in Roseau Aust 29.

Record Turkey Crop Only 2nd In Gross Income

Minnesota farmers produced a record 18,420,000 turkeys in 1971 to keep this state's national championship for the number of turkeys raised, but had to settle for the second best gross income from turkeys in Minnesota history, according to Agriculture Commissioner Jon Wefald.

Gross income was estimated by the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture at $66,455,000. That was down $1,475,000 from the previous record set in 1970, although Minnesota raised 154,000 turkeys and 4,398,000 pounds liveweight more than the prior record also set in 1970.

Commissioner Wefald said the reason for the lower income was an eight-tenths of one cent per pound drop in the average price to 21.6 cents for turkeys in 1971. He said that if the 1970 prior average had been maintained in 1971, the gross income of Minnesota turkey growers would have been $2,460,912 greater than that realized for the 307,614,000-pounds gross live weight.

Minnesota continued its established duel with California for national turkey honors. California repeated as champion for total poundage of turkeys produced, topping Minnesota by 13,285,000 pounds, although Minnesota produced 1,619,000 more birds.

Minnesota produced 15.3 per cent of the total number and 13.6 per cent of the total poundage of turkey in the nation last year. California produced 14 per cent of the birds and 14.2 per cent of the poundage. California growers also grossed nearly $4 million more because of a higher average price, 21.9 cents a pound.

In addition to leading all states in total turkeys Minnesota leads in the production of the light breeds of turkey popular year around with consumers. Last year Minnesota growers produced 39 per cent of the nation's supply of these average family size birds. California dominates in the heavy breeds, 15.3 per cent of the U.S. supply.

Commissioner Wefald also noted that the 12 midwest states provide 42.8 per cent of the nation's turkeys, and grossed $204,207,000 last year, 40.7 per cent of U.S. turkey industry gross income.

31 States Now Have Anti-Bald Tire Regulations

Chairman of the tire industry safety council said today that strict enforcement of anti-bald tire laws and regulations now in effect in 31 states and the District of Columbia would yield great benefits to motorists by increasing highway safety.

"The rules were put on the books to remove from the highways those worn out and damaged tires most likely to contribute to accidents," chairman Ross R. Ormsby declared. "But like any other legal safety measures they are only as effective as the enforcing agencies make them."

Both industry and government safety experts define a bald tire as one with tread worn down to 1-16 inch as measured in two or more adjacent grooves.

In addition the District of Columbia, states with either a law or regulation against bald tires are Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming. California and South Carolina require 1-32 inch as a minimum tread groove depth.

States which have a requirement that tires be in "safe operating condition" but do not specify a minimum legal tread depth are: Arkansas, Hawaii, Idaho, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri and West Virginia.

Federal regulations require all passenger car tires manufactured since Aug. 1, 1968 to have built-in tread wear indicators. Commonly called "wear bars," these warnings appear as smooth bands across the tread face when the tire has worn down to 1-16 inch groove depth.

"Studies show tires cause less than one per cent of all highway accidents," Ormsby explained, "but in more than half of these cases the tires were bald or worn to the cord. And studies also show a tire in this condition is 44 times more likely to suffer disablement than a new tire.

"Naturally, we hope the other states will consider adopting specific tire safety regulations, following the industry and government guidelines for minimum safe tread depth.

"But I repeat, any state already banning dangerous tires must follow through with more than token enforcement if we're going to have safer highways," he said.

Crichton Will Head Jaycees At Red Lake Falls

Red Lake Falls Jaycees elected officers recently at a dinner meeting. Selected were Les Crichton, president; Ernest Tougas; vice president; Al Hanson, state director; Terry Schultz, secretary-treasurer; and Bill Walsh, external projects director. All offices are for one year terms except Walsh's is for two years.

Mike Hendrix is the internal projects director with one year remaining of a two year term.

Driving with worn tires can cost more than the price of replacements. In one year almost 25% of fatal accidents along the Pennsylvania Turnpike were caused by tire troubles.

Ada Youth Wins Cancer Society Poster Contest

An 11 year - old Ada, Norman county, sixth grader was awarded first place Thursday in the 1972 Minnesota poster contest on the health hazards of smoking, sponsored by the Minnesota division of the American cancer society.

United States' egg production hit a record high of 71.6 billion eggs during 1971, up two per cent from the previous high (of 70.0 billion) produced during 1970.

Farmers' Share Of Food Dollar Varies Greatly

Who gets the consumer's food dollar?

The farmer gets part of it and the rest goes to food marketing agencies. In 1971 the farmer's share varied from 67 cents of every dollar spent for butter at retail to eight cents of every dollar spent for corn flakes.

This information comes from the department of agriculture, which collects and publishes data on farm and retail prices for a "market basket" of 65 farm products.

In general the farmer's share of the consumer's dollar is greater for animal products than it is for crops. Because animals require more inputs on the farm than do crops, their farm value is higher. Thus, the farmer received 65 cents of every consumer dollar spent on choice beef in 1971 and 32 cents of every dollar spent on long grain rice.

The farmer's share is also affected by the amount of processing required to market a product. Only eight cents of every dollar spent on whole wheat bread last year went to the farmer.

The cost of distributing fruits and vegetables affects the farmer's share of a consumer dollar spent for these products. He received 30 cents of every dollar spent on lemons last year and 36 cents of every dollar spent on lettuce.

For each dollar spent on the entire range of products in the market basket last year, the farmer received 38 cents. In the past 25 years his share has ranged from 52 cents of every dollar in 1947 to 37 cents in 1964.

The farmer pays his costs and taxes from his share of the consumer dollar and the remainder is a return to his labor, mangagement and equity capital, according to Paul Hasbargen, University of Minnesota extension farm management specialist.

Power lawnmowers can relieve the lawn care burden of homeowners, but some machines also can produce an excessively high noise level, subjecting the user to a potential hearing ability hazard. Use of properly fitted ear plugs by operators of power mowers is suggested.

Want To Hear War Protesters? Call 376-7499

War protesters at the University of Minnesota are seeking to broaden their base of support through a "people's referendum" campaign and a speakers bureau organized to explain the students' views of the Indochina war and the recent violence on the Minneapolis campus.

"A lot of people appear concerned about what has happened on campus and don't understand it," according to Jeanne Stevens, an organizer of the speakers bureau.

Miss Stevens, a senior from Minneapolis, said speakers will present slides and films on the war as well as their views of the behavior of Minneapolis police on campus last week.

"The speakers bureau will provide people who want to go to speak with church groups, in living rooms and high schools," she said. "Any group, even a group of neighbors, can ask for a speaker."

Numbers to call for the speakers bureau are 376-7499 or 373-2545. Miss Stevens can also be contacted by mail at 225 Coffman Memorial Union on the Minneapolis campus.

The "people's referendum" is an effort, begun several months ago by the Honeywell Project and Clergy and Laymen Concerned, to get three propositions on a Minnesota statewide ballot.

The first proposition- the total and immediate withdrawal of American men, machines and money from Indochina was endorsed by Gov. Wendell Anderson following President Nixon's recent announcement of the mining of North Vietnamese harbors.

The other propositions call for "conversion of the U.S. economy from dependence on war and war production to a peace-oriented economy" and that this conversion be "planned and supervised by democratically elected councils of workers from affected industries."

The groups working for the people's referendum are urging constituents to contact their state legislators in support of the proposal.

A defense fund has been established for the people who were arrested during police-student clashes last week on campus. The movement legal defense fund has been established at the University National Bank and supporters say they have raised $1,900 so far.

During 1970, Americans spent $114 billion for food, accounting for some 16 per cent of their disposable income. If American consumers were spending the same percentage of their take-home pay today as they did 20 years ago, they would be spending in the range of $40 billion more for food per year.

Several safety and operational improvements are integral in the design of all 1973 Arctic Cat machines. In addition to a handlebar mounted emergency shut-off switch on all models, an emergency switch that automatically kills the engine if the throttle linkage sticks is integral within the electrical system. Wrap-around tail lights and larger side and rear reflectors are featured on all models except the Lynx. A 100-watt alternator assures efficient lighting when an engine is idling. A new internal drive system makes power transfer to the two-thirds cleated track more efficient.

Overall handling of the Panther, Cheetah, Puma and El Tigre is enhanced by shock valves mounted within the suspension system. Each model also offers shock mounted skis.

All models have waterproof wiring and a handlebar mounted light dimmer switch. A new, staggered two-thirds cleat design is common to all models but El Tigre. A spill tray protects the foam padded seat from the gas tank on all models except the Lynx.

Body specifications on the Panther and Cheetah have increased in 1973. Overall length of the Panther has increased to 88½" from 84" and the width to 34" from 31". Track area is 17" x 50" and the height 29", same as in 1972.

The 1973 Cheetah is 84" long, compared to 80½" on the 1972 model. The width has increased to 34" from 31", while the track area of 17" x 39" and the height of 29" have remained the same. El Tigre specifications are comparable to those of the Cheetah, with machine length measuring 84", width 34", height 29" and track area 15" x 39".

The 1973 Puma and Lynx are 74" long, 31" wide, 29" tall and have a track area of 17" x 30".

Engine options available for 1973 models include 340, 400 and 440 Arctic Cat-Kawasakis in the Cheetah and a 440 in the Puma. Four El Tigre models, 250, 340 400 and 440, feature free-air induction. Panther options include a 295 Wankel, and 340, 400 and 440 Arctic Cat-Kawasakis. The Lynx is available only with a 292 Arctic Cat-Kawasaki.

Torque sensitive clutches performance matched to each engine are standard on all 1973 Arctic Cat machines, along with twin-pad caliper brakes and a reinforced fiberglas track. Storage compartments are located in the back cushion of the Cheetah, Puma, El Tigre and Lynx and in the center console of the Panther.

Farmers Receive 38 Cents Of Each Food Dollar Spent

Farmers received 38 cents of every food dollar spent by consumers last year. Where did the rest of that dollar (62 cents) go?

It went, says the U.S. department of agriculture, to all those agencies moving products from farm to consumer. The difference between the retail cost and farm value of a product (the "farm-retail spread") represents the costs, taxes and profits of processors, wholesalers and retailers.

The farm-retail spread, sometimes called the marketing margin or marketing charge, has increased almost steadily since World War II. This widening gap between prices paid by consumers and returns to farmers reflects the fact that it is becoming increasingly expensive to move food products from farm to table.

Why? Labor costs are part of the answer. About half the total costs of food-marketing firms (excluding raw materials) are for labor. Hourly wages in the food industry have increased every year since 1947. Last year employees in the industry were paid an average wage of $3.23 per hour, more than three times the 1947 rate. This development in food-marketing firms is in line with wage increases in similar occupations in the rest of the economy.

Fringe benefits for laborers in the food industry have been increasing at a faster rate than have earnings. These benefits include social security contributions, compensation for injuries and contributions to private pension funds.

Increases in wages in the food industry have been partly offset by growth in output per man-hour. Machines and larger, more efficient establishments have replaced the laborer and smaller, less efficient plants to a degree. This development, however, has meant the growth of depreciation, insurance, interest and maintenance costs.

Transportation costs are another factor in the farm-retail spread. They vary widely, depending upon shipping distance, perishability and bulk. According to the USDA, charges for transportating fresh fruits and vegetables may average 21 per cent of the spread, while those for transporting processed dairy products may be as low as five to nine per cent. For the past 25 years, transportation costs, overall, have stayed between eight and 10 per cent of the farm-retail spread.

Food-marketing firms buy a number of services from non-farm businesses. Costs for packaging materials, fuel, power, light, office and restaurant supplies, rents, telephone, auto repair and other items make up about one-fourth of the spread between farm and retail prices. Charges for these goods and services have increased steadily since World War II, as have interest rates on loans and prices of new plants and equipment.

Profits in the food industry, measured as a percentage of stockholders' equity, are close to profits for all manufacturing corporations. In 1971 industry profits were 11 per cent compared to 9.7 per cent for all manufacturing corporations.

Corporate profits in the food industry have been above 10 per cent every year since 1964, after 14 years of profits below that level.

The major costs in the farm-retail spread (labor, transportation, goods and services) are relatively inflexible, says the USDA. Labor contracts fix the wages of employees in the industry and the rates change only when contracts are renegotiated.

Transportation rates and charge for utilities (electricity, telephone, telegraph) are fixed by the government and are changed only upon application and after public hearings. Rents normally change only after leases expire.

Thus, the farm-retail spread, or marketing margin, is less flexible from year to year than are farm and retail prices. These prices fluctuate in response to changes in supply and demand. Prices also show seasonal patterns. Fresh fruits and vegetables, for example, are priced highest in late spring and early summer, when quantities marketed are at a seasonal low.

Because of the relatively fixed nature of marketing costs, farm prices are on the whip end of changes in food prices, says Paul Hasbargen, University of Minnesota extension farm management specialist. A relatively small percentage change in food prices will be associated with a much larger percentage change in farm prices if marketing costs do not change, he adds.

HEALTH is a serious matter and it includes the ability to hear. Tested during Thursday's hearing and speech clinic held at the United Methodist church in Thief River Falls, Lisa Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson of Roseau, and four years old on Friday concentrated to hear the tone produced by an audiometer operator by Don Ogston, a hearing consultant from Duluth with Minnesota's health department. Lisa had been instructed to take a toy out of the container when she heard a sound in the earphones. This is a system used with younger children who might not understand other instructions. The clinic was sponsored by the Thief River Falls women's clubs in cooperation with the Crippled Children services.

Bergland Asks Hearings About Intent Of Law

In a letter to the chairman of the House small business committee this week, U.S. Rep. Bob Bergland called for oversight hearings to investigate the impact of enforcing occupational safety legislation on small businesses.

Rep. Bergland emphasized that "it is not the provisions of the bill—necessary to insure the health and safety of workers throughout the country—but the apparent arbitrary interpretation of the law which requires investigation."

Congressman Bergland explained: "It is my view that changes in the law are not necessary and I would not be a part of any effort which would contribute to unsafe working conditions. It is apparent, however, that the secretary of labor has abused his power to administer the current law and has arbitrarily intruded in the affairs of small businessmen by enforcing rules that go far beyond common sense."

The congressman asked for an immediate hearing "to sort fact from fiction" and to "make clear the intent of the law—to protect workers" while "determining the extent to which the labor department has overstepped its authority and interfered with the livelihood of small businessmen and their employees."

Safety Belt Use To Be Promoted In New Campaign

A new, summer-long traffic safety campaign emphasizing the use of safety belts will start with the Memorial day weekend and continue through Labor day, Minnesota department of public safety Commissioner W. R. Hoaglund announced today.

The program is sponsored jointly by the public safety department, the Minnesota state automobile association, and the Minnesota safety council.

Theme of the campaign will be "Are You Putting Me On?" patterned after a successful program initiated by the state of Wisconsin. In addition to reminders to motorists through the news media, public message boards and other means of communication, a large supply of small stickers will be distributed for placement on dashboards of all vehicles. These will be distributed over major holiday weekends by the American Legion, the Minnesota motor transport association, local law enforcement officials and the three sponsoring organizations.

"Special efforts to encourage motorists to buckle up are not new," Hoaglund said today. "We have concentrated on this theme many times in the past, because documented studies definitely show that hundreds of lives could be saved in Minnesota alone each year if safety belts were used for all trips.

"People have all kinds of reasons for not using safety belts, but none of them hold water. The main reason for non-use is that people just don't want to be bothered with that fraction of a second required to buckle up. When you think about all of the crippling injuries and deaths that could be avoided by buckling up, it's difficult to realize that more people don't take advantage of this simple, economical device."

Use Care When Selecting Paint For Most Safety

If painting is part of your spring clean-up campaign, select your paints with safety in mind and use them with care, advises state fire marshal E. L. Weber. "Water base paints have taken much of the fire hazard out of painting, but you have to be sure you know what you are getting. Read the label with care. Choose, if possible, a product labeled "non-combustible" or "non-flammable."

"Next best choice is the product labeled 'caution—combustible'. Try to avoid altogether the product that is marked 'Warning—Flammable' or 'Danger—Extremely Flammable'. Give special attention to floor finishes, thinners, solvents and removers.

"Use products with the flammable warning only in well ventilated places where there is no exposure to open flames, electric heaters and other sources of ignition. Remember that highly violatile products can spread gases for substantial distances, pick up flames and cause destructive fires.

"Be especially careful with any rugs used on your job, and take extreme care with oily rugs. They should always be disposed of after use, either by burning in a safe incinerator or by storage in covered metal cans, kept outside and clear of other flammable materials. Such rags are a frequent source of fire through spontaneous combustion."

That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Adult At What Age?

Not so very long ago when the push was on for lowering the voting age to 18 years, we noted that the next push would be for making 18 the legal age for such things as purchasing alcoholic beverages. In some states and in neighboring Canada, that step backward has already been taken—not without some serious second thoughts.

There are some very intelligent, mature and well-balanced people at age 18 who are worthy of being considered adults. They are willing to shoulder the responsibility of adulthood and make a worth while contribution to society. By the same token, there are many older peole of all ages who never have grown up and will display immaturity at every opportunity.

We go along with Dave Gallagher of the Montevideo American-News when he writes as follows:

Judging that point at which a person becomes useful or beneficial to society is as arbitrary as judging when he is no longer of any use, the situation encountered so often when mandatory retirement age is discussed.

When the voting age was lowered in Minnesota, this writer supported the legislation for a number of reasons. Although there are probably a number of people now rowing the same boat, the problem of how far adulthood extended was not immediately considered.

Wisconsin is finding its law establishing the legal age at which one can take an adult status troublesome to say the very lesast. Wisconsin's problem is confined for the moment, or at least spotlighted for the moment, on teenage drinkers.

A 20-year-old Minnesota girl recently said over a drink in Wisconsin: "I think the new law is great because Minnesota minors never have anything to do."

Her implication is clear. Because Minnesota provides nothing for its youth to do, they can all drive to Wisconsin for a beer or two. Were it not so tragic, the reasoning would be thigh-slappingly humorous.

To suggest that drinking at 18 is a cure for all those idle hours of youth somehow doesn't ring true. There is more to adulthood than voting and there is certainly more to life than booze.

If the young Minnesotan's reaction to the 18-year-old majority in Wisconsin is at all widespread or accurate, then perhaps they are not ready for adulthood. For, obviously, they have much to learn about becoming responsible citizens.

Wendy's Tax Relief?

Following comments are from the Brownton Bulletin:

During the past week residents of Minnesota have had reason to think back to the 1970 campaign for governor. It may be recalled that Governor Wendell Anderson got elected with a TV campaign which featured a sincere look and the pledge that "The named Wendell Anderson will never be signed to a bill which increases your real estate taxes."

Wendell was right. He did not put his name to such a bill. It is true that he signed a bill which took a whole lot more from state taxpayers in the form of a 33 per cent increase in the state sales tax, increases of from 12 per cent to 25 per cent in the state income tax—the highest state income tax in the nation—plus putting many items under the sales tax that had not previously been there. Yes, this he did—but he did not sign a bill that would raise our real estate taxes.

Not so fast, you might say. . .what about the increases we are now being told on the assessed valuations of our real estate. No, no, Wendell said he wouldn't sign a bill that would increase your taxes. Sure, by increased assessed valuations taxes go up, but Mr. Anderson didn't sign a bill that raised them!

Well, maybe you are right. Our taxes will go up. For if—as McLeod county assessor WesAbram told the Bulletin last week—residential property in the village of Brownton will have an increased valuation of 10 per cent, we will have to pay more taxes without raising the mill levies. One hundred fifty mills of $19,000 is surely greater than 150 mills of $17,100! Yeah, by gosh, that darn Wendell Anderson and his tax department is trying to pull the wool over our eyes. Not only did the state sales tax and the state income tax go up—and by healthy percentages, too—but our 1972 real estate tax bill is going to be a lot higher than in 1971.

Now what was that you were telling us during the campaign, Wendy?

Blocking Highways Won't End War

Comment on demonstrations against the U. S. government recently was made as follows in the Walsh County Record at Grafton, N. D.:

Will blocking intersections and highways help bring an end to the war in Viet Nam? We doubt it. In fact, it will probably have quite the opposite effect.

A few students blocked an intersection at Grand Forks following the announcement of President Nixon's decision to mine North Vietnamese harbors. They were arrested and a couple of them accepted jail sentences rather than pay the assessed fines. They've drawn the sympathy of others, including non-students, in spite of the fact that they broke the law, caused inconvenience to motorists and showed utter disrespect for law enforcement officials.

While it was only a minor incident at Grand Forks, things were worse at the University of Minnesota where the students blocked a main highway for several days.

Such actions throughout the country show the North Vietnamese there is opposition to President Nixon's policy in the United States and will undoubtedly make them more determined than ever to continue the war.

Americans in all walks of life of course want the war to end. Bocking intersections and highways won't do it. If a blockade of the harbors stop war material from getting through it seems logical that the war can be ended.

In spite of the action of the anti-war demonstrators it seems that as if the great majority of Americans feel that the President has taken a step which should have been taken several years ago.

I Am Your Customer

When business is good and businessmen are busy about their tasks, it is easy to forget the common courtesies which customers have the right to expect from people with whom they do business. The reminder is brought home quite pointedly in this item carried recently in the Kittson County Enterprise at Hallock:

You often accuse me of carrying a chip on my shoulder—but I suspect that this is because you do not entirely understand me. Isn't it normal to expect satisfaction for one's money spent?

Ignore my wants and I simply will cease to exist. Satisfy those wants and I become increasingly loyal. Add to this satisfaction, any personal attention and friendly touches you can dream up—and I will become a walking advertisement for your service.

When I criticize your service—which I will certainly do when I am displeased and to anyone who will listen to me—take heed. I'm not dreaming up displeasure—the source of it lies in something you have failed to do to make our experience as enjoyable as I had anticipated. Let's first find that source and eliminate it or you will lose me—and my friends as well.

I'm much more sophisticated these days than I was a few years ago. I have grown accustomed to better things, and my needs are more complex. I am perfectly willing to spend more money with you—I have more money to spend—but I insist on good service from you.

I am, above all, a human being. I am sensitive—especially when I am spending my money. I can't stand being snubbed, ignored or looked down upon. I am proud. My ego needs the nourishment of a friendly, personal greeting from you. It's important to me that you recognize my importance—that you appreciated my business. Remember, when I buy your services, my money is feeding you.

Whatever my personal habits might be, you can be sure of this—I am a real nut on the type of service that I receive. If I detect signs of carelessness or other bad habits, ill manners or misconduct, you won't see me again.

I am your customer now, but you must prove to me again and again that I have made a wise choice in selecting your services over others. And you must also convince me repeatedly that being your customer is a desirable thing in the first place. I can, after all, put my business elsewhere. But you must provide something extra in service—something superior enough to beckon me away from other places where I might spend money. You must provide the incentive for me to do business with you. And now, sir—do we understand each other?

Interesting Opinions

"When people do not respect us we are sharply offended; yet deep down in his private heart no man much respects himself." —Mark Twain

"No one ever feels helpless by the side of the self-helper; whilst the self-sacrificer is always a drug, a responsibility, a reproach, an everlasting and unnatural trouble with whom no really strong soul can live. Only those who have helped themselves know how to help others, and to respect their right to help themselves." George Bernard Shaw

The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

The President, with courageous statesmanship, showed the world a week ago that the U.S. has not lost its honor. Polls taken since then have showed over 70 per cent of the people supported him. This does not mean that these people want the war to continue any more than those who protest. It does mean that, faced with reality, there was nothing else the President could do. A swift withdrawl could have meant many American lives before our forces could have left. This action is not a matter of fighting for victory. That was settled years ago. In fact, when our country decided not to win in Korea, the ground work was laid for the defeat in Viet Nam. When a surgeon is confronted with a malignant tumor, he tries to cut it out. If he doesn't, there is no medicine or cure for the disease. In other words, he must go to the source of the trouble. In Viet Nam, the trouble is in North Viet Nam. The decision was made back in the Kennedy Administration and carried through in the Johnson years to gradually escalate a no win war. The chance to choose victory has long since passed.

What we must do now is to really understand the revolutionary at home and elsewhere. As Senator McCarthy stood on the steps of the Coffman Union at the University of Minnesota last week, some insight might be gained by noting a few facts. He stood on a stage with the U.S. flag being flown upside down. He told the crowd before him to block more roads and do anything else necessary to make their anti-U.S. position known. The enemy abroad is characterized by dictatorships that have kept their power through a party which represents less than 10 per cent of the population. This is true in North Viet Nam and others such as China and Russia. The leaders did not get their power through popularity, but through murder, intrigue and terror.

Coming back to the enemy at home, it is obvious it is helped by our news coverage. Our national news media is often not favorably inclined toward the U.S. point of view. This is their right, and it is also our right to be sympathetic toward our own cause. Many people both in and out of government go along with this international attitude which questions patriotism toward the U.S. It is ironic to see this when China, for example, is becoming very nationalistic.

Actually, the action of the President might be just what the South Vietnamese needed to bolster their courage and will to fight. If this is true, the offensive can be stopped. We will have to hope this is true. We will have to pray that what is right will prevail. It should teach us a lesson which Korea apparently did not do. On "Issues and Answers" last Sunday, West Pakistan President Bhutto stated it well when asked what would best preserve the peace, "Peace is best preserved when the U.S. is armed to the teeth." He knows because he has just lost a war fought against Soviet tanks and planes. What will it take for us to learn?

Now that the eulogies have been said for FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, there is little one can add to describe his great contributions to America. There are two characteristics he consistently portrayed, however, that one could quite proudly defend. One is his basic morality and faith in God, the other is his unfailing loyalty to his Commander in Chief in the White House.

His pastor paid him the highest spiritual tribute by quoting from 2 Timothy 4 which says, "I have fought the good fight. I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." The fact that every one of his last eight presidents have spoken highly of him tells of his loyalty to each one of them.

Although criminals must have feared and hated him, the remotest hint of a police state was always dispelled by the way the FBI operated. The basic function of the FBI was not only to run down criminals or traitors or foreign agents. It was to be sure the information was right and would bear the scrutiny of a court of law. Its operation did not include prosecution. That again was strictly left to the courts. In long history of any similar organization run by a single man. Also, for such a far flung and powerful investigating agency as the FBI, there has never been a little hint of brutality or wrong doing. The record is truly remarkable.

Mr. Hoover often spoke of his faith in God when he warned America of the subversive nature of communism. This was natural for him because he felt the real understanding of the revolutionary forces comes through a personal knowledge of a faith in Christ. This philosophy colored his steadfast hostility toward evil, whether in the common criminal or in the radical left politically.

Mr. Hoover never spoke critically of his immediate Commander in Chief. This would be a breach of his own code of loyalty. Whether he agreed with all eight presidents is questionable, but the world never heard about it. It would be treasonable to him to condemn the President for his stand in foreign policy. It would be shameful beyond description for any of his speeches to be used by enemies of his country to torture or brain wash his own country's prisoners of war. It would be unthinkable for him to use the semantics of the radical left to condemn the Commander in Chief for his conduct of the war in Viet Nam. These examples of dangerous poor taste were not part of his nature. It was obvious throughout his long life of service that he loved his country and the freedom it provided for those who chose to live under the law.

Many of us have become disillusioned when one of our heroes have failed to measure up to what we think they should. Our faith in ideals has been weakened more than once by such failures. This was one man who measured up and kept the faith. For this America is grateful.

Modern-day Huck Finns and Tom Sawyers have found these floating homes to be a convenient, relaxing means of vacationing. Many houseboats have carpeting in the living room, paneled walls, built-in appliances, hot and cold water, refrigeration, toilets, comfortable bedrooms, built-in stereos, and kitchen and dining facilities. Some even have television.

Bays, islands, streams and wilderness sites await exploration by houseboaters in Minnesota. Sandy beaches offer fine swimming and thousands of fishing spots are available. Houseboat sun decks provide play areas for children and adults alike.

Houseboats can be rented almost any place in Minnesota. They range from the family-size floating home to the executive-size lodge designed to accommodate 14 or more persons. Executive houseboats usually have a two-man crew (including a cook) both of whom know the lake-or-river-and-can-tell-you where to fish, swim and anchor safely for the night. They are skilled guides with plenty of experience in boating.

Rates range, depending on the boat size and length of the rental period, from $140 to $500 per week. Fully detailed rate cards are available to aid in planning a houseboat vacation budget.

Rental agents say houseboats are extremely safe, even in heavy storms and when manned by inexperienced boatmen. Fundamental instruction in boat operation is offered the novice before he's permitted to leave port.

Parents should feel free, agents claim, to take children aboard houseboats for a vacation. Houseboats are no more confining than most summer homes, hotel rooms or motel units, they contend, and offer dawn - to dusk adventure for the youngsters.

A free list of houseboat rental agents in Minnesota is available by writing to: Discovery, Vacation Information Bureau, 51 East 8th Street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101. This could just be that unusual vacation idea you've been waiting for.

Prowlers Easily Capture Quent Jones Invitational Track Meet

Thief River Falls won ten of sixteen events Saturday to easily capture the Quentin Jones - Jaycee invitational track title over an eleven-team field on the Prowler track.

The Prowlers managed to score in every event to total 106 points for their efforts, finishing far ahead of second place East Grand Forks with 47 points. The triumph marked the third straight Jaycee invitational title for the Prowlers after Bemidji won the first annual meet in 1969.

Rounding out the field were Fertile and Fosston with 23 points, Ada 13, Roseau, Stephen and Warren with 12, Hallock 8, Newfolden 2 and Warroad with 1. A field of 18 teams was originally scheduled to compete in the meet May 6, but forced postponment because of cold weather trimmed the field to eleven.

Five new meet records were set Saturday, including four record breaking performances by Prowler runners.

The Prowler sprint medley squad of Steve Beich, Jon Markstrom, Mike Fitzgerald and Don Reierson broke Warroad's 1969 standard of 3:59.1 with a 3:47.5 clocking. Individual marks were set by Paul Battleson with a 2:01.5 in the 880, breaking the 2:05.6 mark of Warroad's Frank Grahn set in 1969; by Mike Fitzgerald with a 52.8 in the 440, bettering the 54.1 of Bemidji's Brad Wubbells set in 1971, and by Greg Bulger with a 4:45.4 mile, breaking the 4:51.4 standard set by Kim Murphy of Thief River Falls last year.

The only other record broken in Saturday's meet was in the pole vault competition where Rip Thompson of East Grand Forks cleared 11-7 to break the 11-6 mark set by Curt Johnson of "East Side" in 1970.

Junior sprinter Markoe Hanson was the meet's only double winner as the Prowler speedster ran a 10.7 in the 100 and a 24.8 in the 220 to take home two first place ribbons.

Other first places claimed by the Prowlers included performances by Rande Smith in the shot put (45-9), Doug Aaseby in the 120-yard high hurdles (17.0), the 880 relay team (1:36.0), Jerry Sandahl in the 180-yard low hurdles (22.6) and Kent Smith in the long jump (19-6).

Prowlers End Regular Baseball Season 12-4

Ralph Skay's Lincoln high school baseball squad came up with the big plays at the right times Friday to edge Crookston 3-1 on the Pirate diamond to end their regular season with an impressive 12-4 record.

The win over the Pirates climaxed a busy week for the Prowlers who had beaten Roseau (5-4), Oslo (7-1), Alvarado (24-6) and Climax (17-2) while losing to Red Lake Falls (13-12) during the week.

Crookston quickly tied the game in the bottom of the first however, as lead-off batter Scott Wheelhouse singled and scored all the way from first on a long single by Pirate pitcher Kyle Pearson.

Clauson led off the Pirate sixth when he reached first, and advanced to third base on a pair of throwing errors on the same play. Pearson lofted a high fly ball to center field, with Clauson tagging up at third. Almquist fired a perfect strike from the outfield after the catch, and Peterson managed to hold onto the ball after a head-ringing collision at the plate.
